Ohio auto accidents claim 18

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eighteen persons, including five on motorcycles, died on Ohio highways this past weekend.

Two teen-agers died in Washington County Sunday night when their motorcycle collided with a car on Ohio 821. Single fatality accidents involving motorcycles also occurred in Scioto, Licking and Perry counties.

Two double-fatality crashes involving automobiles in Columbiana and Brown counties helped to push the traffic toll higher.

The traffic count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended midnight Sunday.

The dead:

FRIDAY NIGHT

EAST LIVERPOOL — Harriet V. Schreckengost, 63, of New Castle, Pa., and James Halloren, 14, Petersburg, Ohio, in a two-car collision on Ohio 170 in Columbiana County.

RAVENNA — William R. Hayhurst, 23, Ravenna, when he lost control of his car and crashed on Ohio 59 one-half mile west of Ravenna.

SATURDAY

PORTSMOUTH — Marvin L. Morgan, 21, West Portsmouth, when two motorcycles collided on a county road west of Ohio 239 in Scioto County.

NEWARK — Lawrence R. Porter, 37, Johnstown, in a motorcycle-car collision on Ohio 37 near Alexander.

GEORGETOWN — George King Jr., 39, and his wife, Doris, 32, Blanchard, in a one-car wreck on a Brown County road about three miles west of U.S. 50.

NEW LEXINGTON — Jerry Bresock, 23, Zanesville, when his motorcycle skidded down an embankment along U.S. 22 about two miles east of Somerset.

CHILLICOTHE — Donald Cozad, 45, Ray in Jackson County, in a one-car accident on Egypt Pike Road in Ross County.

GIRARD — Diane Toth, 27, McDonald, in a three-car accident on Watson-Marshall Road in Trumbull County.

CHILLICOTHE — John P. Hurley, 51, Chillicothe, in a single-car accident near Chillicothe.

SUNDAY

MILFORD — John Denny, 18, Milford, in a single-car accident at the intersection of Ohio 48 and Fay Road in Clermont County.

MARIETTA — James R. Pryor, 19, and John S. Archer, 17, both of Lower Salem, when their motorcycle collided with a car on Ohio 821 at Washington County Road 11.

Many arrests follow Iraqi coup attempt

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Scores of arrests were reported in Iraq today after the assassination of Defense Minister Maj. Gen. Hammad Shihab in an apparent attempt to overthrow the country's leftist regime.

The 95,000-man Iraqi army was put on alert as tanks and armored cars took up positions around the capital of Baghdad, according to reports reaching Beirut.

The defense minister was slain near the Iranian border early Sunday in a shootout between the leaders of an abortive coup and loyal troops. He was given a state funeral today in Baghdad, the Iraqi state radio reported in a terse broadcast.

Reports in the Beirut press said Saddam Hussein Takriti, who is vice chairman of the ruling Revolutionary Command Council, personally led the troops and security forces that crushed the attempted coup against the Baathist socialist regime.

Baghdad announced Sunday that "a clique of traitors" led by the Iraqi Security Director Nazim Kazzar killed the defense minister and wounded Interior Minister Saadum Ghaydan. Both Shihab and Ghaydan were members of the ruling 15-member command council.

The killing occurred a few hours after President Ahmed Hassan el Bakr returned from state visits to Bulgaria and Poland. Diplomatic reports from Jordan said Kazzar, Shibab and Ghaydan were not at the traditional airport reception for the president.

Bakr's socialist government has strengthened relations with the Soviet Union and other European Communist countries and has received strong aid from the Soviets.

Egypt's Middle East News Agency quoted an official statement from Baghdad that Kazzar invited Shihab and Ghaydan to a banquet Saturday night and sprang a trap on them and other officials.

Dollar drops value again in Europe

LONDON (AP) — The dollar weakened again in Europe today, despite moves late last week that were supposed to help the U.S. currency.

The dollar dropped sharply in Frankfurt, Zurich and Paris. It inched ahead in London.

Dealers said, however, that trading was slow at the outset. There were no early signs of monetary crisis. Gold, which often moves erratically higher in times of monetary uncertainty, was unchanged in London and Zurich, the two biggest markets, in early trading.

In Frankfurt, the dollar opened at 2.4175 German marks, down from 2.4250.

The mark was revalued upward by 5.5 per cent against seven other European currencies last week, and interest rates in the United States were raised. Both moves should have helped the dollar today, but instead the decline continued.

Lamb Queen crowned

BRENDA STOCKWELL

Brenda Stockwell, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Stockwell, Rt. 3, was chosen Fayette County Lamb Queen for 1973 Saturday night at the Shepherds Club annual family night at the Dan Schlichter residence, Prairie Rd.

As Lamb Queen, she will participate in sheep activities at the Fayette County Fair and will represent the Shepherds Club at other activities throughout the year.

Miss Stockwell, a member of 4-H for eight years, is a student at Miami Trace High School. She has been a member of Student Council, National Honor Society, Future Business Leaders, the symphonic band, marching band and choir.

Other contestants for the Lamb Queen crown were Debbie Wehner, Leah Welsh and Betsy Hartman. Each contestant was required to submit a written essay on some phase of the sheep industry. Selection of the queen was based on the essay, participation in school and community activities and the poise and personality of the candidates.

Price freeze to be short, Nixon says

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Attempting to reassure both businessmen and housewives, President Nixon promises a "short as possible" price freeze and foresees relief against high food prices.

Although complaints of grocery buyers have been claiming the greatest public attention, many businessmen say they are barred from making future plans because of continuing uncertainty over Phase 4 wageprice controls.

In a radio address broadcast Sunday, Nixon said, "We have been determined from the outset to keep the freeze as short as possible" — an indication he may disclose his new economic game plan before the 60-day price freeze expires on Aug. 13.

Nixon said a temporary freeze on all except raw food prices at the farm level was necessary because it is "vital that we have genuine consultations with a wide range of interested parties before launching Phase 4." He said these consultations have begun.

As for supermarket prices, Nixon said:

"The many measures we have taken to increase the supply of farm commodities — including the release of more than 40 million additional acres for farm production — will eventually bring more farm products to the market and will provide relief against high food prices."

Acknowledging that the freeze has led to inequities, Nixon said it also can create inflationary scarcity.

He said, "We have seen this, for example, in the fact that some broiler producers have had to kill off baby chicks because they could not afford to pay the high feed prices and still sell the broilers at their ceiling prices....

"For this reason, we have been determined from the outset to keep the freeze as short as possible."

19 tornadoes in 3 states; 2 dead

Upper Midwest raked by storms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes and severe thunderstorms sliced across the upper Midwest late Sunday and early today, downing power lines, causing flash floods and killing at least two persons.

Severe thunderstorm watches were in effect for much of Iowa to east Nebraska and northeast Kansas.

One person was killed and two injured when lightning struck during a volleyball game northeast of Rushmore, Minn. Another person died when he was hit by a wind-driven board near Webster, S.D.

Winds to 100 miles per hour were reported at Columbus, Neb., and one-inch hailstones fell northwest of Grand Island, Neb.

Kimbal, S.D., lost all power and communications in the storm, while 70 to 80 m.p.h. winds in Sioux Center, Iowa, overturned mobile homes and caused a number of injuries.

In Aberdeen, S.D., a hangar was destroyed and eight to ten small aircraft damaged in the storm.

Flash flooding in southwest Missouri damaged farms, closed several roads and forced campers to evacuate low-lying areas.

Meanwhile, much of New England began slowly drying out after about 72 hours of drenching rains, but serious flooding continued in some areas. Rains slackened over Maine and New Hampshire, reducing the danger of flash floods there.

The National Hurricane Center at Miami said it was keeping watch on a subtropical low pressure area about 600 miles east of Cape Kennedy, which forecasters said could become the first tropical storm of the 1973 season.

There were widely scattered thundershowers from the southern Rockies into the Oklahoma and Texas panhandles.

Skies were generally clear from the Dakotas and Western Kansas to the Pacific.

Community gets set for holiday

Wednesday, Independence Day, will be a holiday for most people in Washington C.H. and Fayette County, with some special events lined up to celebrate the day.

Except for law enforcement agencies and fire departments, all city, county and state offices will be closed for the day. Police, Sheriff's Department and State Highway Patrol officials will likely have a busy day, as the holiday usually produces a rash of accidents, traffic and otherwise.

Most business places throughout the county will be closed, the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce reported. The Record-Herald will not be published on Wednesday.

Washington C.H. and Jeffersonville have some festivities planned, and there will be plenty of baseball and softball action.

The Washington C.H. Jaycees are sponsoring their annual Fourth of July celebration at the Fayette County Fairground, and a parade is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. The parade will form on Willard Street, moving through the downtown area and out Clinton Avenue to the Fairground.

The Jaycees will present ribbons for the best decorated bicycles in the parade. Children wishing to enter their bicycles should be at the parade's starting point on Willard Street by 9:30 a.m.

At noon, Little Miss Firecracker 1973 will be crowned, kicking off a full schedule of events including tugs-of-war, frog jumping and horseshoe pitching contests and other activities.

A dance featuring Blue Max, Columbus, will begin at 9 p.m. in the Mahan Building. It will last until midnight.

The traditional fireworks display, expected to last about an hour, will get underway around 9:45 p.m.

A fireworks display at Jeffersonville School is scheduled for 9 p.m. It will cap a day filled with Little League baseball, including a game between an all-star team and a team of coaches. The Jeffersonville Fire Department is providing the fireworks.

Washington C.H. American Legion Post 25 will host Lancaster for a baseball doubleheader starting at 1:30 p.m. at the Washington Senior High School diamond.

Fayette County "B" League softball teams will play a full slate of makeup games starting at noon at Eyman Park. Eight games are scheduled.

Deputy dies during chase

BUCYRUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio peace officers talked two prison escapees into releasing six hostages and surrendering today in the village of New Washington in the northwestern part of the state.

A sheriff's deputy was killed in the two-county chase that followed the predawn escape.

None of the hostages — an unidentified mother and her five children — was hurt.

Details of the capture were scarce.

The Marion post of the patrol said they knew of no gunfire during the capture, but said the two escapees carried guns stolen from a Marion home.

William Bender, 48, a Marion County deputy sheriff, died in a collision of his patrol car and a farm truck on Marion County road near U.S. 30.

General Tel workers approve July 6 walkout

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — About 2,800 union employes of the General Telephone Co. have voted to strike at midnight July 6 if their contract demands aren't met by then.

The strike authorization vote by members of Local 4327 of the Communications Workers of America came Sunday night. The local includes General Telephone employes in Portsmouth, Waverly, Chesapeake, Georgetown and Wilmington.

The union's contract expired April 21, but workers have remained on the job under an extension of the pact.

A spokesman for Local 4327 said strike authorization votes from other General Telephone locals in Ohio were being counted today in Cleveland.

Slain Israeli's body sent home

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Defense Minister Moshe Dayan today accused Palestinian terrorists of slaying Israeli air attache Yosef Alon in suburban Washington. He pledged that Israel will try to liquidate the terrorist groups.

Alon's body arrived home aboard a U.S. Air Force jet escorted by Israeli fighters, one day after he was shot outside his Chevy Chase, Md., home.

"It must be one of them, I don't see a possibility of anyone else," Dayan said at Lod Airport, where the flag-draped casket arrived, accompanied by Alon's sobbing widow and three children.

The defense minister told newsmen that the Palestinian guerrilla movement had announced over Cairo radio that one of its men had slain Alon.

The 43-year-old Israeli air attache to the United States was shot early Sunday morning outside his Chevy Chase, Md., home as he returned with his wife, Devora, from a party.

Maryland Medical Examiner Ronald Kornblum said Alon died of five gunshot wounds in his chest. Kornblum said his autopsy revealed no other marks or bruises on the body and that he could not tell whether the bullets were from a machine gun or a handgun.

Local police and the FBI said they had no suspects in the case, although military spokesmen in Tel Aviv said Arab terrorists may have plotted Alon's assassination.

President Nixon arranged for the aircraft that returned the body of Alon and his family to Israel. Nixon asked his top military adviser, Gen. Brent Scowsroft, to convey his condolences to the Israeli ambassador over the shooting.

The President also ordered the Secret Service to step up protective measures for Washington's diplomatic community.

Simcha Dinitz, the Israeli ambassador, told some 200 American and Israelis at Andrews Air Force Base, "The frontiers of Israel are everywhere." He was referring to the recent shootings of Israelis in various parts of the world, including the massacre last summer of a group of athletes at the Munich Olympic games.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who left the same airport about an hour later to attend a European security conference in Helsinki, told newsmen it was "too early to tell" whether Alon's death was a product of international terrorism.

President signs war deadline bill

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon has signed legislation to halt all U.S. military action in Indochina by Aug. 15.

He served notice he will seek new war-making powers if he thinks they are needed to win an Indochina peace.

In signing the compromise measure on Sunday, the President said:

"The last remaining element of the peace in Southeast Asia is a stable Cambodian settlement.... I will continue to take the responsible action necessary to win that peace. Should further actions be required to that end later in the year, I shall request the Congress to help us achieve our objectives."

The first law aimed directly at ending U.S. combat activity in Indochina reached Nixon's desk in the form of amendments to two vital measures — a $3.4 billion supplemental appropriation for fiscal 1973 and a Senate-House resolution to finance federal agencies pending enactment of appropriations for fiscal 1974. The President signed both.

Nixon, his aides and congressional leaders worked out the Aug. 15 fund cut-off compromise in order to avoid a major confrontation that could have tied the federal government in knots for lack of money.

The President had vetoed on Thursday an identical supplemental appropriation that would have cut off all military funds for Indochina immediately. The House sustained the veto, but Nixon supporters lacked the votes to block further cut-off amendments.

For the first time in the eight years of America's combat role in Southeast Asia, antiwar forces in both the Senate and House could claim clear majorities, thus prompting the compromise.

In his statement, Nixon said an immediate bombing halt "would not have brought us the lasting peace that we all desire" but rather would have "crippled or destroyed the chances for achieving a negotiated settlement."

Melvin R. Laird, a Nixon aide and former secretary of defense, was asked by newsmen Saturday for signs of progress in arranging a Cambodian settlement. He limited himself to declaring that "the negotiation track is not closed."

Swede Savage dies of injuries

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — California race drive Swede Savage died in Methodist Hospital today of injuries suffered in the Indianapolis 500-Mile race May 30.

Lutheran minister resigns to take engineering post

The Rev. Elmer E. Burrall, pastor of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, has submitted his resignation as pastor of that church to become effective Aug. 31.

Mr. Burrall and his family will be moving in August to Fountain Hills, Ariz., a new city being developed near Phoenix by the McCulloch Corp., developers of Lake Havasu City.

Mr. Burrall is planning to re-enter the field of engineering and work in the development of this new community.

Prior to coming to Washington C.H., Mr. Burrall served for five years as pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church in Lewisburg, Ohio. Before that he served for 15 years as a missionary of the Lutheran Church in America in its India field. There his work was primarily in the field of construction, maintenance and repair.

In addition to a Master of Divinity degree from Wittenberg University, Mr. Burrall holds a degree in civil engineering from West Virginia University.

"I would hope", said Mr. Burrall, "That it is understood that although I am leaving the full-time ministry, at least temporarily, I am not leaving the church nor its ministry. Every Christian is a member of the Church, and the Church is itself ministry."

Counterattack on Dean testimony starts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The counterattack from official and unofficial supporters of the President has begun now that John W. Dean III's long-awaited Watergate testimony, with allegations of presidential involvement, is a matter of record.

Dean, fired as White House counsel, testified before the Senate Watergate committee for five days last week. He spoke of meetings at which he said he told the President everything he knew about the Watergate affair.

He said he had participated in meetings at which political espionage was discussed and also tried to cover up administration involvement in the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters.

The committee is in recess this Fourth of July week. When its public hearings resume July 10, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell will be on the stand.

William G. Hundley, one of Mitchell's attorneys, said last week the former attorney general's testimony will not implicate the President in any aspect of the Watergate scandal.

Attacks on Dean's testimony came from two quarters Sunday.

J. Fred Buzhardt, White House counsel assigned to Watergate, said in an interview with The Washington Post that he thought Dean was sincere but that his "imagination got away from him."

Asked whether the President would answer Dean's allegations, Buzhardt said, "I'm not sure we want to put the President in a position to answer a confessed felon."

Charles W. Colson, who left the White House staff early this year to enter private law practice in Washington, said in a television interview that Dean's allegations "are unfounded and untrue."

Colson, described during the hearings as a key figure in campaign "dirty tricks," said he believes Dean lied when he said he had told the President all the facts about Watergate on March 21.

Colson said he talked to the President the evening of March 21, and Nixon told him he "was not being told the truth, that he was being given confusing information."

Although Dean said he disclosed Watergate facts to the President on March 21, Dean then went to the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., to write a report on Watergate, Colson said on the CBS program "Face the Nation."

Daytonian slain during argument

RUSSELLS POINT, Ohio (AP) — A 23-year-old Dayton man has been shot to death after a minor traffic accident here.

Officers said John E. Schauweker died Sunday of a gunshot wound in the head.

Logan County Sheriff Deweese Skidmore said Michael L. Stroup, 19, of Xenia, was held in the case.

The sheriff said the shooting occurred after a minor mishap in a parking lot on the north edge of the town. He said witnesses told officers both men carried guns.

Cattle rustling rises in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio agriculture official says he has received more complaints of cattle rustling this year than the past dozen years he has been with the state.

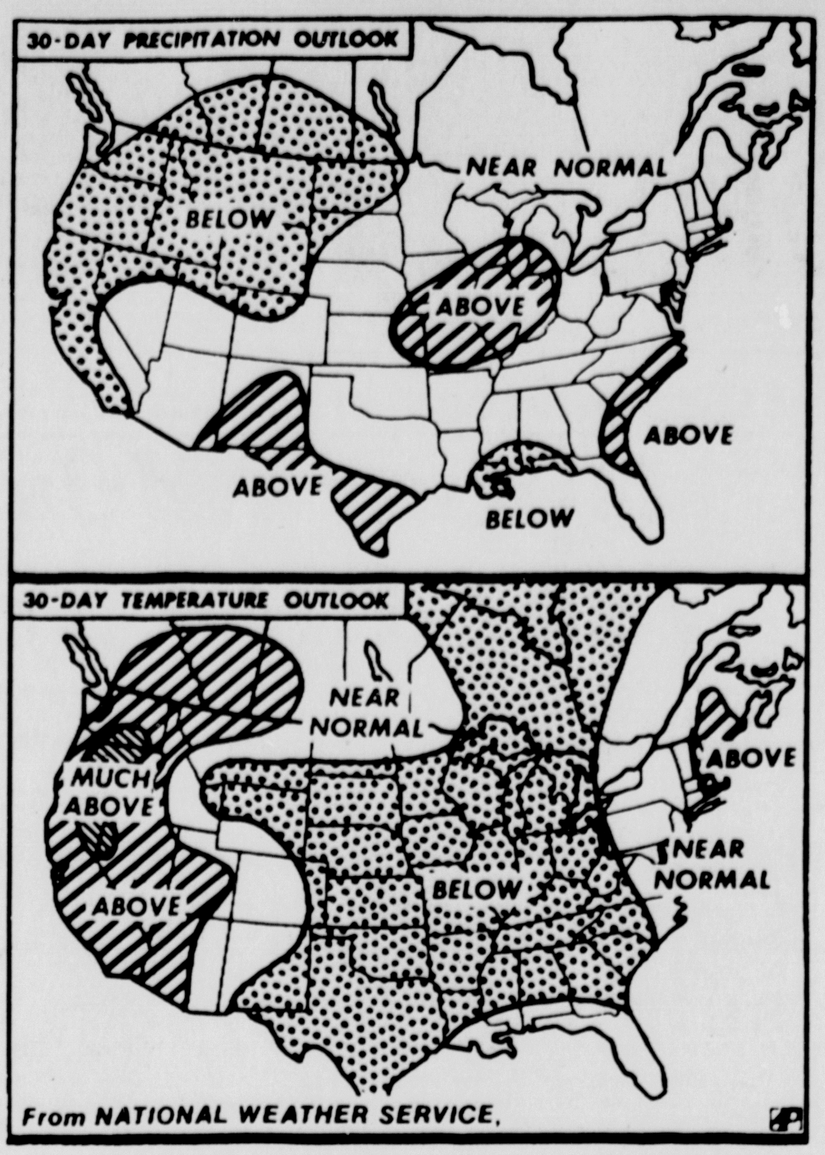
Dr. Harry Goldstein, a state veterinarian, said cattle rustling "is a direct result of the high cost of cattle. They're worth a lot of money today."



WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR MONTH — This is the nation's precipitation and temperature outlook for the next 30 days, according to the National Weather Service.

Ohio court rules changed

Columbus attorney Michael Colley said the new rules represent "significant changes in the legal system." Colley has conducted seminars in recent months on the rules, adopted by the Ohio Supreme Court.

"In the main, the rules protect the rights of defendants while streamlining the prosecution of cases," he said.

Colley, a former assistant prosecutor in Franklin County, called the changes in the bail system "dramatic" and more liberal.

Under the new rules, persons charged with crimes, including felonies, must be released on their own recognizance unless the judge is certain the defendant will not appear the next time in court.

Judges in the past considered the record of the defendant, the nature of the crime and the possibility the person would reappear in court before setting the bond.

The rules reduce the number of persons on a grand jury from 15 to 9. The jury, which considers charges against persons, can return indictments by an affirmative vote of seven out of nine.

Pleas of no contest may be entered in felony charges, as well as misdemeanors according to the new rules. Pleas of innocent by reason of insanity are now allowed in misdemeanors as well as felonies.

Defendants now need not appear in common pleas court for arraignment to enter a plea of innocent.

The new rules also:

—Order both the prosecution and defense to exchange information before the trial. That includes police statements, testimony of expert witnesses and the list of witnesses both sides plan to call.

Watergate case

because in it Mr. Dean continues to perpetuate the lies. He continues to hold back information from the President," Colson said.

Colson, who has repeatedly defended the President since early June, said he has not had contact with Nixon for several weeks.

In a related development, Gary Hart, a leader of Sen. George McGovern's unsuccessful presidential campaign against Nixon in 1972, said in an interview he doubts greater stress on Watergate during the campaign would have changed the outcome. Nixon carried every state but Massachusetts and the District of Columbia.

He said the current Democratic party strategy toward the Watergate issue is "we don't want to profit from a national tragedy. You can translate that as let the Republicans stew in their own juice."

In other developments:

—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said on NBC's "Meet the Press" that he thought Dean had made "a strong case involving the President directly in the so-called Watergate cover-up."

—The Boston Sunday Globe said Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson may have suggested a way for President Nixon to be questioned about Watergate. The newspaper quoted Richardson in an interview as saying the President might be able to submit to questioning by the Senate committee if the committee is looked upon as a group of individuals instead of a congressional committee exercising a legislative function.

—The Gallup Poll said 67 per cent of Americans questioned believe that some members of Congress have been elected by using unethical or illegal campaign methods.

Woman, unborn child succumb to cycle injuries

Officers said Mary J. Brown, 36, was standing on the edge of the trail Sunday when she was hit by a cycle operated by Lawrence L. Gibbs, 25, of Avon, Conn.

Gibbs told officers he was unable to avoid hitting the woman. The mishap occurred as Gibbs cleared the crest of a hill.

Mrs. Brown died while undergoing surgery for head injuries. The unborn child was pronounced dead, too.

Lottery bill vote held by House

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio House members were to vote today on a House-originated state lottery bill while a Senate-passed measure sits in the House Reference Committee.

A battle is developing over which bill will finally become law—the House's or Senate's. Both chambers are pressing for their own measure.

At first, bills introduced by Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, and Rep. Thomas Fries, D-35 Dayton, were essentially identical except for an emergency clause in the upper chamber's version.

On the Senate floor, Mottl's bill was amended to include criminal penalties for influence peddling and bribery in the licensing of agents who would sell the lottery tickets.

Both bills provide for the appointment of a five-member panel empowered to create a lottery and put it into operation under an executive director. He would receive a $35,000 annual salary. Commission members would serve without pay except for expenses.

Mottl's Senate bill was also amended to provide that the commission's headquarters be located in a city other than Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Thunderstorms were to return to Ohio today, entering from the west this morning and spreading across the state later in the day.

The National Weather Service said temperatures would climb to around 90 degrees.

Showers will end Tuesday, forecasters said, and highs will be in the 80s.

It was mostly sunny in Ohio Sunday, except for the extreme southern part of the state where some thunderstorms occurred. Temperatures were mostly in the 80s. Dayton had a reading of 88.

High temperatures in the 80s. lows in the upper 50s and 60s, Wednesday through Friday. A chance of showers about Friday.

Mainly About People

Mrs. Jack (Carolyn) Smith, 4 Sunny Dr., was released Friday from University Hospital, Columbus, where she was a surgical patient.

Mrs. Thurman (Susie) Seyfang, Snow Hill Rd., entered University Hospital, Columbus, for surgery Monday morning. She is in Room 671.

William Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raldon M. Smith, 441 E. East St., has completed his first year at Michigan Technological University, Hancock, Mich., and completed the spring quarter with a 3.67 grade average. Smith, a 1972 graduate of Washington Senior High School, will return there this fall and continue study in forestry.

Miss Denise Kay Bowshier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Bowshier of Mount Sterling, was named to the honor list for the spring quarter at Bowling Green State University with a 4.00 average. She is a senior majoring in education.

Jerrold Albert Fields, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fields of Orient, was on the honor list at Bowling Green State University for the spring quarter where he is a junior majoring in education. His average was 3.75 for the quarter.

Nancy Mitford succumbs

LONDON (AP) — Nancy Mitford, 68, British novelist, historian and witty chronicler of the British and French upper classes, died Saturday. Miss Mitford died at her home at Versailles, outside Paris, after a long illness.

Stock list plummets

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was down 9.03 at 882.68. On the New York Stock Exchange, declines led advances by 2 to 1.

Analysts said the move Friday by the Federal Reserve Board to up its discount rate and tighten reserve requirements and the rise today in the prime lending rate by several major banks was pulling the market down.

Such moves, said Robert Colin, analyst with Faulkner, Dawkins & Sullivan, "generally lead to a slowdown of economic activity."

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index at noon was down .03 to 22.29 while the Big Board index of more than 1,500 common stocks was down .44 to 54.40.

On the Amex, Syntex was up 1¼ to 85½ after forecasting a higher net for its next fiscal year.

Board studies two jail bids

Fayette County commissioners received two bids for building an addition to the Fayette County Jail at their meeting Monday morning but delayed awarding tthe contract until July 16.

Lisk Construction Co. submitted a base bid of $53,173 on the job, while Great Oaks Co., Inc., submitted a base bid of $55,400. Alternate bids submitted by both companies caused the totals to vary. The alternate bids were submitted to comply with variation in the specifications of the job.

The specifications of the bids and alternate bids will be inspected before the contract is awarded.

The commissioners authorized Darling Tree and Landscaping Service, 1020 N. North St., to transplant two trees and fertilize seven others on the Courthouse lawn for $245.

Fast bikes were OK in Lorain

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — Early settlers in Lorain could peddle bicycles faster than a horse could run—mainly because the speed limit was higher for bicycles.

Horses were held to six miles an hour, but bicyclists could peddle furiously along at 8 m.p.h., provided they sounded a bell at intersections to warn pedestrians.

Violating either speed limit was punishable by fines of $1 to $20 and up to 20 days in jail.

The 19th century laws came to light recently when workmen clearing the 100-year-old Lorain City Hall found a book of old laws in a storage area'

Some other laws no longer enforced in the community:

—Swimming was legal only if one's body were covered and between 6 a.m. and 8:30 p.m.

—Saloons could stay open an hour later during spring and summer months—until 10 p.m. A saloonkeeper could employ only one female helper—his wife.

—The town marshal was paid $600 a year, and he was expected to be on duty from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m.

—A chicken flying its coop cost the owner a 25-cent fine. Letting a "swine kind" animal free, however, netted a 75-cent fine.

Penn Central liquidation plan set

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gov. Milton Shapp and the Penn Central Co., parent company of the Penn Central Railroad, were to ask a federal court judge today to put off for 90 days consideration of a plan to liquidate the financially-ailing railroad.

The trustees for the railroad submitted their liquidation plan Thursday which would auction off the railroad's estimated $4.3 billion in assets.

The plan was submitted under an order by U.S. District John P. Fullam, who gave the trustees a choice of coming up with proposal for reorganization or liquidation by today.

"The key thing right now is for Fullam to lift the order until Congress has a chance to take action on the situation...by coming up with new funds," Gov. Shapp said Sunday.

Shapp also said he would tell Fullam that he doesn't have the power to permit liquidation. "Only Congress and the I.C.C. (Interstate Commerce Commission) have that sort of power," he said.

Shapp has already pealed Fullam's order in the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here.

Penn Central Co. attorney David Berger said he would "plead for a 90-day stay of execution of the death sentence... on a great American railroad." A company source said Berger was told to accept even a 30-day delay because of the confidence that Congress will act on behalf of the railroad.

Congressional action, Berger said, would include about $61 million in emergency appropriations to meet company payrolls for July and August.

Shapp said he would call on Penn Central's court-appointed trustees to come up with a reorganization plan within 90 days. He has recommended to the ICC and Senate committees that the railroad be divided in two, similar to the the old Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads before they merged to form the present line.

Energy habits little changed

Much has been said in the past couple of months about individual action to help conserve energy in the face of a widely heralded crisis. One gets the impression that despite all this talk little has been done.

It was in April that a government consultant on energy problems proposed a "shirtsleeve summer" to curb demand for air-conditioning. The consultant, Dr. John H. Gibbons, also called for more use of fluorescent lighting in the home to save on electricity. At an American Physical Society meeting he said fluorescent lights "use five times less electricity than incandescent bulbs but they are rarely found in homes outside the bath and kitchen."

Dr. Gibbons' remarks, coming at a time when much public attention was focused on energy problems, were widely noted. There are few indications that large numbers of Americans have taken action along the lines he suggested. Most offices and stores seem to be air-conditioned, often to the point of chill which makes a jacket welcome.

One hears little about leaving summer home temperatures higher than in past years, and almost nothing about householders switching to fluorescent lighting in any significant degree. Nor do many people seem to be acting on suggestions that they use their cars less and drive slower to save gas.

At this stage, an unscientific look around indicates that most Americans have not changed their energy-using habits.

THESE DAYS. . .by John Chamberlain

The Reds aren't giving us enough

When President Nixon and Leonid Brezhnev were signing their names to a communique proclaiming the end of the Cold War, an old Nixon article, written for the Reader's Digest, floated through my mind. It was a tribute to "unforgettable John Foster Dulles."

Today Dulles is the forgotten man. Far from "containing" the Communist giants, as Dulles counselled, we are going to build them up.

We will sell Boeing 707s to Red China, gas pipelines to the Soviet Union, grain to both countries, and all, for the moment, on the cuff. Someday, maybe, we will get fuel in return.

Meanwhile, there are the "linkages." This is what the dealing is really all about: we are trading for "peace in our time," not for anything tangible in the way of goods.

Since we are dealing in linkages, what is the objection to raising some of the points that the Nixon-Brezhnev communique ignores?

Those senators who met with Brezhnev might have made more of the hearings on Soviet labor camps that were held last winter by a Judiciary Committee subcommittee, with Sen. Gurney of Florida presiding. Brezhnev tried to deny there was a "Jewish problem" inside the Soviet Union.

But the senators must have known better from the research they themselves had sponsored. They had on their desks a description, by "alumni" of the Soviet slave camps forwarded from Israel, that gave the lie to Brezhnev's statements.

HERE, FOR EXAMPLE, is Alexander Krimgold's testimony about the labor camps. "Pot'ma," he said, "is only seven hours away from Moscow. A narrow gauge railroad, on both sides of which like so many boils lie scattered the terrible labor camps of Mordovia, runs deep into the forest from the main junction . . . Pot'ma is a fearful place which readily evokes Nazi concentration camps. Barbed wire fences, watchtowers, dogs set in pursuit of people . . . the destitute inhabitants of the surrounding Mordovian villages receive a sack of potatoes as their reward for intercepting a prisoner."

According to Avraham Shifrin, a Russian Jew who testified in person, there are still millions of people in the forced labor camps of the Soviet Union. If, by a "linkage," we are going to "sell" machine tools to the Soviets in return for peace in Vietnam, why isn't Sen. Jackson's own "linkage" demanding free emigration of Jews from Russia a justifiable part of the bargain?

With the Red Chinese, we have failed to bargain for a cessation of the opium peddling that is bringing heroin into the U.S. and Canada. A Canadian journalist, Patricia Young, has accused Nelson Gross, senior coordinator for Internal Narcotic Affairs for the U.S., of failure to include Communist China in his list of those countries that have helped flood the U.S. with drugs.

MISS YOUNG describes the smuggling techniques of the Chinese Communists. The narcotics come "mixed with shipments of flour, food seasoning, white granulated sugar and powdered soap. Cotton goods are sometimes soaked with morphine. The drug is recovered through chemical refining once the shipment reaches its destination. Rugs are sprinkled with heroin and treated in a similar manner.

"With Canada's recognition of Communist China. . . a new network of Maoist importing companies sprang up, particularly along the coast of British Columbia. In Vancouver, with the second largest Chinese Canadian community in Canada, a new tug of war began for the loyalty of residents. Together with travel agencies, bookstores, rug importers, arts and crafts stores and sundry other innocuous 'free enterprise' businesses, a new respectability was added to Maoist operations in Canada."

Chinese sailors, jumping ship, have kept the new Maoist "free enterprise" thriving with the drugs they smuggle to various "fences." From Vancouver the stuff moves to Toronto, Montreal and over the border to the U.S.

Wang Hsin-sheng, writing in Asian Outlook, has pinpointed one source of the drugs. A Red Chinese film, the "81st Film Studio," used Sinkiang poppy fields as part of its scenery. In criticizing the film Chiang Ching, Mao's wife, revealed the fact that Sinkiang is a large poppy farm operated by ten divisions of soldier-farmers.

Those Boeing 707s going to Red China won't bring us any real money. So why not a deal to plow under those Sinkiang poppy acre? The "unforgettable" John Foster Dulles would have demanded such a "linkage."

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Understanding your local officials

Some readers with long memories will recall that from the day it was proposed I weighed in against the concept of revenue-sharing, of passing out federal funds to state and local governments for unstipulated purposes.

The favorable propaganda was hard to resist: the average citizen waxed enthusiastic at the thought of a decline in his property tax, governors and mayors licked their chops at the thought of all that money to play with, but decreasing property taxes were not necessarily their top priority. They dreamed of nice new buildings and fire engines. But however motivated, the chorus of approval was ear-splitting.

Nothing that has happened in the past few years has led me to change my mind. On the contrary, if anything I am more convinced than ever that the whole operation was a conservative trap. Admittedly Mr. Nixon staged it nicely.

In Phase I, revenue-sharing was discussed as a donation in addition to existing "categorical grants," that is, federal funding of specific programs. Then came Phase II in which the world came out that revenue-sharing was to substitute for categorical grants. For example, direct federal subsidies to libraries would be dropped . . . but of course you could turn to your friendly local government for equivalent sums drawn from the revenue-sharing bag.

NOW WE HAVE some specific data. Technology Management Inc., a research organization based in Washington and Cambridge, prepared a study for the annual conference of mayors in San Francisco. This analysis indicated that only 8 per cent of the nation's local governments intend to use revenue-sharing funds to reduce property taxes. (In fairness, a Treasury Department survey indicates that these funds may have prevented tax increases.)

What the Technology Management's explorations revealed was that the majority of local governments in their board sample plan to put the federal money into capital projects and public safety. At the bottom of the priority list were social services, libraries, and the like.

In meditating on this I ran across a hilarious story that may provide a clue in understanding the attitudes of local administrators.

It had to happen in Boston: the city's parks and recreation commissioner got lost leading a charity bicycle hike through town!

This turned on the City Council, which has been trying for some time to force top administrators to live in Boston, and resulted in the only unanimous resolution to emerge from that body in the memory of living men. It provided that each department head be given a compass, a map of the city, and a plastic identification badge bearing "a number to be called to reach a responsible person willing to come help them get back to City Hall."

An amendment was added that "department heads not claimed by a responsible person after a period not to exceed 30 days . . . be auctioned off to other cities at the next meeting of the conference of mayors."

All good clean fun, but yet there may be more to this than meets the eye. Sixteen out of 27 of Boston's principal officials live in the suburbs. They are not affected by Boston's sky-rocketing property taxes, they see the slums — if at all — through a car window. They can go to the Concord, or Weston, or Lexington public library.

IN SHORT the social problems of living in the city are to them abstractions: they pay far lower property taxes and in return get good schools and police protection. To put it bluntly, they don't have the miseries of the city in their guts.

How widespread this practice is throughout the nation is something I can not estimate.

But I think there may be a good deal to be said for the resolution that has been hanging fire in the Boston City Council requiring principal officials to live in town. It could lead, as they say, to a radical reordering of priorities.

The United States now has 220,000 filling stations, but early in the 20th century there were so few that stranded motorists often had to buy fuel from grocery stores, blacksmith shops, hardware stores or even cleaning establishments. At that time only about 140 of the nation's two million miles of rural roads were paved.

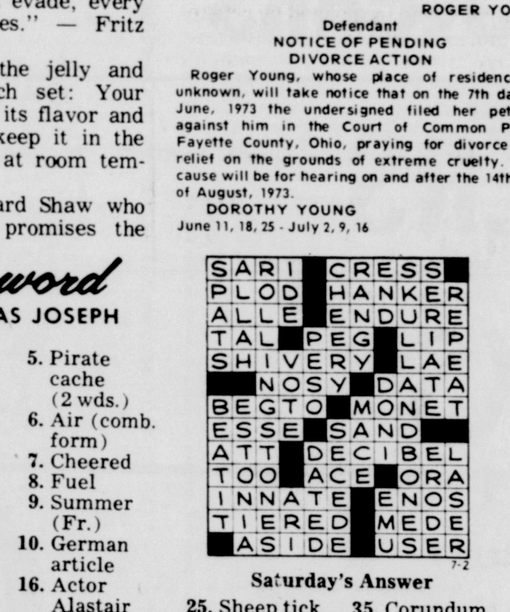
Saturday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Unwilling to tie knot for couple 'in trouble'

DEAR ABBY: A high school girl wrote that she was pregnant and she and her boy friend wanted to be married by a clergyman in a church, but neither one of them belonged to a church and they were having difficulty finding a clergyman to marry them.

You replied, "I am sure I can find a clergyman who will perform the ceremony."

Abby, the old "accommodating" view is diminishing. If a church wedding is desired, one or both parties must be active members in the church. People who refuse to support or help maintain a church should not expect to use it for a "show." A Christian wedding ceremony is an act of worship which is based on faith.

The attitude of more and more people is to call on the clergy and use the church facilities for "hatch, match, and dispatch" (baptism, marriage, and funerals)-but the clergy and lay leadership of our churches are not going to play games with nonmenbers, nonbelievers and inactive members. After all, there are other places where people can marry, and other persons who are qualified under the law to perform marriage ceremonies.

WILLIAM W.J. ENNIS, Pastor
St. Mark's Luthern Church
Bethlehem, Penn.

DEAR ABBY: A high school senior is pregnant, and can't find a minister to marry her, though she is very much in love with the baby's father and would like a church wedding.

The Church of Jesus of Latter-day Saints (Mormons) take a very strong stand against premarital sex, but we try to remember the words of the Saviour, "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone" and, "Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more."

We believe that the proper thing to do under the above circumstances is to get married so that child can have a name, and I am sure any L.D.S. Bishop would be very happy to perform the ceremony and give them a lovely wedding and his blessings.

LEONARD R. TOLMAN,
Barstow, Cal.

DEAR ABBY: I feel that I must write to defend those three ministers who refused to marry that pregnant high school, girl.

After nearly 40 years as a minister's wife I know something about people who don't want to contribute anything to a church, but they expect the minister and church to help them out when they need something.

Of course, the church does not belong to the minister; neither does it belong to these two immature individual to use for their own selfish reasons.

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR ABBY: My heart ached for those youngsters who wanted to be married by a minister but couldn't find one who would marry them because they didn't belong to his church.

With so many of our young people turning away from religion, you would think a minister would jump at the chance to bring them into the fold.

If they can't find a minister to marry them, they should consider a judge. At least it would be legal. Also, a sea captain has the authority to legalize a union. Have they considered that?

LOVES CHILDREN

DEAR LOVES: After having been told to go jump in the lake by so many ministers, they might indeed find a sea captain the ideal one to tie the knot.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, July 2, the 183rd day of 1973. There are 182 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1881, President James Garfield was shot by a disappointed Chicago office seeker at the Washington railroad station. Garfield died Sept. 19.

On this date:

In 1890, the Sherman AntiTrust Act was passed.

In 1937, the flier, Amelia Earhart Putnam, was last heard from on a flight over the Pacific.

Ten years ago: President John F. Kennedy, on a visit to Italy, had a private audience with Pope Paul.

Five years ago: A judge in Britain approved a U.S. request for extradition of James Earl Ray to stand trial for the killing of Dr. Martin Luther King.

One year ago: Pakistan and India signed an accord renouncing the use of force against each other.

Today's birthdays: Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall is 65 years old. Mrs. Patrick Nugent, the former Luci Baines Johnson, is 26.

Thought for today: A man will be eloquent if you give him good wine — Ralph Waldo Emerson, American writer, 1803-1882.

State adoption reforms urged by Celeste

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Single persons could file petitions of adoption under a major reform bill under consideration in the Ohio legislature.

Rep. Richard F. Celeste, D-5 Cleveland, introduced the bill. He called it "the most comprehensive adoption reform" measure drafted in Ohio in the past 20 years.

Backed by the Gilligan administration and sponsored by 16 Democrats and 13 Republicans in the House, the bill provides that single persons as well as married persons could file petitions of adoption.

Paul H. Coleman, director of legal affairs in the Department of Public Welfare, said "This does not, of course, mandate that such adoptions be finalized..."

He said, "The language is permissive and is designed to give our probate courts greater flexibility and increase the potential pool of suitable adoptive homes."

Celeste said it is the bill's philosophy that "normally, the best possible place for a child to be raised is with his natural family."

"If, however, the child cannot or should not be raised in that family, the best place for the child is in a permanent, adoptive home — as opposed to either long term foster care or institutionalization," he said.

Among the major features of the bill is a requirement for every child-placing agency to make annual evaluations of its efforts to place each child in its care.

No petition could be denied solely on the basis of age, race, religion, income level, or marital status, and parents adopting a child would have to file a statement with the court listing any expenses they incurred during the process.

Coleman said the statements would represent an effort to regulate independent "or socalled gray market adoptions" and discover if other interests are involved in the surrendering of a child.

The bill further provides that "full faith and credit" would be given to "bona fide" adoption decrees issued in other states or nations.

Celeste said it is the intent of the bill "to ensure that the practices of the State of Ohio, its courts, and adoption agencies, are the very best possible for the child involved in each specific situation."

TV Viewing

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

And in this corner ... well, as yet no actor—Emmy winners included—has accepted Beradino's $5,000 challenge to an "acting bout."

Beradino, star of the ABC soap opera and a highly competitive former major league second baseman, has been doing a slow burn for several years because the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences has no separate Emmy awards category for daytime dramatic performers.

This past week Beradino flew to New York to accept an award from Afternoon TV Magazine for "his leadership in the fight to gain recognition for daytime actors."

"After fruitless years of trying to get recognition, I think this stemmed from what Bobby Riggs did," he said, referring to Riggs' tennis challenge to Billie Jean King that was accepted by Margaret Court. "I wanted to bring this out into the open."

In his challenge, published in full-page advertisements in the Hollywood trade newspapers, he said:

"I, John Beradino, a daytime actor, personally challenge any nighttime actor (including Emmy Award winners) to an acting bout provided the material of both participants is of equal value and is acceptable to the principals involved."

He suggested a $5,000 winner-take-all purse, with the results to be decided by a panel made up equally of daytime and nightime performers.

A Television Academy spokesman said the Academy was not involved and would not participate in any side contests.

Beradino, 56, a one-time second baseman for the St. Louis Browns and Cleveland Indians, contends that daytime performers rate recognition because they must perform five days a week and don't have the luxury of a retake if they fluff a line. They have to hit it right the first time.

The soaps do have wide followings, and the performers— many stage trained—do a fine job. The pity is that the material is spun out like cotton candy and the actors really have little of substance they can sink their teeth into.

Nevertheless, Beradino, who starred in two prime-time series himself, figures series actors are flabby, figuratively, and too spoiled by retakes to complete a scene the first time without a mistake. His requirement for anyone brave enough to accept his challenge: "We'd each work with an actress on a half hour scene. And it would be live on tape—with no retakes."

Whistling bicyclists a problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whistle-blowing bicycle gangs are a nerve-wracking new development in downtown Washington and around such places as the Capitol and Washington Monument.

The police-type whistles are used in lieu of a horn signal to warn motorists and pedestrians that the bike-riders, mostly teen-agers, are barreling down the street or sidewalk at speeds too fast to stop quickly. Whistles also are blown for special greetings or moments of general excitement.

Generally the groups range in size from 5 to 10 members during the day. At night, particularly in more isolated or residential areas, they may number as many as 100.

The craze began in Southeast Washington about a month ago and now is being observed in downtown areas at evening rush hours. The bike riders run red lights, drive the wrong way on one-way streets and dodge in and out among moving cars. They're not above trying stunts like rearing up on the back wheels at high speeds. Their bikes can achieve relatively high speeds, perhaps 20 to 25 miles an hour, through 5 or 10-speed gears.

Magic letters make loser a winner

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — He doesn't seem like a loser — this good-looking man in a meticulously-tailored suit, with a Park Avenue apartment, a highly remunerative business and a wife and children who respect him.

But he has been a loser most of his life, losing hundreds of thousands of dollars as a compulsive gambler, losing his freedom during two prison terms, losing his first wife to divorce and losing a 14-year-old son who told the judge he would commit suicide if his father were given visitation rights.

In addition to a big diamond ring and gold cufflinks, these days this sandy-haired man with graying sideburns proudly wears another piece of jewelry, in his lapel. It is a gold GA with a diamond — a symbol of Gamblers Anonymous, the organization to which Bernie P. gives complete credit for turning him from a loser into a winner.

"I was $62,000 in debt when I emerged from that cesspool you can't find words to describe," says the husky-voiced Bernie. While freely admitting to friends and associates his involvement in GA, because of the nature of the organization he has remained anonymous in "Compulsive Gambler," a book he has written with William Bruns.

"I ALWAYS FELT the only way I could ever get even was if someone would give me a million dollars, but that wouldn't have done it. Money was not the problem. After all, I once stole $230,000 and just used it for gambling," he declares. "But since I stopped I now have everything I ever wanted or needed."

In addition to a second wife and two adopted children, Bernie has been reconciled with his own son.

"I made overtures, asked him to renew his acquaintance and let me prove to him that I am no longer the father he had known, but a normal human being," he explains. "We now have a fantastic relationship and he has made me a grandfather," he adds, pulling out a wallet to show off the picture of a laughing 3-year-old girl.

Bernie, who says that he was a compulsive gambler "from the day I was born just like an alcoholic is one from the day he is born," was gambling for marbles and cigar store certificates when he was 6. His parents were Russian immigrants who ran a restaurant in the Bronx, and he stole nickels and dimes out of guests' coat pockets to use for gambling.

"I WAS a tough kid, handy with my fists," relates the former Golden Gloves champion, who started boxing only to win prizes that he could sell for gambling money.

"I was basically a craps shooter and sports bettor, but just as an alcoholic progresses to rye if there's no scotch and then to wine and then any kind of alcohol, later I looked for any kind of action.

"For some reason society understands and sympathizes with narcotics addicts and alcoholics, but not the sickness of gambling," he says.

"I borrowed money to bury my father and gambled it away. Isn't that a sickness? How can you be a normal person and enjoy something that's so detrimental — that ruins your life and that of your wife and children?"

Bernie was finally persuaded by a friend to attend a Gamblers Anonymous meeting in 1962. "I was deeply in debt and had asked for a loans," he recalls. "He said if I'd try GA and it didn't help me then he'd loan me $5,000. Well, for $5,000 I would have killed someone, so I went. They said 'Try our way a few months. If you don't think we can help you go back to your misery.' I had never realized you could make money legitimately. I got a job for $100 a week, made a deal to pay the loan sharks $10 a week.

"I'd been living like an animal in a cage. If someone tapped me on the shoulder it had to be the cops. If the phone rang it had to be a bill collector. For the first time I had peace of mind."

NOW BERNIE is in the dress manufacturing business but he devotes evenings and weekends to GA. He travels extensively at his own expense, lectures and has been active in setting up branches in prisons.

Every Friday night he makes a 100-mile drive to the Long Island branch of GA, where he first joined. "All good things started to happen to me than so I haven't wanted to switch," he says.

"This sickness can happen to anybody at any age," he points out. "We have priests and rabbis in GA. Not long ago parents brought in their 15-year-old son who had stolen $5,000 from them to gamble. And another member is a former jockey who is 73 years old.

"I never knew what made me gamble, but when something bothered me I gambled," he says. "Now when something bothers me I talk about it in GA. The strength of our therapy is that we all have problems and we are able to relate to one another."

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
A good period of revitalizing all projects, for capitalizing on unusual ideas and revamping outdated methods. Some news of interest indicated.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
Inner excitement and heightened anticipation could send you off the sound path, in both thought and action. Make a special effort to maintain composure.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
There's a tendency now to reject good suggestions without thorough understanding. Consider carefully before saying "No." Don't "jump the gun," however.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
You may now have the opportunity to advance through a "different" idea. At least, draw up plans to project at the right moment.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
You will have less opposition in certain areas than you expect. Take the bit by the teeth; put beliefs, intuitive ideas actively to work.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
You may not be alert to certain trends, not aware of underground movement — may just be believing what you wish to. Think again!

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Stellar influences suggest a need for added vigor in your thrust forward, but be careful not to alienate associates. Tendencies toward overaggressiveness prevail.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
Aspects mostly auspicious, but accuracy and forethought must spark all decisions, moves. Travel and outdoor interests especially favored.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a great love of the theater and, if properly trained in early years, could excel as actor, director or producer of plays, or as a dramatic critic. You also have a talent for writing and would make an excellent journalist or novelist. Other fields suited to your abilities: Finance, insurance, publishing, chemistry, engineering or designing. On the personal side, you are affectionate, generous, sympathetic, a devoted spouse and parent. Try, however, to curb tendencies toward jealousy and hypersensitivity.

Government drug warriors floundering in confusion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government's drug warriors are losing their leaders and floundering in confusion because they don't know who their new boss will be.

The directors of two major drug abuse agencies, the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs and the office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement, are quitting almost simultaneously. Their agencies and most other federal drug abuse functions are being merged at midnight Saturday.

Some officials said a White House appointment of an acting chief of the new Drug Enforcement Administration is imminent, but the appointment of a permanent chief requires Senate confirmation, guaranteeing still further delay.

Officials involved in planning the transition say the leaderless state has fostered confusion at high policy levels, if not in the routine field office work.

Said an official of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs (BNDD): "It's incredible. Nobody knows what's going to happen. People don't know whether they're going to keep their jobs or what."

And an official of the Office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement (DALE) said: "You can't do anything, really, because whoever comes in might throw out everything you've done and start all over."

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — What's brown and white, but has a red and white tail when fully grown, eats rodents, reptiles and large insects—and if you're 12-year-old Mark Vermeer of Grand Rapids, it would be your favorite pet?

Give up? Well, for those of you who answered that it was a puppy cross-bred with a frog, you're wrong. The correct answer is King, the red-tailed hawk, owned by an active 4-H member, Mark Vermeer.

Mark got the bird about a month ago when King was only nine months old. Since then Mark has taught her to hunt and fly.

"I do a lot of things with birds," Mark said. "I was interested in the art of falconry. So here I am with a red-tailed hawk."

King eats "mostly other birds," according to Mark, but "if it's any sort of fresh flesh she'll eat it," too.

King, who won't be fully grown for about a year, can spread her wings about a yard wide, but as an adult she will have a spread of over 50 inches, and may live to be 20 or 30 years old.

Even though Mark is very fond of the bird he will release her soon, because the red-tailed hawk is a protected bird, and can be kept only until it can fly and hunt, then it has to be released.

"I don't like it," Mark said. "It's kind of a super-duper pet."

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA

Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

WASHINGTON — The recent Supreme Court ruling on obscenity represents a major breakthrough in the war against hard-core pornography.

It means that communities across the country, blighted by theaters and shops peddling obscene movies and filth, can finally do something about them.

It means that the flow of pornographic meterials, increased in part by previous weak and vague Supreme Court interpretations, can be stopped dramatically.

In a series of five decisions last week, the Supreme Court ruled that states could write and enforce obscenity statutes against materials meeting three conditions: (1) they appeal to a prurient interest in sex, (2) they portray defined sexual conduct in an offensive way, and (3) they have no serious literary or artistic value.

Local community standards would determine what is prurient or offensive and the catch-all phrase "redeeming social value" — which has contributed greatly to the pornography explosion since its use in the 1966 Supreme Court decision — would not be acceptable as a defense for questionable materials.

IN ADDITION, the court ruled that obscenity was not protected by the constitutional doctrine of privacy, and this is a very important and valid point.

I do not believe the authors of the Constitution ever meant the protection of free speech to the extent that communities not wanting pornography in their midst were helpless against smut peddlers because of a vague and misguided interpretation of the amendment by the court.

One of the most common arguments for the sale of pornographic materials in recent times is that no one can actually prove that they are harmful. But as Chief Justice Warren Burger explained in handing down his landmark decision: "Although there is no conclusive proof of a connection between anti-social behavior and obscene material, a legislature could quite reasonably determine that such a connection does or might exist."

He also referred to a previous Supreme Court decision in 1957 which stated: "All ideas having even the slightest redeeming social importance — unorthodox ideas, controversial ideas, even ideas hateful to the prevailing climate of opinion — have full protection of the First Amendment guarantees, unless excludable because they encroach upon the limited area of more important interests. But implicit in the history of the First Amendment is the rejection of obscenity as utterly without redeeming social importance."

Perhaps the most important factor in these decisions, however, is that emphasis is placed on contemporary community standards of what is obscene rather than any hypothetical national definition.

The individual states can thus establish their own standards or can permit local options. If a pornographic work, under the Supreme Court guidelines, is deemed "patently offensive" in its content, it can be banned and the purveyors prosecuted.

FOR YEARS, Congress has been trying to pass laws which would deal effectively with curtailing pornography, and I have authored many of them and supported them consistently. But at every turn, until this latest decision, Supreme Court rulings have taken the teeth out of these laws, keeping the hard-core pornography distributors on the market who prospered from a multi-billion dollar industry in obscenity.

While they filled their cash registers — professing to profit only from "consenting adults" — the exposure of their wares could not be kept from adversely influencing the youth of the communities. It has been a dear price in moral degradation that society cannot afford to pay any longer.

Already, many pornography dealers are clearing their shelves of offensive hard-core materials as a result of this Supreme Court decision. If they don't, says the Supreme Court, the communities finally have the right to help them along and to rid America of this intolerable moral pollution.

15 inmates in outbreak at Findlay

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Fifteen prisoners of Hancock County Jail staged a one-hour disturbance which was broken up by 13 deputies and policemen Sunday night.

Sheriff William Bell said the prisoners used wood from a dismantled table to block entrances to the cells. He said they used the steel from the table to smash windows, lights and shower stalls.

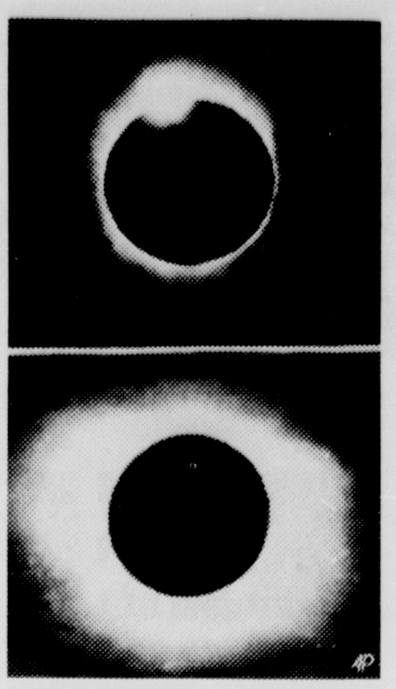
Bell said officers entered the cellblock and put an end to the disruption. He said about $400 damage resulted from the disorder and a similar disturbance Friday night.

No injuries were reported in either incident.

The sheriff said the disturbances were apparently linked to the complaints of three inmates being held without charges since drug raids on Thursday. He said Findlay Municipal Court was jammed on Friday, so the three were to be charged today.

Five inmates not involved in the disorder were transferred to the Wyandot County Jail in Upper Sandusky.

Three royal houses lost their thrones as result of World War I: the Romanovs, Hapsburgs and Hohenzollerns.



TOTAL ECLIPSE — A last bit of sunlight, top, peeks through the top of the moon seconds before the total eclipse, bottom, as seen from aboard the liner Canberra, floating in the Atlantic off the west coast of Africa near Mauritania. Eclipse lasted 5 minutes, 32 seconds, and was one of longest in recorded history.

Ohio man slain

DECATUR, Ind. (AP)—Marian Slaven, 31, Decatur, was held today on a preliminary charge of assault and battery with intent to kill.

She was arrested Sunday in connection with the shooting death of her estranged husband, Donald Slaven, 39, Fairborn, Ohio.

Slaven was shot to death in a parking lot in downtown Decatur late Saturday night.

Vietnamese girl tells of torture

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — "I was beaten on the chest until I vomited blood," says Nguyen Thi Phuong Thao. "They put sandbags on my body and beat me with a hammer, walked on me with boots."

The slender Vietnamese girl occasionally pounded her fist into her palm to illustrate the force of the beatings she said she suffered during 149 days in South Vietnamese jails. She used her hands to cover her flat, girlish chest while describing the pain.

Thao said she is 14, but a government source said records list her as 34.

Although she was released less than two weeks ago, Thao bears no visible marks or scars from her confinement. She said there are none because the guards placed the sandbags on her body before hitting her, and that their pinches caused superficial wounds that have long since healed.

Government officials refused to comment on Thao's tales of beatings and torture. Requests were turned down for interviews with officials charged with overseeing government prisons and police stations.

A government source said she was arrested Jan. 23 because she belonged to a Saigon student union which he identified as a a Viet Cong youth organization. The source said she worked as a sort of liaison for various Viet Cong groups.

Thao denied she was a Viet Cong supporter. She claimed she was jailed because she opposes the regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

A government official said that among stacks of books at her home police found words to songs extolling peace. He said some of the songs may have been played on the national television station, but that they were banned at the time Thao was arrested.

2 teen girls found slain

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Two teen-age girls from Pennsylvania found dead in their motel cottage here Saturday were shot in the head and strangled, police report.

Police had originally thought that Lynn Seethaler and Janice Pietropola, both 19, had died of severe beatings. Miss Seethaler also had a four-inch laceration on her neck, but police were not sure what caused it.

Miss Pietropola was from Verona and Miss Seethaler of Pittsburgh.

An autopsy has been performed on both girls but the results have not yet been made public.

Lt. E.F. Buzzy said Sunday that no motive for the slayings has been established. Buzzy said 15 detectives, virtually the entire Virginia Beach bureau, have been assigned to the case.

Liquor clerks again threaten strike action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The local president of a retail liquor clerks union plans to present Ohio officials with the proper membership cards by Friday.

Charles Oliver of the Union of State Government Employes said if the state still refuses to recognize his new union by the end of the week, he will have to take "drastic action."

Oliver said his membership gave him the go-ahead to take the action at a meeting here on Sunday. He refused to discuss what the action would be.

Liquor store clerks in parts of Ohio had threatened to walk off their jobs Saturday to push for state recognition of their union. The job action fizzled after there were unfounded reports of state approval of the union.

Lavelle in Chicago

columbus, ohio (AP) — William A. Lavelle, chairman of the Ohio Democratic party, traveled to Chicago today to confer with other state party chiefs on the date of the National Democratic Party Charter Conference.

Leper colony moves on amid war

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer

QUI NHON, Vietnam (AP) — There's a beautiful oasis of peace in the war-torn country of Vietnam. It's a leper colony.

For more than 40 years it has nestled in a valley which spills over onto the golden sand beaches of the South China Sea 330 miles northeast of Saigon.

A rutted road of jagged rocks fit for only goats and Jeeps links the Qui Hoa Leprosarium with the seacoast town of Qui Nhon beyond the mountains which shelter it.

The leper colony is home to 1,042 Vietnamese who have no place else to go for help against the disease which ravages hands, feet and skin and has no guaranteed cure.

Despite decades of fighting which have swirled around its 175 acres, the leprosarium has never been abandoned. The foreign sisters left only once—between 1945 and 1955—but their Vietnamese counterparts stayed behind at their own request when the Viet Minh battled French soldiers on the grounds following the Japanese occupation of World War II.

There are now 14 main buildings and a village of 230 spacious, two-room houses erected to accommodate patients who brought their families with them. There's a school, a church and a fourwing hospital.

There are no paid employes and little money for upkeep so the patients do all the work themselves. Those who are too sick to leave their beds are cared for by the others.

They make bricks, erect buildings, cook food, clean rooms, manicure grounds, wash clothes, care for orphans whose parents have died of disease, catch fish in their own man-made pond and grow fruits and vegetables.

The South Vietnamese government pays about 15 cents per patient per day. The rest of the funds come through private donation.

Nguyen Thi Hoa, a shriveled 64-year-old woman who has spent 35 years watching her own hands and feet decay, says she loves Sister Antoine, the leprosarium's white-haired directress, as she did her own mother.

As Miss Hoa talks of her years at Qui Hoa a slow trickle of tears inches down her cheeks and she reaches for Sister Antoine with fingers which are now only stumps. She says she's never had a visitor and has never been down to the sea she's stared at for more than 13,000 days of her life.

But the nuns have taught her a little French and have given her a doll to cradle and she says she's content to wait there with them for death.

MERITING YOUR TRUST
Meriting the trust and confidence of our customers has been the primary objective of Albers Food Stores throughout its history.
Particular attention is given to our advertising. All products must be correctly represented. They must be priced accurately in our stores – and they must be available in sufficient quantity to meet reasonable demand. We strive to follow these rules to the full extent of our capabilities.
However, we are human, and, occasionally, something goes wrong. It is possible that we may be out of an advertised item, or a price may not have been marked to conform with the ad. We do everything we can to keep from inconveniencing our customers, but when it does occur we want to make things right as quickly as possible.
Should you experience some problem, please contact the store manager. He will give you a RAIN CHECK which will permit you to purchase the item at the advertised price when it becomes available. If there is ever any question regarding the price of an item, your manager wants to know that too. Please help him to help you for that's his principal reason for being there.
We appreciate the patronage of the thousands of people who shop with Albers Food Stores every week, and we intend to continue doing every thing possible to merit your continued trust and confidence.
Sincerely,
W. B. LAWRENCE
Vice President

Seven area crashes investigated

Four youths hurt in rural accident

Four Fayette County youths were treated at Memorial Hospital for injuries suffered in a two-car crash on Ohio 41, just north of the Fayette-Highland County line, shortly after midnight Sunday. The crash was one of seven investigated by local law enforcement agencies over the weekend.

Treated at Memorial Hospital were Beryle D. Pierce, 16, Rt. 1, Greenfield, with chest and rib injuries; Reuben Pierce, 15, Rt. 1, Greenfield, with a laceration of the forehead; Timothy Salyers, 16, Rt. 6, with back and rib injuries and David L. West, 15, of Good Hope. West was admitted with possible internal injuries.

All the injured were passengers in the car driven by Veryl Pierce. Two other passengers escaped injury.

According to sheriff's deputies, Pierce was northbound on Ohio 41 when his car came up behind a car driven by Ruth A. Blain, 45, Greenfield, stopped to make a left turn at the Mini-Bar. Pierce attempted to stop and skidded 102 feet in the right lane before going left of center. The car traveled 114 feet of the left side then skidded broadside back across the highway, colliding with the rear of the Blain car.

Pierce's 1964 model car was demolished and heavy damage was listed to the 1968 Blain auto. Pierce was cited for failure to maintain an assured clear distance.

A 10-YEAR-OLD Washington C.H. girl was slightly injured when her bicycle was struck by a car on Court Street at Steen Court Saturday night.

Officers said Vicki I. Whaley, 10, of 418 W. Court St., suffered minor bumps in the 8:58 p.m. mishap.

Police said a car driven by Ann L. Posey, 24, Rt. 1, Greenfield, was pulling from the Super Par lot onto Court Street when her car struck the rear wheel of the bicycle, knocking the Whaley girl to the pavement.

There were no citations.

Five drivers were charged in other mishaps investigated;

POLICE

SATURDAY, 11:29 a.m. — James B. Henry, 34, of 250 Curtis St., was cited for failure to yield the right of way in a collision with a car driven by Billy R.H Haines, 20, Rt. 1, at the intersection of North Street and Western Avenue; damage moderate.

3:12 p.m. — Ronald G. Anderson, 30, Milledgeville, was cited for backing without safety after he collided with a fire hydrant in front of 637 Harrison St.; damage minor.

3:40 p.m. — Sylvia H. Campbell, 62, of 324 Lewis St., was cited for making an improper turn in a collision at the intersection of Rose Avenue and Pearl Streets with a car driven by Kenneth J. Matthews, 21, of 1225 N. North St.; damage moderate.

SUNDAY, 12:03 p.m. — Herbert A. Bonner, 16, of 1207 S. Fayette St., was cited for driving without safety after he backed from a private drive onto S. Fayette Street into the path of a car driven by Leo B. Snow, 57, Sabina; damage moderate.

SHERIFF

SUNDAY, 2:54 a.m. — A car driven by Timothy A. Brignac, 16, Rt. 1, Mount Sterling, ran off Cook-Yankeetown Rd., about 13 miles north of Washington C.H., and collided with an embankment; damage moderate.

12:45 p.m. — Ray A. Huntsman, 20, Waverly, was cited for driving an unsafe vehicle after a collision with a car driven by Terrance J. Leffredo, 21, New Vienna, on Stafford Road at the Rattlesnake Creek Bridge; damage moderate.

Hospital treats injury victims

Two persons were treated at Memorial Hospital over the weekend for injuries suffered in non-traffic accidents in the city.

Ora E. Bellar, 68, of 1139 E. Paint St., was admitted to Memorial Hospital with a fractured hip sustained Sunday night. Police said Bellar apparently suffered the injury while loading trash at the Rocking Chair Inn, Wilson St.

Steve Z. Balahtsis, 12, of 1212 S. Main St., suffered arm and leg injuries when a punch machine being hauled in a truck he was riding fell over. Police said the machine fell on Balahtsis when the truck being driven by his father, Jack Balahtsis, rounded the corner at Clinton Avenue and Draper Street.

The injured boy was released after treatment in the emergency room.

Wide variance in meat prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of sirloin steak rose to $12.92 a pound in Tokyo last month but dipped to 56 cents in Buenos Aires, according to U.S. price watchers abroad.

A survey of retail food prices in foreign capitals published today by the Agriculture Department showed that the price of meat, eggs and chicken increased in most of the 14 countries surveyed.

Sirloin steak cost a median price of $2.66 per pound in the capital cities, up from $2.56 in the May report. In Washington, D.C., it was reported at $1.99 per pound in June, compared with $1.79 in May.

Trash fire doused

City firemen were called to a minor trash fire at the rear of 216 Fourth Street at 9:02 p.m. Sunday. Firemen said the blaze at the Joseph M. Hottinger home was apparently set when a passerby in the alley tossed a match into the trash. There was no damage.

Reserve, Guard to ease off on drilling team

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department says the Army and National Guard are going to experiment with a shortened required period of weekend drills and summer camp in order to induce more enlistments.

In 16 states, guard and reserve enlistees will be able to drop weekend meetings and drills and summer camp after three years, instead of the usual six. After the first three years, they will still be carried as reservists, but will not be required to attend training sessions.

In another 13 states, the enlistees will have four years of meetings and summer camp, followed by two years of inactive reserve status.

The Army Reserve currently numbers 236,000 members, 24,000 below its authorized strength and the National Guard, at 380,000 members, is about 20,000 below its authorized size.

New reservists and guardsmen brought in during the next 90 days will be covered by the experiment, Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway said.

States with the three-year enlistment experiment are Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, New Mexico, Texas, Washington, Oregon, Hawaii and Wisconsin.

Those with the four-year option are Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Nebraska, North Dakota, Kansas, Missouri, Arizona, Nevada and California.

State employes rap pay plans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two state employe unions are dissatisfied with their share of the new state budget which is more than $40 million less than had been requested.

Wages for union members in the two-year budget that went into effect this week are allocated at $60.1 million.

The Ohio Civil Service Employes Association had asked for a pay package worth $100 million. The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes sponsored a wage boost equaling $112 million.

According to records kept by Coyt A. Stookey, 134 E. Ohio Ave., official weather observer for the city, the half-year precipitation total for Washington C.H. reached 23.94 inches, 2.34 inches in excess of the 21.58-inch over-the-years average.

At Parrott Station, seven miles to the north and in the Fayette County "rain belt" Gale Parrett measured 7.98 inches of rainfall in June. The average in that community also is 3.97, but last year's total for the month was 7.42 inches.

In Washington C.H., rain fell on 15 of June's 30 days, ranging from a trace on the 6th and 12th to 1.36 inches on the 17th. There wewe a number of severe weather alerts for the area, but damage from wind and lightning was not serious.

Minimum daily temperatures ranged from a low of 50 on the first day of the month to a high of 69 on the 16th. Maximum daily temperatures ranged from a low of 69 on the 27th to a high of 89 on the 11th.

At Parrott Station, records showed 15 days of rain, 14 partly cloudy days and one day of completely fair weather.

	Act.	Avg.
January	2.01	3.38
February	1.33	2.44
March	4.07	3.99
April	6.34	3.99
May	4.55	3.81
June	5.64	3.97
Totals	2394	21.58

Newark boy bitten at Columbus Zoo

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jason Estep, 4, of Newark, was bitten Sunday by a 60-pound capybara at the Columbus Zoo.

He was listed in fair condition today at Riverside Hospital following surgery. The capybara, a native of South America, is the largest member of the rodent family.

The animal was kept in a natural area surrounded by a five-foot high chain link fence.

Clinton Ave. resurfacing work slated

City street crews will be resurfacing Clinton Avenue near its intersection with Court Street this week, but no major traffic problems are anticipated, according to Bill Duncan, acting city street superintendent.

Duncan said his men also will be mowing and cleaning brush along Paint Creek again this week, continuing with painting and possibly cleaning out some manholes.

Fayette County road crews, under the direction of County Engineer Charles P. Wagner, will begin double-sealing Jones, Cisco, Creamer and Boyd roads Tuesday. Jones Road will receive attention first.

Wagner also reported his men will be finishing up the Railroad Street project in Jeffersonville, putting in a culvert along Whiteoak Road, and continuing construction of a bridge on Wissler Road.

Twin Construction Co., Chillicothe, will begin construction of a bridge over railroad tracks on Miami Trace Road next week, at which time the road will be closed.

Some state highway workers will continue to assist on the I-270 project in Columbus this week, according to Gene Fitzpatric, Fayette County superintendent for the Ohio Highway Department.

State crews will also be operating six mowers, doing ditch work along Ohio 729 north of Jeffersonville, patching and trimming weeds along guardrails.

Frisch's forecasts new sales record

CINCINNATI — Record sales and improved earnings for the year ended June 3 have been forecast for Frisch's Restaurants, Inc. (Over-the-Counter) by Jack C. Maier, president and chief executive officer, together with the announcement that the company will open seven new restaurant units in the current 12-month period.

In the year ended June 3, retail sales rose to approximately $50 million from $35,483,000 last year, Maier stated, while total revenues (which include wholesale sales and fee income) were approximately $56 million, up from $41,439,000 the year earlier. Frisch's expects improved earnings for the year just ended, but audited figures are not yet available.

Without the great sanctuary of the Arctic, with its relatively undisturbed breeding grounds, many species of migratory birds could not survive.

Snake handlers ignore court order

NEWPORT, Tenn. (AP) — Ignoring a court order, several hundred persons converged on a small church in the East Tennessee mountains Sunday to demonstrate their faith in Jesus with fire and serpents.

When the ritual ended, one man had been bitten by a diamond rattler and another had set his arm afire but insisted he was not in pain.

"We had a contentious spirit here today," said the Rev. Liston Pack of the Holiness Church of God in Jesus Name. "Where there's confusion there's contention. Anytime you have a group like that, you have a contentious spirit."

Pack's brother and a North Carolina preacher were killed last April in a similar ritual at the tiny wooden frame church in Newport, about 40 miles east of Knoxville. Each, however, died of strychnine poisoning, which was not in evidence Sunday.

The episode led to a circuit court order banning the congregation's handling of snakes to test its faith. But local authorities as well as several hundred worshipers — which came from at least eight states — ignored the court order Sunday.

At times, the faithful would have as many as six coiling serpents being passed among them while chanting, "In Jesus Name."

The snakes were taken from five boxes — four of which contained rattlers and the fifth an Indian Cobra.

"That cobra is just like a red worm if you get annointed with the spirit," Pack shouted as the lethal snake was handled without incident.

"That was 100 per cent victory right there," he declared.

A Columbus, Ohio, minister, the Rev. Richard Williams, tested his faith by placing his foot into a box of curling, hissing serpents. He was not bitten as he spoke, "I do that in the name of Jesus."

But Murl Bass, 35, of Chattanooga, who had tested his faith Saturday with a snake at a prayer meeting, was not as fortunate.

As he handled a rattler, the serpent darted at his forearm leaving a bloody track from deep fang wounds.

"In Jesus' name. Oh my God help him," came the prayerful chanting from Pack's house moments after Bass was taken there in obvious pain but refusing medical attention.

About eight hours later, he was reported resting comfortably in his North Chattanooga home.

"He says he feels pretty good," said Glenn Dukes, a neighbor looking in on Bass, "He hasn't seen a doctor or been to the hospital and says he doesn't plan to."

There was singing, shouting and hand clapping as the preachers and at least 200 faith-testers worked themselves into a trance-like state before handling the snakes.

Ben Laws of Middlesboro, Ky., tested himself with flame. Lighting a match to a cloth soaked in flammable liquid, Laws held his hand in the flames for more than a minute as his flesh darkened.

See injustice via welfare, Social Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States must better coordinate its Social Security, welfare and similar programs to end injustices both to recipients and to wage earners who pay the supporting taxes, the chairman of a congressional study committee said today.

Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., made the comment in connection with the publication of six studies of welfare programs by academic and other specialists in the field. The studies were commissioned by the Joint Economic subcommittee on fiscal policy, of which she is chairman.

Mrs. Griffiths said the studies demonstrate that, because of overlaps and conflicting regulations, "many low-and moderate-income workers gain little or no financial advantage from their own or their employers' contributions to social insurance programs such as Social Security and unemployment insurance."

To illustrate the effect of overlapping programs, Mrs. Griffiths cited a hypothetical case of two Michigan men, one of whom has contributed to Social Security during his working years, while the other has not. Both, she said, are assured by the welfare system of monthly income of $282 for themselves and their wives.

The welfare system pays the full amount for one couple, she said, while "the other man receives a Social Security check for himself and his wife of $250 monthly—about the average benefit for such couples nationwide—but he has found they can't live on this. So welfare gives him a small grant of $32," she said.

Taft requests answers about role of IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr, R-Ohio, has asked the Internal Revenue Service to answer charges made during the Senate Watergate investigation.

Witnesses have indicated the IRS checked income tax returns of persons who did not agree with White House policies.

Riding club offers holiday horse show

The Bar-None Riding Club will sponsor a horse show Wednesday at the Producers Stock Yards on U.S. Rt. 62-N, near Leesburg. The show will begin at 10 a.m.

The program will open with four contest classes, including a barrell race, flag race, pick-up race and pole bending. Entries will be $3 and a $40 purse will be divided by the top four finishers in each event.

Six halter classes are scheduled, for which the top finishers will receive trophies and ribbons. Entries in these events will be $1.

To close the day's activities there will be 10 performance classes, including 4-H and small fry horsemanship. 4-H members must show membership cards. Cash prizes will be awarded the first four finishers in each event, and the entries are $2.

The gate admission will be $1, children under 12 admitted free. Lunch may be purchased at the grounds.

Details about classes and entries are available from Ed Corzatt (513-780-3183) or George Anders (513-780-3186). Entries may be made the day of the show.

Ohio Power Co. struck

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Normal service has been maintained after nearly 1,900 Ohio Power Co. employes in Ohio and West Virginia struck in a contract dispute.

About 1,100 workers at Canton, Tiffin, Lima, Steubenville, Newark and Zanesville walked off their jobs Sunday when their contracts expired.

They joined 775 employes at plants at Brilliant, Philo, Power, W. Va., and Moundsville, W. Va., who struck last month.

Supervisory personnel manned the struck plants. A spokesman said, "We don't anticipate a cutback in customer service, although there may be a delay."

Plant employes represented by the Utility Workers Union of America and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers last met with company officials on Wednesday. A union spokesman said no agreements were reached then.

Ump irks Weaver in O's loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Earl Weaver, manager of the Baltimore Orioles, does not think too highly of umpire Jim Evans. And that's putting it mildly.

"I believe Jim Evans is incompetent, and incapable of being a major league umpire," said Weaver, whose team dropped a doubleheader to the Tigers in Detroit Sunday 5-3 and 1-0.

What got Weaver going was a play in the fourth inning of the opening game, on which Norm Cash was awarded first base after being hit by a pitch from Jim Palmer.

That loaded the bases, and Duke Sims followed with a runscoring single, snapping a 1-1 tie. Two outs later, Aurelio Rodriguez delivered two more runs with a single, and the Orioles never caught up.

Evans did not award Cash first base right away. It was not until the Detroit veteran insisted he had been hit by the pitch and finally showed the umpire a red mark on his left arm that he was sent to first.

Weaver contended that Cash had not been hit by the pitch, but that he had pinched himself on his arm to produce the red mark.

By losing two while the Yankees were winning two, the Orioles dropped four games back of New York in the AL East race.

In other American League doubleheaders, the New York Yankees swept the Cleveland Indians 5-2, 11-3; the Milwaukee Brewers split with the Boston Red Sox, winning 9-5, then losing 4-2, and the Oakland A's swept the Chicago White Sox 6-4, 3-0. In night games, the Minnesota Twins edged the California Angels 2-1 and the Texas Rangers topped the Kansas City Royals 8-3.

Pat Dobson raised his record to 4-1 and Sparky Lyle notched his 20th save in the opener for New York. In the second game, Bobby Murcer drove in three runs with a two-run homer and a squeeze bunt and Ron Blomberg and Roy White each homered to back Fred Beene's eight innings of strong relief pitching.

Dave May and Ellie Rodriguez drove in two runs apiece, helping Milwaukee's Jim Colborn to his 11th victory of the season. Boston's designated hitter, Orlando Cepeda, drove in three of his team's four runs in the nightcap.

Oakland designated-hitter Deron Johnson drove home three runs in the A's first game, while Blue Moon Odom and Rollie Fingers combined to stop Chicago on four hits in the second game. The victory was only Odom's second in 11 decisions.

Bill Sudakis three-run homer in a five-run sixth inning outburst carried Texas past Kansas City.

Jeff schedules holiday games

JEFFERSONVILLE — A total of five games have been scheduled for the Fourth of July celebration at Jeffersonville.

Gordon McCarty said the celebration will open at 12:30 p.m. with a fireworks display by the Jeffersonville Fire Department climaxing the event at 9 p.m. Games scheduled are Morrow Funeral Home and Davis Drug, 12:30; Fayette County Bank and Colonial Sawdusters, 2; Jeff Merchants and Dinkler Plastics, 3:30; Jeff Royal Blue and Jeff Fire Department, 5; and the all-starts versus the coaches at 6:30 p.m.

In Jeff Little League play Saturday, Colonial Sawdusters handed the Jeff Fire Department a 3-1 setback. It was the first loss for the Fire Department. Tony Swigert was the winning pitcher giving up three hits and Steve Coe was the losing hurler after pitching a two-hitter. Darrell Hannah doubled for the winners and David Kiem hit a double for the losers.

The Firemen lead with a 4-1 record followed by Merchants (3-1), Sawdusters (3-2), Royal Blue (2-2), Dinkler Plastics (1-3) and County Bank (0-3).

R-H, Downtown Drug struggle to deadlock

The Record-Herald Flashes and Downtown Drug played to a 9-9 struggle in Little League Major action at Wilson Field Saturday.

The game which saw the Flashes get on the scoreboard early and then stave off a late Downtown Drug comeback bid was called because of the league's curfew rule.

In other action in the Little League Majors, Halliday's Mustangers and Wilson's Lumberjacks forfeited due to a lack of players.

The Flashes jumped to an 8-1 lead after four innings , but Downtown Drug bounced back with three runs in the fifth and five in the sixth to cap the see-saw scoring struggle.

Noel, the Flashes' pitcher, slammed a triple and a single, Knisley punched a pair of doubles, Ingram had a double and a triple and Porterfield doubled for the Record-Herald team.

Lee had two singles and a double for Downtown Drug, Tyree had a double and a single, Murphy cracked a pair of singles and Bick doubled in an eight-hit effort.

In minor league action Saturday at Armbrust Field, the Knights of Columbus squeezed past the Elks by an 11-10 score.

Four games slated in city cage loop

The Sports Center will clash with the Party Shoppe at 6 p.m. tonight to open this week's schedule. Two games are on tap Tuesday with Fayette Heating and Cooling meeting the Sports Center at 6 p.m. and Bath's playing the Party Shoppe at 7:30 p.m. On Thursday, Ridge Homes will meet the Oldies but Goodies at 6 p.m.

Casper ends tourney slump

CHICAGO (AP) — The old thrill and smile of winning a tournament returned to Billy Casper, who did a little dance Sunday on the 72nd hole after dropping a six-foot par putt to clinch the Western Open title.

It was Casper's first tournament victory since taking the Kaiser International in 1971 as he stepped back into the limelight that he once held in winning 48 championships and earning nearly $1.4 million.

Buffalo Bill joined early century Willie Anderson as the only players to win the Western Open four times. He captured it previously in 1965, 1966, and 1969.

"I call it the Casper stomp," he said in describing his footwork on the last hole that brought laughs from some 22,000 fans.

The last two holes were critical for him. On the 71st he saved par with a 12-foot putt after coming out a bunker.

On the 72nd, his approach was short and he pitched six feet away. He needed the putt for a par, a finishing 69, and a 10-under-par 272 over the trampled Midlothian course.

He got it, avoiding a sudden-death playoff with Larry Hinson and Hale Irwin, who tied for second at 273.

Casper's victory was worth $35,000 while Hinson and Irwin each pocketed $16,187.

Sharing fourth place money of $7,233 at 274 were Bruce Crampton, the third-round leader who tailed off to a 73; Hubert Green with a blazing 65 and J.C. Snead with 66. Art Wall and Arnold Palmer were next at 276 and John Mahaffey followed with 277.

Seldom have losers been so happy.

"I didn't win my fifth tournament of the season, but I achieved my most important milestone," said Crampton. "I got into the million dollar bracket."

The Australian boosted his career earnings to $1,003,103 to join Jack Nicklaus, Palmer, Casper and Lee Trevino as golf's millionaires.

Elmer Layden dies; one of Irish 'Four Horsemen'

CHICAGO (AP) — Elmer Layden, who came from Davenport, Iowa, to gain football immortality as a member of the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, is dead.

Layden, 70, died Saturday night in Northwestern University Medical Center. He was admitted to the hospital June 8 after being ill for six months. Hospital officials said the cause of death was unknown and an autopsy was scheduled.

Layden, along with quarterback Harry Stuhldreher, who died in January 1965, and halfbacks Don Miller and Jim Crowley, led Notre Dame to a national championship in 1924 when the Irish ran up a 9-0 record and then defeated Stanford in the Rose Bowl.

Sports writer Grantland Rice gave the backfield lasting fame with his decription of their skill:

"Outlined against a blue-gray sky, the Four Horsemen rode again. In dramatic lore they are known as Famine, Pestilence, Destruction and Death. These are only aliases. Their real names are Stuhldreher, Miller, Crowley and Layden."

Miller, a federal bankruptcy referee in Cleveland, Ohio, and Crowley, retired in Scranton, Pa., planned to attend the funeral services scheduled for 10 a.m. Tuesday in Holy Name Cathedral.

Layden coached one season at Columbia College in Dubuque, Iowa, then moved to Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, where he had an excellent record.

In 1934 he was offered the head coaching job at his alma mater and in seven years under Layden, Notre Dame ran up a 47-13-3 mark including a national title in 1938.

Layden quit Notre Dame in 1940 to become commissioner of the National Football League, a post he held until 1946, when he went into private business as a sales executive for a Chicago transportation firm.

He retired two years ago.

Peterson wins French Grand Prix

LE CASTELLET, France (AP) — Sweden's Ronnie Peterson won the world championship French Grand Prix Sunday and it was a popular win, but the hero of the race was a young driver who didn't even finish.

Jody Scheckter, a 23-year-old from East London, South Africa who currently calls Watkins Glen, N.Y., "my home racetrack," confirmed the promise experts have seen in him by leading the world's best drivers for three-quarters of the race.

"I was in the lead so it was my corner," Schecter said. "I was balked by a slower car and had to change my line. Emerson tried to pass inside me, but we locked wheels and crashed."

Fittipaldi saw it differently, and the two drivers had an angry exchange in the pits over the crash. The accident cost Fittipaldi his driving world championship lead to Scotland's Jackie Stewart, who is bidding for his third world crown. At the half-way mark of the 1973 title race, Stewart now has one point over Fittipaldi, 42 to 41.

Stewart, 34, is likely to retire if he gets his third title to cap one of the greatest careers of modern racing.

Weekly bowling series draws 45

A total of 45 men and women participated in the first of a weekly series of moonlight bowling Friday night at Bowland Lanes.

Roger Shepard, of Bowland Lanes, said 23 men and 22 women participated and prizes were awarded in both divisions in the all scratch event.

Rick Donohoe topped the men's division with a 611 series and 215 high second game, while Cathy Terrell bested the women keglers with a 212 high second game and was second with a 595 three-game series.

Floyd Russell was second in the men's division with a 593 series and he was followed by Ron Shepard who turned in a 570. Pat Shepard's 599 was the best series in the women's division and Wanda Harlan and Mary Jo Carmean tied for third with identical 526s.

MILLEDGEVILLE

This 7-room house (5 down, 2 up) on Main Street is on a 58¾ x 165 foot lot with alley access along the side and in the rear. There are two small car garages or utility buildings. A shallow well water system with an electric hot water heater, supplies hot and cold water to the kitchen sink and bathroom which has a tub but no commode. The property is now rented. It is worthy of attention as an investment, or, it could well be the answer to some family's hopes of buying a home and upgrading its value by gradual improvement. At $4,500.00, it seems to have several possibilities.

Phone 335-3711 to look or discuss.

Opening lead - three of hearts.

Here is a well-played hand from a match between Holland and Denmark. Slavenburg and Kreyns were North-South for Holland and Kreyns very luckily got a heart lead from West. Playing in his usual rapid style, he won East's heart with the ten, cashed the ace of spades, and ruffed a spade.

A diamond to the ace was followed by aother spade ruff, and a diamond to the king (on which West's queen fell) was followed by a third spade ruff with the jack, producing this position:

♥ A 9 8 5
♣ A

♥ K J 7 2 ♣ Q 7 — N W E S — ♦ 10 9 6 5 ♣ 5 2

♥ Q
♣ K 10 9 8 6

A complacent declarer might have thought he was in the most secure position possible, and Kreyns would have gone down one, after cashing the club ace, had he attempted to exit by ruffing the jack of diamonds with the eight. West would have overruffed and led a heart for East to beat the slam.

Alert to both dangers, Kreyns ruffed the jack of diamonds with the king of clubs and returned the eight of trumps. This method of play was bound to succeed and Kreyns came home with flying colors.

Treatment of Hemorrhoids

I would like to avoid surgery for the removal of my hemorrhoids.

I have heard that there are some drugs that can make them shrink or disappear.

Mr. T.J., Ohio

Dear Mr. J.:

I know no one who relishes the idea of having surgery performed for this or any other reason.

It is, however, wrong for you to discard the reliable advice of your doctor and the surgeon that surgery is the best treatment in your particular case.

Perhaps a better understanding of hemorrhoids may give you some insight into why your doctors have suggested surgery rather than treatment by drugs or injections.

Hemorrhoids are enlargement or swellings of the veins in and around the rectal opening.

There are two types of hemorrhoids, or piles, the internal and the external. Small hemorrhoids that are tender, swollen and itching can be relieved with local applications of soothing ointments and with baths and wet applications.

When piles are very large and chronically distressing, surgery becomes the better form of treatment.

Sometimes associated with piles come fissures and other complications which can respond only to operation.

New types of surgical treatment are now available. Many excellent advances have been made in this field to reduce the time of disability following surgery.

The choice of treatment can be made only by the discriminating judgment of your doctor. Your individual case is not necessarily the same as a friend's who may have had another form of treatment.

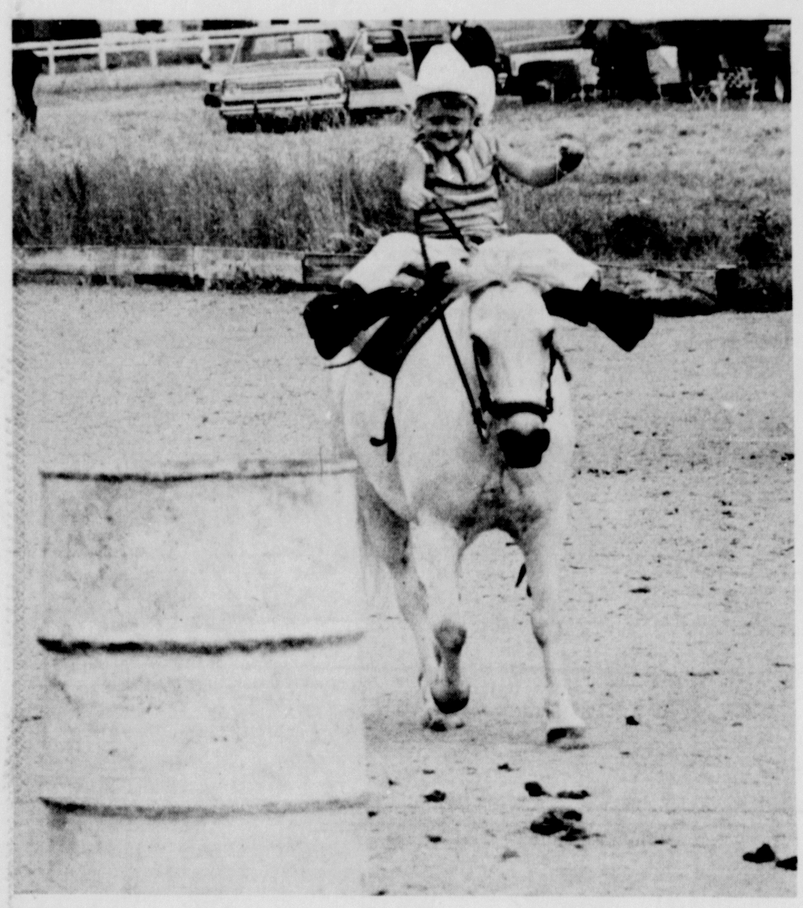
Horse show draws 205 entries

GRAND MARSHALS — Miss Marty Lutz, left, and Mrs. Linda Bailey, led nearly 200 horses in the grand entry for the horse show held Sunday at the Fayette County Fairground. About 700 spectators turned out for the show, sponsored by the Ohio Girls Barrel Racing Association.



YOUNGEST CONTESTANT — The youngest contestant in the Ohio Championship Flag Race and Horse Show was Jo Lynn Sheley, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Sheley, of Sabina. She was entered in the Kids Barrel Event, restricted to children 14 years of age and under.

The first Ohio Championship Flag Race and Western Horse show was termed a "huge success" by Mrs. Sandy Sheley, president of the Ohio Girls Barrel Racing Association, sponsors of the program at the Fairground Sunday. There were 205 entries in the seven classes of competition, representing five states.

Winner of the show's largest purse was Tom Hayden, of Anderson, Ind., who took home $400 for first place in the Flag Race. There were 54 entries for the event which had a total purse of $1,000. Kris Wolfe, of Washington C.H. was fourth in the Western Horsemanship competition, and Randy Williamson, of Jamestown, was fourth in the Kids Barrel Event. Dick Sheley, of Sabina, won the Barrel Race over 41 other contestants in spite of the fact that he rode with one arm in a cast.

Cash prizes to spectators were won by John Gault, Washington C.H.; Tom Williamson, of Jamestown, Mary Jo Dunn, of Sabina, and Kay Shinkle, of Sedalia.

Ohio Angus show held at Fairground

More than 200 Black Angus cattle, from herds in Ohio and other states, were on hand for the annual Ohio Angus Association preview show Friday and Saturday at the Fayette County Fairground.

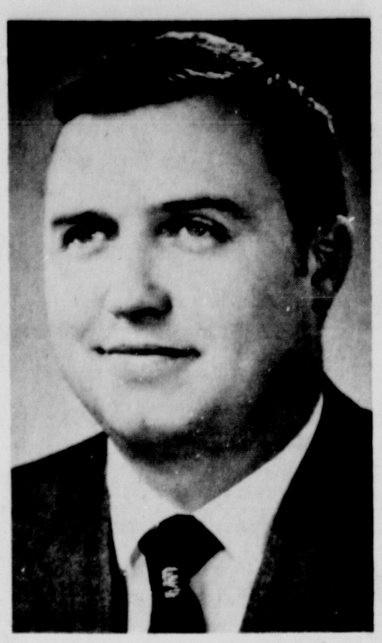
Kirk plans U.S. trip

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — Prime Minister Norman Kirk said today he has accepted an invitation from President Nixon to visit the United States later this year.

Cox named vice president of Sertoma International



CHARLES G. COX

He is owner and president of Sales Unlimited, Inc., of Columbus. Cox and his wife, Patricia, have four children, Dawne, Deborah, Garth and Teri, and the family resides at 902 S. Main St.

Cox was born in Washington C.H. and attended public schools here. He was graduated from Wilmington College, where he was the only four-year letterman to receive awards in all four college sports.

Active in his community, Cox is a member of Elks and a past member of the Jaycees. He is a past president of the Washington Pony League Football Association.

Cox was a charter member of the Sertoma Club of Washington C.H. in 1966. Elected to the club's board of directors, he also has served two terms as secretary, and in 1971, he was elected club president and received Distinguished Club President recognition.

In 1970, after serving one year as lieutenant governor, he was elected governor of the Southeast Ohio District, serving a one-year term and earning the Early Bird Governor and Distinguished Governor awards.

A life member of Sertoma, he was elected to the International Board of Directors from the North Central Region in 1971.

Sertoma International, a civic service organization with international headquarters in Kansas City, Mo., derives its name from the organization's slogan, "Service to Mankind." Founded in 1912, Sertoma International has more than 800 clubs and more than 30,000 members in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Puerto Rico.

City awaits clarification of trash-burning question

Open burning of trash, although illegal, is being temporarily permitted in Washington C.H. pending a uniform policy decision by City Council.

In a June 29 memo to city police and fire departments, City Manager Dan Wolford noted that those agencies have been swamped by complaints about open burning in recent weeks. He directed them to "not respond to complaints concerning the open burning of papers, etc." However, "blatant violations of burning garbage will be investigated as well as burning too close to buildings."

The memo said this temporary policy was needed due to the fact that city police and fire departments are not equipped to handle all the complaints without risking potential delays in emergency responses.

In addition, it said City Council must determine the adequacy of current refuse collection, and current collection services must be evaluated as to conformation with Ohio Environmental Protection Agency regulations.

The city's position on the burning question is to be clarified as soon as possible by City Council, Wolford said.

Open burning of trash is contrary to both city and state statutes.

Theft, vandalism reports checked

Three minor theft and vandalism incidents were investigated by police and sheriff's department over the weekend.

A bicycle valued at $60, was stolen Friday night from the Kevin Palmer home, 814 S. Fayette St. Palmer said the bicycle was parked on the sidewalk in front of his home. It was recovered later Saturday at the Sagar Store, Court and North streets.

Sheriffs deputies investigated a failure to pay incident at the KOA Campgrounds, Ohio 41 at I-71, Saturday morning. Sarah Yeoman, manager, said a camper had spent the night at the grounds then drove away without paying for the space.

The camper was apprehended a few minutes later by sheriff's deputies at I-71 and U.S. 35 and returned to pay the $4 charge.

Scouts train for Jamboree

Eight Boy Scouts from Troop 229, Grace United Methodist Church, attended a training camp this week in preparation for their attendance at the National Boy Scout Jamboree. They were Mike Hughes, Craig Davis, Rick Pfieffer, Derrek Gilbert, Bruce Stolsenburg, Tim Breitigan, John Rhoads and James Knisley.

The National Jamboree, to be held the first week in August at Morraine State Park, Pa., will host some 50,000 Scouts from the Eastern United States and Europe. It will offer an opportunity for boys to participate in skill training and competition with Scouts from other countries.

UAW gives support to Alum Creek plans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The United Auto Workers union has given its support to public recreational development around Alum Creek Reservoir north of Columbus.

The union said, "There is a pressing need for recreational facilities throughout Ohio and central Ohio has been neglected."

The U.S. Corps of Engineers has been constructing a dam on Alum Creek that will produce the reservoir.

Tiny brunette from Ohio wins Miss Indiana pageant

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP)—Karen Louise Rogers celebrated her 22nd birthday today, but she received a much hoped-for but little-expected gift Saturday night.

The 5-foot, 94-pound brunette from Arcanum, Ohio, was crowned Miss Indiana for 1973 and will represent the Hoosier state in this year's Miss America Pageant.

She said she entered the pageant with no thought of winning because of her small size. She described her emotions after winning as "a sense of disbelief."

Miss Rogers, who measures 32-23-33, competed in the talent contest as a singer, presenting the song "Put a Little Love in Your Heart."

Two other young women were winners in separate beauty pageants in Indiana over the weekend.

Lynn Free, 20, who plays tenor saxophone and flute with a rock music group, was named Miss Black Indiana Sunday night at the statewide contest in Indianapolis.

Miss Free, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie E. Free of Michigan City, is a senior at Indiana State University and represented Terre Haute in the Miss Black Indiana contest.

Mrs. Novak, a nude dancer from Plymouth, Wis., walked away with the crown after displaying credentials of 36½-22-35. The 5-foot-2, 107-pound beauty won over 26 other contestants.

Find baby near death

LONDON (AP) — A British newspaper offered a $2,500 reward today for information leading to the arrest of a kidnaper who took a baby girl from her carriage on a London street and left her near death in a suburban woodland.

The Daily Mirror said it hoped the offer would help police trace the kidnaper before another child is abducted.

The kidnaped baby, 7-week-old Kristen Bullen, was reported in critical condition at a London hospital, suffering from pneumonia. She was given a 50-50 chance of survival.

A nationwide police hunt failed to uncover the missing child who needed special drugs three times a day to survive a nervous condition. Two fishermen accidentally spotted the baby in woods near her home Saturday. She had been left without food or shelter for up to 36 hours, police said.

Big banks hike interest rates

NEW YORK (AP) — Major banks in New York and Chicago, following the lead of Philadelphia's Girard National Bank, posted ¼ per cent increases to 8 per cent today in their prime lending rates.

It appeared to be the start of the eighth general ¼ per cent increase this year in the prime, the minimum lending fee charged by banks on loans to large corporate customers.

The actions were announced this morning by New York's Chase Manhattan, the nation's third largest bank, and by First National Bank of Chicago.

Ohio auto accidents claim 18

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eighteen persons, including five on motorcycles, died on Ohio highways this past weekend.

Two teen-agers died in Washington County Sunday night when their motorcycle collided with a car on Ohio 821. Single fatality accidents involving motorcycles also occurred in Scioto, Licking and Perry counties.

Two double-fatality crashes involving automobiles in Columbiana and Brown counties helped to push the traffic toll higher.

The traffic count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended midnight Sunday.

The dead:

FRIDAY NIGHT

EAST LIVERPOOL — Harriet V. Schreckengost, 63, of New Castle, Pa., and James Halloren, 14, Petersburg, Ohio, in a two-car collision on Ohio 170 in Columbiana County.

RAVENNA — William R. Hayhurst, 23, Ravenna, when he lost control of his car and crashed on Ohio 59 one-half mile west of Ravenna.

SATURDAY

PORTSMOUTH — Marvin L. Morgan, 21, West Portsmouth, when two motorcycles collided on a county road west of Ohio 239 in Scioto County.

NEWARK — Lawrence R. Porter, 37, Johnstown, in a motorcycle-car collision on Ohio 37 near Alexander.

GEORGETOWN — George King Jr., 39, and his wife, Doris, 32, Blanchard, in a one-car wreck on a Brown County road about three miles west of U.S. 50.

NEW LEXINGTON — Jerry Bresock, 23, Zanesville, when his motorcycle skidded down an embankment along U.S. 22 about two miles east of Somerset.

CHILLICOTHE — Donald Cozad, 45, Ray in Jackson County, in a one-car accident on Egypt Pike Road in Ross County.

GIRARD — Diane Toth, 27, McDonald, in a three-car accident on Watson-Marshall Road in Trumbull County.

CHILLICOTHE — John P. Hurley, 51, Chillicothe, in a single-car accident near Chillicothe.

SUNDAY

MILFORD — John Denny, 18, Milford, in a single-car accident at the intersection of Ohio 48 and Fay Road in Clermont County.

MARIETTA — James R. Pryor, 19, and John S. Archer, 17, both of Lower Salem, when their motorcycle collided with a car on Ohio 821 at Washington County Road 11.

Many arrests follow Iraqi coup attempt

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Scores of arrests were reported in Iraq today after the assassination of Defense Minister Maj. Gen. Hammad Shihab in an apparent attempt to overthrow the country's leftist regime.

The 95,000-man Iraqi army was put on alert as tanks and armored cars took up positions around the capital of Baghdad, according to reports reaching Beirut.

The defense minister was slain near the Iranian border early Sunday in a shootout between the leaders of an abortive coup and loyal troops. He was given a state funeral today in Baghdad, the Iraqi state radio reported in a terse broadcast.

Reports in the Beirut press said Saddam Hussein Takriti, who is vice chairman of the ruling Revolutionary Command Council, personally led the troops and security forces that crushed the attempted coup against the Baathist socialist regime.

Baghdad announced Sunday that "a clique of traitors" led by the Iraqi Security Director Nazim Kazzar killed the defense minister and wounded Interior Minister Saadum Ghaydan. Both Shihab and Ghaydan were members of the ruling 15-member command council.

The killing occurred a few hours after President Ahmed Hassan el Bakr returned from state visits to Bulgaria and Poland. Diplomatic reports from Jordan said Kazzar, Shibab and Ghaydan were not at the traditional airport reception for the president.

Bakr's socialist government has strengthened relations with the Soviet Union and other European Communist countries and has received strong aid from the Soviets.

Egypt's Middle East News Agency quoted an official statement from Baghdad that Kazzar invited Shihab and Ghaydan to a banquet Saturday night and sprang a trap on them and other officials.

Dollar drops value again in Europe

LONDON (AP) — The dollar weakened again in Europe today, despite moves late last week that were supposed to help the U.S. currency.

The dollar dropped sharply in Frankfurt, Zurich and Paris. It inched ahead in London.

Dealers said, however, that trading was slow at the outset. There were no early signs of monetary crisis. Gold, which often moves erratically higher in times of monetary uncertainty, was unchanged in London and Zurich, the two biggest markets, in early trading.

In Frankfurt, the dollar opened at 2.4175 German marks, down from 2.4250.

The mark was revalued upward by 5.5 per cent against seven other European currencies last week, and interest rates in the United States were raised. Both moves should have helped the dollar today, but instead the decline continued.

BRENDA STOCKWELL

Brenda Stockwell, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Stockwell, Rt. 3, was chosen Fayette County Lamb Queen for 1973 Saturday night at the Shepherds Club annual family night at the Dan Schlichter residence, Prairie Rd.

As Lamb Queen, she will participate in sheep activities at the Fayette County Fair and will represent the Shepherds Club at other activities throughout the year.

Miss Stockwell, a member of 4-H for eight years, is a student at Miami Trace High School. She has been a member of Student Council, National Honor Society, Future Business Leaders, the symphonic band, marching band and choir.

Other contestants for the Lamb Queen crown were Debbie Wehner, Leah Welsh and Betsy Hartman. Each contestant was required to submit a written essay on some phase of the sheep industry. Selection of the queen was based on the essay, participation in school and community activities and the poise and personality of the candidates.

Price freeze to be short, Nixon says

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Attempting to reassure both businessmen and housewives, President Nixon promises a "short as possible" price freeze and foresees relief against high food prices.

Although complaints of grocery buyers have been claiming the greatest public attention, many businessmen say they are barred from making future plans because of continuing uncertainty over Phase 4 wageprice controls.

In a radio address broadcast Sunday, Nixon said, "We have been determined from the outset to keep the freeze as short as possible" — an indication he may disclose his new economic game plan before the 60-day price freeze expires on Aug. 13.

Nixon said a temporary freeze on all except raw food prices at the farm level was necessary because it is "vital that we have genuine consultations with a wide range of interested parties before launching Phase 4." He said these consultations have begun.

As for supermarket prices, Nixon said:

"The many measures we have taken to increase the supply of farm commodities — including the release of more than 40 million additional acres for farm production — will eventually bring more farm products to the market and will provide relief against high food prices."

Acknowledging that the freeze has led to inequities, Nixon said it also can create inflationary scarcity.

He said, "We have seen this, for example, in the fact that some broiler producers have had to kill off baby chicks because they could not afford to pay the high feed prices and still sell the broilers at their ceiling prices....

19 tornadoes in 3 states; 2 dead

Upper Midwest raked by storms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes and severe thunderstorms sliced across the upper Midwest late Sunday and early today, downing power lines, causing flash floods and killing at least two persons.

Severe thunderstorm watches were in effect for much of Iowa to east Nebraska and northeast Kansas.

One person was killed and two injured when lightning struck during a volleyball game northeast of Rushmore, Minn. Another person died when he was hit by a wind-driven board near Webster, S.D.

Winds to 100 miles per hour were reported at Columbus, Neb., and one-inch hailstones fell northwest of Grand Island, Neb.

Kimbal, S.D., lost all power and communications in the storm, while 70 to 80 m.p.h. winds in Sioux Center, Iowa, overturned mobile homes and caused a number of injuries.

In Aberdeen, S.D., a hangar was destroyed and eight to ten small aircraft damaged in the storm.

Meanwhile, much of New England began slowly drying out after about 72 hours of drenching rains, but serious flooding continued in some areas. Rains slackened over Maine and New Hampshire, reducing the danger of flash floods there.

The National Hurricane Center at Miami said it was keeping watch on a subtropical low pressure area about 600 miles east of Cape Kennedy, which forecasters said could become the first tropical storm of the 1973 season.

There were widely scattered thundershowers from the southern Rockies into the Oklahoma and Texas panhandles.

Skies were generally clear from the Dakotas and Western Kansas to the Pacific.

Community gets set for holiday

Wednesday, Independence Day, will be a holiday for most people in Washington C.H. and Fayette County, with some special events lined up to celebrate the day.

Except for law enforcement agencies and fire departments, all city, county and state offices will be closed for the day. Police, Sheriff's Department and State Highway Patrol officials will likely have a busy day, as the holiday usually produces a rash of accidents, traffic and otherwise.

Most business places throughout the county will be closed, the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce reported. The Record-Herald will not be published on Wednesday.

Washington C.H. and Jeffersonville have some festivities planned, and there will be plenty of baseball and softball action.

The Washington C.H. Jaycees are sponsoring their annual Fourth of July celebration at the Fayette County Fairground, and a parade is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. The parade will form on Willard Street, moving through the downtown area and out Clinton Avenue to the Fairground.

The Jaycees will present ribbons for the best decorated bicycles in the parade. Children wishing to enter their bicycles should be at the parade's starting point on Willard Street by 9:30 a.m.

At noon, Little Miss Firecracker 1973 will be crowned, kicking off a full schedule of events including tugs-of-war, frog jumping and horseshoe pitching contests and other activities.

A dance featuring Blue Max, Columbus, will begin at 9 p.m. in the Mahan Building. It will last until midnight.

The traditional fireworks display, expected to last about an hour, will get underway around 9:45 p.m.

A fireworks display at Jeffersonville School is scheduled for 9 p.m. It will cap a day filled with Little League baseball, including a game between an all-star team and a team of coaches. The Jeffersonville Fire Department is providing the fireworks.

Washington C.H. American Legion Post 25 will host Lancaster for a baseball doubleheader starting at 1:30 p.m. at the Washington Senior High School diamond.

Fayette County "B" League softball teams will play a full slate of makeup games starting at noon at Eyman Park. Eight games are scheduled.

Deputy dies during chase

BUCYRUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio peace officers talked two prison escapees into releasing six hostages and surrendering today in the village of New Washington in the northwestern part of the state.

A sheriff's deputy was killed in the two-county chase that followed the predawn escape.

None of the hostages — an unidentified mother and her five children— was hurt.

Details of the capture were scarce.

The Marion post of the patrol said they knew of no gunfire during the capture, but said the two escapees carried guns stolen from a Marion home.

William Bender, 48, a Marion County deputy sheriff, died in a collision of his patrol car and a farm truck on Marion County road near U.S. 30.

General Tel workers approve July 6 walkout

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — About 2,800 union employes of the General Telephone Co. have voted to strike at midnight July 6 if their contract demands aren't met by then.

The strike authorization vote by members of Local 4327 of the Communications Workers of America came Sunday night. The local includes General Telephone employes in Portsmouth, Waverly, Chesapeake, Georgetown and Wilmington.

The union's contract expired April 21, but workers have remained on the job under an extension of the pact.

A spokesman for Local 4327 said strike authorization votes from other General Telephone locals in Ohio were being counted today in Cleveland.

Slain Israeli's body sent home

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Defense Minister Moshe Dayan today accused Palestinian terrorists of slaying Israeli air attache Yosef Alon in suburban Washington. He pledged that Israel will try to liquidate the terrorist groups.

Alon's body arrived home aboard a U.S. Air Force jet escorted by Israeli fighters, one day after he was shot outside his Chevy Chase, Md., home.

"It must be one of them, I don't see a possibility of anyone else," Dayan said at Lod Airport, where the flag-draped casket arrived, accompanied by Alon's sobbing widow and three children.

The defense minister told newsmen that the Palestinian guerrilla movement had announced over Cairo radio that one of its men had slain Alon.

The 43-year-old Israeli air attache to the United States was shot early Sunday morning outside his Chevy Chase, Md., home as he returned with his wife, Devora, from a party.

Maryland Medical Examiner Ronald Kornblum said Alon died of five gunshot wounds in his chest. Kornblum said his autopsy revealed no other marks or bruises on the body and that he could not tell whether the bullets were from a machine gun or a handgun.

Local police and the FBI said they had no suspects in the case, although military spokesmen in Tel Aviv said Arab terrorists may have plotted Alon's assassination.

President Nixon arranged for the aircraft that returned the body of Alon and his family to Israel. Nixon asked his top military adviser, Gen. Brent Scowsroft, to convey his condolences to the Israeli ambassador over the shooting.

The President also ordered the Secret Service to step up protective measures for Washington's diplomatic community.

Simcha Dinitz, the Israeli ambassador, told some 200 American and Israelis at Andrews Air Force Base, "The frontiers of Israel are everywhere." He was referring to the recent shootings of Israelis in various parts of the world, including the massacre last summer of a group of athletes at the Munich Olympic games.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who left the same airport about an hour later to attend a European security conference in Helsinki, told newsmen it was "too early to tell" whether Alon's death was a product of international terrorism.

President signs war deadline bill

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon has signed legislation to halt all U.S. military action in Indochina by Aug. 15.

He served notice he will seek new war-making powers if he thinks they are needed to win an Indochina peace.

In signing the compromise measure on Sunday, the President said:

"The last remaining element of the peace in Southeast Asia is a stable Cambodian settlement.... I will continue to take the responsible action necessary to win that peace. Should further actions be required to that end later in the year, I shall request the Congress to help us achieve our objectives."

The first law aimed directly at ending U.S. combat activity in Indochina reached Nixon's desk in the form of amendments to two vital measures — a $3.4 billion supplemental appropriation for fiscal 1973 and a Senate-House resolution to finance federal agencies pending enactment of appropriations for fiscal 1974. The President signed both.

Nixon, his aides and congressional leaders worked out the Aug. 15 fund cut-off compromise in order to avoid a major confrontation that could have tied the federal government in knots for lack of money.

The President had vetoed on Thursday an identical supplemental appropriation that would have cut off all military funds for Indochina immediately. The House sustained the veto, but Nixon supporters lacked the votes to block further cut-off amendments.

For the first time in the eight years of America's combat role in Southeast Asia, antiwar forces in both the Senate and House could claim clear majorities, thus prompting the compromise.

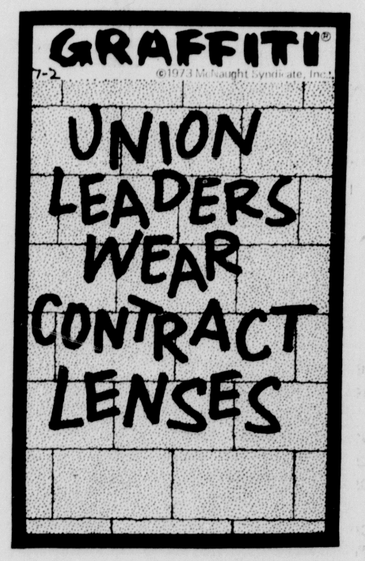
In his statement, Nixon said an immediate bombing halt "would not have brought us the lasting peace that we all desire" but rather would have "crippled or destroyed the chances for achieving a negotiated settlement."

Melvin R. Laird, a Nixon aide and former secretary of defense, was asked by newsmen Saturday for signs of progress in arranging a Cambodian settlement. He limited himself to declaring that "the negotiation track is not closed."

Swede Savage dies of injuries

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — California race drive Swede Savage died in Methodist Hospital today of injuries suffered in the Indianapolis 500-Mile race May 30.

Savage had been in critical condition since his flaming crash during the 59th lap of the rain-plagued race. He suffered fractures of both legs and burns on his face, arms and right hand.



Counterattack on Dean testimony starts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The counterattack from official and unofficial supporters of the President has begun now that John W. Dean III's long-awaited Watergate testimony, with allegations of presidential involvement, is a matter of record.

Dean, fired as White House counsel, testified before the Senate Watergate committee for five days last week. He spoke of meetings at which he said he told the President everything he knew about the Watergate affair.

He said he had participated in meetings at which political espionage was discussed and also tried to cover up administration involvement in the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters.

The committee is in recess this Fourth of July week. When its public hearings resume July 10, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell will be on the stand.

William G. Hundley, one of Mitchell's attorneys, said last week the former attorney general's testimony will not implicate the President in any aspect of the Watergate scandal.

Attacks on Dean's testimony came from two quarters Sunday.

J. Fred Buzhardt, White House counsel assigned to Watergate, said in an interview with The Washington Post that he thought Dean was sincere but that his "imagination got away from him."

Asked whether the President would answer Dean's allegations, Buzhardt said, "I'm not sure we want to put the President in a position to answer a confessed felon."

Charles W. Colson, who left the White House staff early this year to enter private law practice in Washington, said in a television interview that Dean's allegations "are unfounded and untrue."

Colson, described during the hearings as a key figure in campaign "dirty tricks," said he believes Dean lied when he said he had told the President all the facts about Watergate on March 21.

Colson said he talked to the President the evening of March 21, and Nixon told him he "was not being told the truth, that he was being given confusing information."

Although Dean said he disclosed Watergate facts to the President on March 21, Dean then went to the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., to write a report on Watergate, Colson said on the CBS program "Face the Nation."

Lutheran minister resigns to take engineering post

The Rev. Elmer E. Burrall, pastor of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, has submitted his resignation as pastor of that church to become effective Aug. 31.

Mr. Burrall and his family will be moving in August to Fountain Hills, Ariz., a new city being developed near Phoenix by the McCulloch Corp., developers of Lake Havasu City.

Mr. Burrall is planning to re-enter the field of engineering and work in the development of this new community.

Prior to coming to Washington C.H., Mr. Burrall served for five years as pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church in Lewisburg, Ohio. Before that he served for 15 years as a missionary of the Lutheran Church in America in its India field. There his work was primarily in the field of construction, maintenance and repair.

In addition to a Master of Divinity degree from Wittenberg University, Mr. Burrall holds a degree in civil engineering from West Virginia University.

"I would hope", said Mr. Burrall, "That it is understood that although I am leaving the full-time ministry, at least temporarily, I am not leaving the church nor its ministry. Every Christian is a member of the Church, and the Church is itself ministry."

REV. ELMER BURRALL

RUSSELLS POINT, Ohio (AP) — A 23-year-old Dayton man has been shot to death after a minor traffic accident here.

Officers said John E. Schauweker died Sunday of a gunshot wound in the head.

Logan County Sheriff Deweese Skidmore said Michael L. Stroup, 19, of Xenia, was held in the case.

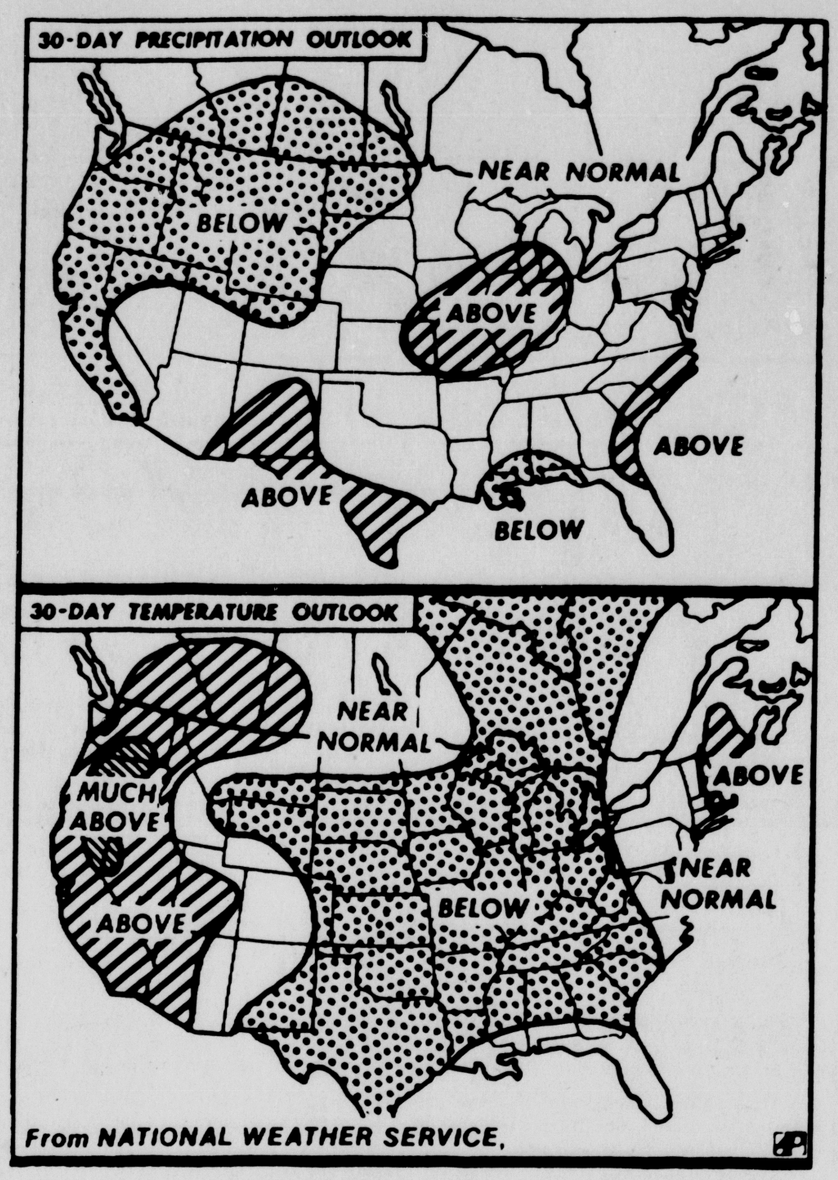
The sheriff said the shooting occurred after a minor mishap in a parking lot on the north edge of the town. He said witnesses told officers both men carried guns.

Cattle rustling rises in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio agriculture official says he has received more complaints of cattle rustling this year than the past dozen years he has been with the state.

And, a wildlife enforcement officer in the state says deer poaching is on the increase.

Dr. Harry Goldstein, a state veterinarian, said cattle rustling "is a direct result of the high cost of cattle. They're worth a lot of money today."



WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR MONTH — This is the nation's precipitation and temperature outlook for the next 30 days, according to the National Weather Service.

Ohio court rules changed

Columbus attorney Michael Colley said the new rules represent "significant changes in the legal system." Colley has conducted seminars in recent months on the rules, adopted by the Ohio Supreme Court.

"In the main, the rules protect the rights of defendants while streamlining the prosecution of cases," he said.

Colley, a former assistant prosecutor in Franklin County, called the changes in the bail system "dramatic" and more liberal.

Under the new rules, persons charged with crimes, including felonies, must be released on their own recognizance unless the judge is certain the defendant will not appear the next time in court.

Judges in the past considered the record of the defendant, the nature of the crime and the possibility the person would reappear in court before setting the bond.

The rules reduce the number of persons on a grand jury from 15 to 9. The jury, which considers charges against persons, can return indictments by an affirmative vote of seven out of nine.

Pleas of no contest may be entered in felony charges, as well as misdemeanors according to the new rules. Pleas of innocent by reason of insanity are now allowed in misdemeanors as well as felonies.

Defendants now need not appear in common pleas court for arraignment to enter a plea of innocent.

The new rules also:

—Order both the prosecution and defense to exchange information before the trial. That includes police statements, testimony of expert witnesses and the list of witnesses both sides plan to call.

because in it Mr. Dean continues to perpetuate the lies. He continues to hold back information from the President," Colson said.

Colson, who has repeatedly defended the President since early June, said he has not had contact with Nixon for several weeks.

In a related development, Gary Hart, a leader of Sen. George McGovern's unsuccessful presidential campaign against Nixon in 1972, said in an interview he doubts greater stress on Watergate during the campaign would have changed the outcome. Nixon carried every state but Massachusetts and the District of Columbia.

He said the current Democratic party strategy toward the Watergate issue is "we don't want to profit from a national tragedy. You can translate that as let the Republicans stew in their own juice."

In other developments:

—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said on NBC's "Meet the Press" that he thought Dean had made "a strong case involving the President directly in the so-called Watergate cover-up."

—The Boston Sunday Globe said Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson may have suggested a way for President Nixon to be questioned about Watergate. The newspaper quoted Richardson in an interview as saying the President might be able to submit to questioning by the Senate committee if the committee is looked upon as a group of individuals instead of a congressional committee exercising a legislative function.

—The Gallup Poll said 67 per cent of Americans questioned believe that some members of Congress have been elected by using unethical or illegal campaign methods.

Woman, unborn child succumb to cycle injuries

Officers said Mary J. Brown, 36, was standing on the edge of the trail Sunday when she was hit by a cycle operated by Lawrence L. Gibbs, 25, of Avon, Conn.

Gibbs told officers he was unable to avoid hitting the woman. The mishap occurred as Gibbs cleared the crest of a hill.

Mrs. Brown died while undergoing surgery for head injuries. The unborn child was pronounced dead, too.

Lottery bill vote held by House

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio House members were to vote today on a House-originated state lottery bill while a Senate-passed measure sits in the House Reference Committee.

A battle is developing over which bill will finally become law—the House's or Senate's. Both chambers are pressing for their own measure.

At first, bills introduced by Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, and Rep. Thomas Fries, D-35 Dayton, were essentially identical except for an emergency clause in the upper chamber's version.

On the Senate floor, Mottl's bill was amended to include criminal penalties for influence peddling and bribery in the licensing of agents who would sell the lottery tickets.

Both bills provide for the appointment of a five-member panel empowered to create a lottery and put it into operation under an executive director. He would receive a $35,000 annual salary. Commission members would serve without pay except for expenses.

Mottl's Senate bill was also amended to provide that the commission's headquarters be located in a city other than Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Thunderstorms were to return to Ohio today, entering from the west this morning and spreading across the state later in the day.

The National Weather Service said temperatures would climb to around 90 degrees.

Showers will end Tuesday, forecasters said, and highs will be in the 80s.

It was mostly sunny in Ohio Sunday, except for the extreme southern part of the state where some thunderstorms occurred. Temperatures were mostly in the 80s. Dayton had a reading of 88.

High temperatures in the 80s. lows in the upper 50s and 60s, Wednesday through Friday. A chance of showers about Friday.

Mainly About People

Mrs. Jack (Carolyn) Smith, 4 Sunny Dr., was released Friday from University Hospital, Columbus, where she was a surgical patient.

Mrs. Thurman (Susie) Seyfang, Snow Hill Rd., entered University Hospital, Columbus, for surgery Monday morning. She is in Room 671.

William Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raldon M. Smith, 441 E. East St., has completed his first year at Michigan Technological University, Hancock, Mich., and completed the spring quarter with a 3.67 grade average. Smith, a 1972 graduate of Washington Senior High School, will return there this fall and continue study in forestry.

Miss Denise Kay Bowshier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Bowshier of Mount Sterling, was named to the honor list for the spring quarter at Bowling Green State University with a 4.00 average. She is a senior majoring in education.

Jerrold Albert Fields, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fields of Orient, was on the honor list at Bowling Green State University for the spring quarter where he is a junior majoring in education. His average was 3.75 for the quarter.

Nancy Mitford succumbs

LONDON (AP) — Nancy Mitford, 68, British novelist, historian and witty chronicler of the British and French upper classes, died Saturday. Miss Mitford died at her home at Versailles, outside Paris, after a long illness.

Stock list plummets

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was down 9.03 at 882.68. On the New York Stock Exchange, declines led advances by 2 to 1.

Analysts said the move Friday by the Federal Reserve Board to up its discount rate and tighten reserve requirements and the rise today in the prime lending rate by several major banks was pulling the market down.

Such moves, said Robert Colin, analyst with Faulkner, Dawkins & Sullivan, "generally lead to a slowdown of economic activity."

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index at noon was down .03 to 22.29 while the Big Board index of more than 1,500 common stocks was down .44 to 54.40.

On the Amex, Syntex was up 1¼ to 85½ after forecasting a higher net for its next fiscal year.

Board studies two jail bids

Fayette County commissioners received two bids for building an addition to the Fayette County Jail at their meeting Monday morning but delayed awarding tthe contract until July 16.

Lisk Construction Co. submitted a base bid of $53,173 on the job, while Great Oaks Co., Inc., submitted a base bid of $55,400. Alternate bids submitted by both companies caused the totals to vary. The alternate bids were submitted to comply with variation in the specifications of the job.

The specifications of the bids and alternate bids will be inspected before the contract is awarded.

The commissioners authorized Darling Tree and Landscaping Service, 1020 N. North St., to transplant two trees and fertilize seven others on the Courthouse lawn for $245.

Fast bikes were OK in Lorain

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — Early settlers in Lorain could peddle bicycles faster than a horse could run—mainly because the speed limit was higher for bicycles.

Horses were held to six miles an hour, but bicyclists could peddle furiously along at 8 m.p.h., provided they sounded a bell at intersections to warn pedestrians.

Violating either speed limit was punishable by fines of $1 to $20 and up to 20 days in jail.

The 19th century laws came to light recently when workmen clearing the 100-year-old Lorain City Hall found a book of old laws in a storage area'

Some other laws no longer enforced in the community:

—Saloons could stay open an hour later during spring and summer months—until 10 p.m. A saloonkeeper could employ only one female helper—his wife.

—The town marshal was paid $600 a year, and he was expected to be on duty from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m.

—A chicken flying its coop cost the owner a 25-cent fine. Letting a "swine kind" animal free, however, netted a 75-cent fine.

Penn Central liquidation plan set

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gov. Milton Shapp and the Penn Central Co., parent company of the Penn Central Railroad, were to ask a federal court judge today to put off for 90 days consideration of a plan to liquidate the financially-ailing railroad.

The trustees for the railroad submitted their liquidation plan Thursday which would auction off the railroad's estimated $4.3 billion in assets.

The plan was submitted under an order by U.S. District John P. Fullam, who gave the trustees a choice of coming up with proposal for reorganization or liquidation by today.

"The key thing right now is for Fullam to lift the order until Congress has a chance to take action on the situation...by coming up with new funds," Gov. Shapp said Sunday.

Shapp also said he would tell Fullam that he doesn't have the power to permit liquidation. "Only Congress and the I.C.C. (Interstate Commerce Commission) have that sort of power," he said.

Shapp has already pealed Fullam's order in the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here.

Penn Central Co. attorney David Berger said he would "plead for a 90-day stay of execution of the death sentence... on a great American railroad." A company source said Berger was told to accept even a 30-day delay because of the confidence that Congress will act on behalf of the railroad.

Congressional action, Berger said, would include about $61 million in emergency appropriations to meet company payrolls for July and August.

Shapp said he would call on Penn Central's court-appointed trustees to come up with a reorganization plan within 90 days. He has recommended to the ICC and Senate committees that the railroad be divided in two, similar to the the old Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads before they merged to form the present line.

Shapp and Berger noted that Pennsylvania's economy would suffer greatly from the end of the Penn Central.

Energy habits little changed

Much has been said in the past couple of months about individual action to help conserve energy in the face of a widely heralded crisis. One gets the impression that despite all this talk little has been done.

It was in April that a government consultant on energy problems proposed a "shirtsleeve summer" to curb demand for air-conditioning. The consultant, Dr. John H. Gibbons, also called for more use of fluorescent lighting in the home to save on electricity. At an American Physical Society meeting he said fluorescent lights "use five times less electricity than incandescent bulbs but they are rarely found in homes outside the bath and kitchen."

Dr. Gibbons' remarks, coming at a time when much public attention was focused on energy problems, were widely noted. There are few indications that large numbers of Americans have taken action along the lines he suggested. Most offices and stores seem to be air-conditioned, often to the point of chill which makes a jacket welcome.

One hears little about leaving summer home temperatures higher than in past years, and almost nothing about householders switching to fluorescent lighting in any significant degree. Nor do many people seem to be acting on suggestions that they use their cars less and drive slower to save gas.

At this stage, an unscientific look around indicates that most Americans have not changed their energy-using habits.

THESE DAYS. . .by John Chamberlain

The Reds aren't giving us enough

When President Nixon and Leonid Brezhnev were signing their names to a communique proclaiming the end of the Cold War, an old Nixon article, written for the Reader's Digest, floated through my mind. It was a tribute to "unforgettable John Foster Dulles."

Today Dulles is the forgotten man. Far from "containing" the Communist giants, as Dulles counselled, we are going to build them up.

We will sell Boeing 707s to Red China, gas pipelines to the Soviet Union, grain to both countries, and all, for the moment, on the cuff. Someday, maybe, we will get fuel in return.

Meanwhile, there are the "linkages." This is what the dealing is really all about: we are trading for "peace in our time," not for anything tangible in the way of goods.

Since we are dealing in linkages, what is the objection to raising some of the points that the Nixon-Brezhnev communique ignores?

Those senators who met with Brezhnev might have made more of the hearings on Soviet labor camps that were held last winter by a Judiciary Committee subcommittee, with Sen. Gurney of Florida presiding. Brezhnev tried to deny there was a "Jewish problem" inside the Soviet Union.

But the senators must have known better from the research they themselves had sponsored. They had on their desks a description, by "alumni" of the Soviet slave camps forwarded from Israel, that gave the lie to Brezhnev's statements.

HERE, FOR EXAMPLE, is Alexander Krimgold's testimony about the labor camps. "Pot'ma," he said, "is only seven hours away from Moscow. A narrow gauge railroad, on both sides of which like so many boils lie scattered the terrible labor camps of Mordovia, runs deep into the forest from the main junction . . . Pot'ma is a fearful place which readily evokes Nazi concentration camps. Barbed wire fences, watchtowers, dogs set in pursuit of people . . . the destitute inhabitants of the surrounding Mordovian villages receive a sack of potatoes as their reward for intercepting a prisoner."

According to Avraham Shifrin, a Russian Jew who testified in person, there are still millions of people in the forced labor camps of the Soviet Union. If, by a "linkage," we are going to "sell" machine tools to the Soviets in return for peace in Vietnam, why isn't Sen. Jackson's own "linkage" demanding free emigration of Jews from Russia a justifiable part of the bargain?

With the Red Chinese, we have failed to bargain for a cessation of the opium peddling that is bringing heroin into the U.S. and Canada. A Canadian journalist, Patricia Young, has accused Nelson Gross, senior coordinator for Internal Narcotic Affairs for the U.S., of failure to include Communist China in his list of those countries that have helped flood the U.S. with drugs.

MISS YOUNG describes the smuggling techniques of the Chinese Communists. The narcotics come "mixed with shipments of flour, food seasoning, white granulated sugar and powdered soap. Cotton goods are sometimes soaked with morphine. The drug is recovered through chemical refining once the shipment reaches its destination. Rugs are sprinkled with heroin and treated in a similar manner.

"With Canada's recognition of Communist China. . . a new network of Maoist importing companies sprang up, particularly along the coast of British Columbia. In Vancouver, with the second largest Chinese Canadian community in Canada, a new tug of war began for the loyalty of residents. Together with travel agencies, bookstores, rug importers, arts and crafts stores and sundry other innocuous 'free enterprise' businesses, a new respectability was added to Maoist operations in Canada."

Chinese sailors, jumping ship, have kept the new Maoist "free enterprise" thriving with the drugs they smuggle to various "fences." From Vancouver the stuff moves to Toronto, Montreal and over the border to the U.S.

Wang Hsin-sheng, writing in Asian Outlook, has pinpointed one source of the drugs. A Red Chinese film, the "81st Film Studio," used Sinkiang poppy fields as part of its scenery. In criticizing the film Chiang Ching, Mao's wife, revealed the fact that Sinkiang is a large poppy farm operated by ten divisions of soldier-farmers.

Those Boeing 707s going to Red China won't bring us any real money. So why not a deal to plow under those Sinkiang poppy acre? The "unforgettable" John Foster Dulles would have demanded such a "linkage."

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Understanding your local officials

Some readers with long memories will recall that from the day it was proposed I weighed in against the concept of revenue-sharing, of passing out federal funds to state and local governments for unstipulated purposes.

The favorable propaganda was hard to resist: the average citizen waxed enthusiastic at the thought of a decline in his property tax, governors and mayors licked their chops at the thought of all that money to play with, but decreasing property taxes were not necessarily their top priority. They dreamed of nice new buildings and fire engines. But however motivated, the chorus of approval was ear-splitting.

Nothing that has happened in the past few years has led me to change my mind. On the contrary, if anything I am more convinced than ever that the whole operation was a conservative trap. Admittedly Mr. Nixon staged it nicely.

In Phase I, revenue-sharing was discussed as a donation in addition to existing "categorical grants," that is, federal funding of specific programs. Then came Phase II in which the world came out that revenue-sharing was to substitute for categorical grants. For example, direct federal subsidies to libraries would be dropped . . . but of course you could turn to your friendly local government for equivalent sums drawn from the revenue-sharing bag.

NOW WE HAVE some specific data. Technology Management Inc., a research organization based in Washington and Cambridge, prepared a study for the annual conference of mayors in San Francisco. This analysis indicated that only 8 per cent of the nation's local governments intend to use revenue-sharing funds to reduce property taxes. (In fairness, a Treasury Department survey indicates that these funds may have prevented tax increases.)

What the Technology Management's explorations revealed was that the majority of local governments in their board sample plan to put the federal money into capital projects and public safety. At the bottom of the priority list were social services, libraries, and the like.

In meditating on this I ran across a hilarious story that may provide a clue in understanding the attitudes of local administrators.

It had to happen in Boston: the city's parks and recreation commissioner got lost leading a charity bicycle hike through town!

This turned on the City Council, which has been trying for some time to force top administrators to live in Boston, and resulted in the only unanimous resolution to emerge from that body in the memory of living men. It provided that each department head be given a compass, a map of the city, and a plastic identification badge bearing "a number to be called to reach a responsible person willing to come help them get back to City Hall."

An amendment was added that "department heads not claimed by a responsible person after a period not to exceed 30 days . . . be auctioned off to other cities at the next meeting of the conference of mayors."

All good clean fun, but yet there may be more to this than meets the eye. Sixteen out of 27 of Boston's principal officials live in the suburbs. They are not affected by Boston's sky-rocketing property taxes, they see the slums — if at all — through a car window. They can go to the Concord, or Weston, or Lexington public library.

IN SHORT the social problems of living in the city are to them abstractions: they pay far lower property taxes and in return get good schools and police protection. To put it bluntly, they don't have the miseries of the city in their guts.

How widespread this practice is throughout the nation is something I can not estimate.

But I think there may be a good deal to be said for the resolution that has been hanging fire in the Boston City Council requiring principal officials to live in town. It could lead, as they say, to a radical reordering of priorities.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Unwilling to tie knot for couple 'in trouble'

DEAR ABBY: A high school girl wrote that she was pregnant and she and her boy friend wanted to be married by a clergyman in a church, but neither one of them belonged to a church and they were having difficulty finding a clergyman to marry them.

You replied, "I am sure I can find a clergyman who will perform the ceremony."

Abby, the old "accommodating" view is diminishing. If a church wedding is desired, one or both parties must be active members in the church. People who refuse to support or help maintain a church should not expect to use it for a "show." A Christian wedding ceremony is an act of worship which is based on faith.

The attitude of more and more people is to call on the clergy and use the church facilities for "hatch, match, and dispatch" (baptism, marriage, and funerals)-but the clergy and lay leadership of our churches are not going to play games with nonmenbers, nonbelievers and inactive members. After all, there are other places where people can marry, and other persons who are qualified under the law to perform marriage ceremonies.

WILLIAM W.J. ENNIS, Pastor
St. Mark's Luthern Church
Bethlehem, Penn.

DEAR ABBY: A high school senior is pregnant, and can't find a minister to marry her, though she is very much in love with the baby's father and would like a church wedding.

The Church of Jesus of Latter-day Saints (Mormons) take a very strong stand against premarital sex, but we try to remember the words of the Saviour, "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone" and, "Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more."

We believe that the proper thing to do under the above circumstances is to get married so that child can have a name, and I am sure any L.D.S. Bishop would be very happy to perform the ceremony and give them a lovely wedding and his blessings.

LEONARD R. TOLMAN,
Barstow, Cal.

DEAR ABBY: I feel that I must write to defend those three ministers who refused to marry that pregnant high school, girl.

After nearly 40 years as a minister's wife I know something about people who don't want to contribute anything to a church, but they expect the minister and church to help them out when they need something.

Of course, the church does not belong to the minister; neither does it belong to these two immature individual to use for their own selfish reasons.

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR ABBY: My heart ached for those youngsters who wanted to be married by a minister but couldn't find one who would marry them because they didn't belong to his church.

With so many of our young people turning away from religion, you would think a minister would jump at the chance to bring them into the fold.

If they can't find a minister to marry them, they should consider a judge. At least it would be legal. Also, a sea captain has the authority to legalize a union. Have they considered that?

LOVES CHILDREN

DEAR LOVES: After having been told to go jump in the lake by so many ministers, they might indeed find a sea captain the ideal one to tie the knot.

State adoption reforms urged by Celeste

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Single persons could file petitions of adoption under a major reform bill under consideration in the Ohio legislature.

Rep. Richard F. Celeste, D-5 Cleveland, introduced the bill. He called it "the most comprehensive adoption reform" measure drafted in Ohio in the past 20 years.

Backed by the Gilligan administration and sponsored by 16 Democrats and 13 Republicans in the House, the bill provides that single persons as well as married persons could file petitions of adoption.

Paul H. Coleman, director of legal affairs in the Department of Public Welfare, said "This does not, of course, mandate that such adoptions be finalized..."

He said, "The language is permissive and is designed to give our probate courts greater flexibility and increase the potential pool of suitable adoptive homes."

Celeste said it is the bill's philosophy that "normally, the best possible place for a child to be raised is with his natural family."

"If, however, the child cannot or should not be raised in that family, the best place for the child is in a permanent, adoptive home — as opposed to either long term foster care or institutionalization," he said.

Among the major features of the bill is a requirement for every child-placing agency to make annual evaluations of its efforts to place each child in its care.

No petition could be denied solely on the basis of age, race, religion, income level, or marital status, and parents adopting a child would have to file a statement with the court listing any expenses they incurred during the process.

Coleman said the statements would represent an effort to regulate independent "or socalled gray market adoptions" and discover if other interests are involved in the surrendering of a child.

The bill further provides that "full faith and credit" would be given to "bona fide" adoption decrees issued in other states or nations.

Celeste said it is the intent of the bill "to ensure that the practices of the State of Ohio, its courts, and adoption agencies, are the very best possible for the child involved in each specific situation."

TV Viewing

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

And in this corner ... well, as yet no actor—Emmy winners included—has accepted Beradino's $5,000 challenge to an "acting bout."

Beradino, star of the ABC soap opera and a highly competitive former major league second baseman, has been doing a slow burn for several years because the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences has no separate Emmy awards category for daytime dramatic performers.

This past week Beradino flew to New York to accept an award from Afternoon TV Magazine for "his leadership in the fight to gain recognition for daytime actors."

"After fruitless years of trying to get recognition, I think this stemmed from what Bobby Riggs did," he said, referring to Riggs' tennis challenge to Billie Jean King that was accepted by Margaret Court. "I wanted to bring this out into the open."

In his challenge, published in full-page advertisements in the Hollywood trade newspapers, he said:

"I, John Beradino, a daytime actor, personally challenge any nighttime actor (including Emmy Award winners) to an acting bout provided the material of both participants is of equal value and is acceptable to the principals involved."

He suggested a $5,000 winner-take-all purse, with the results to be decided by a panel made up equally of daytime and nightime performers.

A Television Academy spokesman said the Academy was not involved and would not participate in any side contests.

Beradino, 56, a one-time second baseman for the St. Louis Browns and Cleveland Indians, contends that daytime performers rate recognition because they must perform five days a week and don't have the luxury of a retake if they fluff a line. They have to hit it right the first time.

The soaps do have wide followings, and the performers— many stage trained—do a fine job. The pity is that the material is spun out like cotton candy and the actors really have little of substance they can sink their teeth into.

Nevertheless, Beradino, who starred in two prime-time series himself, figures series actors are flabby, figuratively, and too spoiled by retakes to complete a scene the first time without a mistake. His requirement for anyone brave enough to accept his challenge: "We'd each work with an actress on a half hour scene. And it would be live on tape—with no retakes."

Whistling bicyclists a problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whistle-blowing bicycle gangs are a nerve-wracking new development in downtown Washington and around such places as the Capitol and Washington Monument.

The police-type whistles are used in lieu of a horn signal to warn motorists and pedestrians that the bike-riders, mostly teen-agers, are barreling down the street or sidewalk at speeds too fast to stop quickly. Whistles also are blown for special greetings or moments of general excitement.

Generally the groups range in size from 5 to 10 members during the day. At night, particularly in more isolated or residential areas, they may number as many as 100.

The craze began in Southeast Washington about a month ago and now is being observed in downtown areas at evening rush hours. The bike riders run red lights, drive the wrong way on one-way streets and dodge in and out among moving cars. They're not above trying stunts like rearing up on the back wheels at high speeds. Their bikes can achieve relatively high speeds, perhaps 20 to 25 miles an hour, through 5 or 10-speed gears.

Miss Flax, bride-elect, guest at bridal shower

Mrs. Marvin Waddle and Mrs. Marion Waddle combined hospitalities for a miscellaneous bridal showere for Miss Gaye Flax, bride-elect of Edwin Thompson Jr., in the McNair Presbyterian Church basement Saturday evening.

Two orange sprinklers filled with orange, pink and blue flowers, the bride-elect's colors, decorated the food table. A white sprinkler surrounded by roses was on the gift table where the honor guest opened many lovely and useful gifts.

Refreshments of dainty tea sandwiches, cookies, nuts and punch were served to the invited guests: Mrs. Jack Flax, mother of the guest of honor, Mrs. Edwin Thompson, mother of the prospective groom, Miss Cindy Thompson, Mrs. Lela Thompson, Mrs. Homer Morrow, Mrs. George Inskeep, Mrs. Mike Inskeep, Mrs. Kenneth Miller, Mrs. Randall Miller, Mrs. Donald Miller, Miss Melissa Miller, Mrs. Damon Merritt, Miss Beth Merritt, Mrs. Keith Merritt, Miss Kristi Cross, Mrs. Chris Cross, Miss Nancy Campbell, Mrs. Harry Campbell, Mrs. Steven Shipley, Mrs. William Rodgers, Mrs. R.M. Meriweather, Miss Susie Meriweather, Mrs. Bill Carson, Miss Judy Carson, Mrs. Joe Forest;

Also Mrs. Dennis Zarse, Mrs. Paul Thompson, Mrs. Norman Armbrust, Mrs. Robert Chaney, Mrs. Norma Coil, Mrs. Jeff Hall, Mrs. Orville Waddle, Mrs. Ted Long, Mrs. Naomi Reif, Mrs. Martin O'Cull, Mrs. Jack Lyons, Miss Denise Lyons, Miss Lisa Lyons, Mrs. Garrell Leasure, Miss Teresa Leasure, Miss Sue Leasure, Mrs. Charles Ellis, Mrs. Russel Miller, Miss Joyce Ellis, Mrs. Bryan Leasure, Mrs. Ivan Kelley, Mrs. Charles Wood, Mrs. Robert Hyer, Mrs. Allan Hays, Mrs. Roy Hays, Mrs. Hazel Backenstoe, Mrs. Emmett Backenstoe, Miss Betty Jane Backenstoe, Mrs. Charles Keaton and Mrs. Harry Fichthorn.

Homemakers Club honor member at luncheon

The Concord Homemakers Club met at Anderson's Restaurant for a farewell luncheon honoring Mrs. David Sterrett. Mrs. Barney Morter presented Mrs. Sterrett with a beautiful Seth Thomas clock, the Sterretts are building a new home near Traverse City, Mich., and will be leaving this area soon.

Guests present were Mrs. Lida Jacobsen of Denmark, who is visiting Mrs. Roland Hall, and Miss Mary Jo Haines and Miss Lori Jones, who are visiting their grandmother, Mrs. Mauice Sollars. Additional members present were Mrs. Jean Nisley, Mrs. Orville Waddle, Mrs. Kenneth Bush, Mrs. Orville Bush, Mrs. Harold Counts, Mrs. Maryon Mark, Mrs. Heber Deer, Mrs. Walter Sollars, Mrs. William Shepard, Miss Helen Perrill, Mrs. Ralph Theobald, Mrs. Janet Sollars and Mrs. Carlton Belt.

Mrs. Hays WCTU hostess

Mrs. Cloyce Copley opened the meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union with the Thought of the day "The True Discovery of America is Before Us." Mrs. Ralph Hays was hostess. Miss Marian Christopher brought devotions and used "Anxious Care" for her topic. She stressed the thought that if one worries, he has not faith in God. She closed by quoting from the words of the hymn, "God Will Take Care of You," and prayer.

Mrs. B.E. Kelley spoke of the vision of Frances Willard, and asked each to relate some experience in their life that would lead them to be a member of such an organization as WCTU. Some had followed in the footsteps of their mothers. Others expressed the need for the youth of the day to 'look up' to devoted members.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Hays served a desert course to the guests and was assisted by Mrs. Dean Torbett and Mrs. Arthur Finley. Mrs. Henry Simmons was welcomed as a new member.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Willis on July 27. Mrs. Charles Wagner will assist and Mrs. Hays will be program leader.

Class to meet

Christian Crusaders Class of South Side Church of Christ will meet in Fellowship Hall at 6:30 p.m. Saturday. A covered dish supper will precede the meeting.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Howard Brooks, Mrs. Grant Whiteside and Mrs. John Sparks. Mrs. Brooks will provide entertainment for the evening and Mr. Brooks will bring devotions. All are urged to attend the meeting and bring a guest.

American teenagers meet Princess Grace

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Princess Grace kept a diary in her teen years and has given it to her daughter Caroline to read. That is one of the tidbits brought back to the United States by three 18-year-olds who were received by her royal highness at the palace on their award-winning trip to Europe.

"But she advised us, good humoredly, that maybe it isn't a good idea to show diaries to daughters," said Janet Few of Wilmington, Del., one of the trio. The other pretty contest winners were Gay Dixon of Lakewood, Calif., and Dianne Risius of Bricelyn, Minn.

The visit with the princess was the highlight of the fun-filled trip. They also discussed with her the trip she had made to Europe in her teens.

"She made us feel relaxed because she was so casual," said blondish Dianne, as brown-eyed Janet pointed out, "she didn't walk with the air of some magnificent creature. She was perfectly natural." She just wore face makeup and mascara," Gay added, "no false eyelashes or lacquered bouffant."

In London it was Gay who had finished first in the final judging of the Junior Miss Hair Styling Competition sponsored by John H. Breck, but all the girls were to receive scholarships to colleges in addition to the 10-day trip to London, Monaco and Paris.

Their hairdos were a bit different when they returned home. Janet's layered curls had been combed into a page-boy, Dianne's ponytail was hanging in a soft sweep after her first experience at a hair salon abroad, and Gay's short hair had taken on a French windblown effect. Her naturally curly hair had been straightened before she submitted her picture to the contest.

In their travels the girls had dined with a duke, rock singer, a 22-year-old leader of a Scottish clan, a young millionaire, and they had eaten mussels, caviar, duck, smoked salmon — and rabbit (at the Eiffel Tower) which they liked, much to their surprise. Even herbs in a salad captivated their taste buds enough to be remembered.

And there were all the other things — ". . .At Piccadilly Circus, Anthony Newley in the Good Old Days was a great experience. . . I went into the salt water for the first time and saw my first mountain (Dianne) I bought a record (Cream) on Carnaby Street (Gay). . . In London we ate in a tower that had a revolving dance floor (Janet). . . We went to Westbury for tea. . . (Gay)

The girls also enjoyed their first subway ride, and being typically American they shopped and shopped. For themselves: jeans, records, hand-painted skirts, sweaters. But much of the shopping was done with friends in mind.

"I got my boyfriend a bow tie because all the boys in London are wearing them and if he doesn't like it (paisley, green and yellow) I'm just going to say, 'Man, are you ever out of it,'" said Gay.

She had also bought her dad a sweater and her mom a watercolor. Dianne and Janet also bought ties for boyfriends, and gifts for their mothers.

After seven years of school French, Gay managed so well she'd like to live in Paris one summer. In fact, the tall, willowy girl with a sophisticated flair, has been, more or less, promised a modeling job if she can arrange to go back. She has traveled extensively in the United States with her parents, who are school teachers. She expects to attend law school after junior college. Dianne plans to teach and Janet is hoping to get involved in home economics.

When a young Frenchman appeared to say goodby to Gay, he was wearing a University of Georgia sweatshirt.

"Nowadays you've got to wear a United States college sweatshirt to be cool," he explained.

60th anniversary observed by couple

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Hyer and daughter Barbara of New Holland, attended the 60th wedding anniversary observance of Mr. Hyer's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yoesting in Bellefontaine Sunday.

The open house celebration was attended by nearly 100 persons which was held in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fout.

Also attending from this area were two other brothers and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hyer of Lyndon, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Hyer of Greenfield, and Mrs. W.L.Southard of Clarksburg.

Artichoke hearts (from a can) may be sliced and added to cream of chicken soup.

GA is the winning combination

Magic letters make loser a winner

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — He doesn't seem like a loser — this good-looking man in a meticulously-tailored suit, with a Park Avenue apartment, a highly remunerative business and a wife and children who respect him.

But he has been a loser most of his life, losing hundreds of thousands of dollars as a compulsive gambler, losing his freedom during two prison terms, losing his first wife to divorce and losing a 14-year-old son who told the judge he would commit suicide if his father were given visitation rights.

In addition to a big diamond ring and gold cufflinks, these days this sandy-haired man with graying sideburns proudly wears another piece of jewelry, in his lapel. It is a gold GA with a diamond — a symbol of Gamblers Anonymous, the organization to which Bernie P. gives complete credit for turning him from a loser into a winner.

"I was $62,000 in debt when I emerged from that cesspool you can't find words to describe," says the husky-voiced Bernie. While freely admitting to friends and associates his involvement in GA, because of the nature of the organization he has remained anonymous in "Compulsive Gambler," a book he has written with William Bruns.

"I ALWAYS FELT the only way I could ever get even was if someone would give me a million dollars, but that wouldn't have done it. Money was not the problem. After all, I once stole $230,000 and just used it for gambling," he declares. "But since I stopped I now have everything I ever wanted or needed."

In addition to a second wife and two adopted children, Bernie has been reconciled with his own son.

"I made overtures, asked him to renew his acquaintance and let me prove to him that I am no longer the father he had known, but a normal human being," he explains. "We now have a fantastic relationship and he has made me a grandfather," he adds, pulling out a wallet to show off the picture of a laughing 3-year-old girl.

Bernie, who says that he was a compulsive gambler "from the day I was born just like an alcoholic is one from the day he is born," was gambling for marbles and cigar store certificates when he was 6. His parents were Russian immigrants who ran a restaurant in the Bronx, and he stole nickels and dimes out of guests' coat pockets to use for gambling.

"I WAS a tough kid, handy with my fists," relates the former Golden Gloves champion, who started boxing only to win prizes that he could sell for gambling money.

"I was basically a craps shooter and sports bettor, but just as an alcoholic progresses to rye if there's no scotch and then to wine and then any kind of alcohol, later I looked for any kind of action.

"For some reason society understands and sympathizes with narcotics addicts and alcoholics, but not the sickness of gambling," he says.

"I borrowed money to bury my father and gambled it away. Isn't that a sickness? How can you be a normal person and enjoy something that's so detrimental — that ruins your life and that of your wife and children?"

Bernie was finally persuaded by a friend to attend a Gamblers Anonymous meeting in 1962. "I was deeply in debt and had asked for a loans," he recalls. "He said if I'd try GA and it didn't help me then he'd loan me $5,000. Well, for $5,000 I would have killed someone, so I went. They said 'Try our way a few months. If you don't think we can help you go back to your misery.' I had never realized you could make money legitimately. I got a job for $100 a week, made a deal to pay the loan sharks $10 a week.

"I'd been living like an animal in a cage. If someone tapped me on the shoulder it had to be the cops. If the phone rang it had to be a bill collector. For the first time I had peace of mind."

NOW BERNIE is in the dress manufacturing business but he devotes evenings and weekends to GA. He travels extensively at his own expense, lectures and has been active in setting up branches in prisons.

Every Friday night he makes a 100-mile drive to the Long Island branch of GA, where he first joined. "All good things started to happen to me than so I haven't wanted to switch," he says.

"This sickness can happen to anybody at any age," he points out. "We have priests and rabbis in GA. Not long ago parents brought in their 15-year-old son who had stolen $5,000 from them to gamble. And another member is a former jockey who is 73 years old.

"I never knew what made me gamble, but when something bothered me I gambled," he says. "Now when something bothers me I talk about it in GA. The strength of our therapy is that we all have problems and we are able to relate to one another."

TUESDAY, JULY 3

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)
Clever management could be a prime factor in day's success. One victory could start a chain of them going, so start by handling a small, but difficult, job well.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)
Hou may be indecisive now, not knowing which way to turn, but don't wait for "inspiration" to help you. Get going, and let past procedures guide you.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
You have the inside track in a number of areas — if you will just recognize available opportunities and handle them in your usual ingenious manner.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
Take short cuts if they do not cut down on essentials and the quality of your endeavor. Only small gains indicated, but do not belittle them.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
A good period of revitalizing all projects, for capitalizing on unusual ideas and revamping outdated methods. Some news of interest indicated.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
Inner excitement and heightened anticipation could send you off the sound path, in both thought and action. Make a special effort to maintain composure.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
There's a tendency now to reject good suggestions without thorough understanding. Consider carefully before saying "No." Don't "jump the gun," however.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
You may now have the opportunity to advance through a "different" idea. At least, draw up plans to project at the right moment.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
You will have less opposition in certain areas than you expect. Take the bit by the teeth; put beliefs, intuitive ideas actively to work.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
You may not be alert to certain trends, not aware of underground movement — may just be believing what you wish to. Think again!

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Stellar influences suggest a need for added vigor in your thrust forward, but be careful not to alienate associates. Tendencies toward overaggressiveness prevail.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
Aspects mostly auspicious, but accuracy and forethought must spark all decisions, moves. Travel and outdoor interests especially favored.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a great love of the theater and, if properly trained in early years, could excel as actor, director or producer of plays, or as a dramatic critic. You also have a talent for writing and would make an excellent journalist or novelist. Other fields suited to your abilities: Finance, insurance, publishing, chemistry, engineering or designing. On the personal side, you are affectionate, generous, sympathetic, a devoted spouse and parent. Try, however, to curb tendencies toward jealousy and hypersensitivity.

Government drug warriors floundering in confusion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government's drug warriors are losing their leaders and floundering in confusion because they don't know who their new boss will be.

The directors of two major drug abuse agencies, the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs and the office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement, are quitting almost simultaneously. Their agencies and most other federal drug abuse functions are being merged at midnight Saturday.

Some officials said a White House appointment of an acting chief of the new Drug Enforcement Administration is imminent, but the appointment of a permanent chief requires Senate confirmation, guaranteeing still further delay.

Officials involved in planning the transition say the leaderless state has fostered confusion at high policy levels, if not in the routine field office work.

Said an official of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs (BNDD): "It's incredible. Nobody knows what's going to happen. People don't know whether they're going to keep their jobs or what."

And an official of the Office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement (DALE) said: "You can't do anything, really, because whoever comes in might throw out everything you've done and start all over."

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — What's brown and white, but has a red and white tail when fully grown, eats rodents, reptiles and large insects—and if you're 12-year-old Mark Vermeer of Grand Rapids, it would be your favorite pet?

Give up? Well, for those of you who answered that it was a puppy cross-bred with a frog, you're wrong. The correct answer is King, the red-tailed hawk, owned by an active 4-H member, Mark Vermeer.

Mark got the bird about a month ago when King was only nine months old. Since then Mark has taught her to hunt and fly.

"I do a lot of things with birds," Mark said. "I was interested in the art of falconry. So here I am with a red-tailed hawk."

King eats "mostly other birds," according to Mark, but "if it's any sort of fresh flesh she'll eat it," too.

King, who won't be fully grown for about a year, can spread her wings about a yard wide, but as an adult she will have a spread of over 50 inches, and may live to be 20 or 30 years old.

Even though Mark is very fond of the bird he will release her soon, because the red-tailed hawk is a protected bird, and can be kept only until it can fly and hunt, then it has to be released.

"I don't like it," Mark said. "It's kind of a super-duper pet."

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA

Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

WASHINGTON — The recent Supreme Court ruling on obscenity represents a major breakthrough in the war against hard-core pornography.

It means that communities across the country, blighted by theaters and shops peddling obscene movies and filth, can finally do something about them.

It means that the flow of pornographic meterials, increased in part by previous weak and vague Supreme Court interpretations, can be stopped dramatically.

In a series of five decisions last week, the Supreme Court ruled that states could write and enforce obscenity statutes against materials meeting three conditions: (1) they appeal to a prurient interest in sex, (2) they portray defined sexual conduct in an offensive way, and (3) they have no serious literary or artistic value.

Local community standards would determine what is prurient or offensive and the catch-all phrase "redeeming social value" — which has contributed greatly to the pornography explosion since its use in the 1966 Supreme Court decision — would not be acceptable as a defense for questionable materials.

IN ADDITION, the court ruled that obscenity was not protected by the constitutional doctrine of privacy, and this is a very important and valid point.

I do not believe the authors of the Constitution ever meant the protection of free speech to the extent that communities not wanting pornography in their midst were helpless against smut peddlers because of a vague and misguided interpretation of the amendment by the court.

One of the most common arguments for the sale of pornographic materials in recent times is that no one can actually prove that they are harmful. But as Chief Justice Warren Burger explained in handing down his landmark decision: "Although there is no conclusive proof of a connection between anti-social behavior and obscene material, a legislature could quite reasonably determine that such a connection does or might exist."

He also referred to a previous Supreme Court decision in 1957 which stated: "All ideas having even the slightest redeeming social importance — unorthodox ideas, controversial ideas, even ideas hateful to the prevailing climate of opinion — have full protection of the First Amendment guarantees, unless excludable because they encroach upon the limited area of more important interests. But implicit in the history of the First Amendment is the rejection of obscenity as utterly without redeeming social importance."

Perhaps the most important factor in these decisions, however, is that emphasis is placed on contemporary community standards of what is obscene rather than any hypothetical national definition.

The individual states can thus establish their own standards or can permit local options. If a pornographic work, under the Supreme Court guidelines, is deemed "patently offensive" in its content, it can be banned and the purveyors prosecuted.

FOR YEARS, Congress has been trying to pass laws which would deal effectively with curtailing pornography, and I have authored many of them and supported them consistently. But at every turn, until this latest decision, Supreme Court rulings have taken the teeth out of these laws, keeping the hard-core pornography distributors on the market who prospered from a multi-billion dollar industry in obscenity.

While they filled their cash registers — professing to profit only from "consenting adults" — the exposure of their wares could not be kept from adversely influencing the youth of the communities. It has been a dear price in moral degradation that society cannot afford to pay any longer.

Already, many pornography dealers are clearing their shelves of offensive hard-core materials as a result of this Supreme Court decision. If they don't, says the Supreme Court, the communities finally have the right to help them along and to rid America of this intolerable moral pollution.

15 inmates in outbreak at Findlay

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Fifteen prisoners of Hancock County Jail staged a one-hour disturbance which was broken up by 13 deputies and policemen Sunday night.

Sheriff William Bell said the prisoners used wood from a dismantled table to block entrances to the cells. He said they used the steel from the table to smash windows, lights and shower stalls.

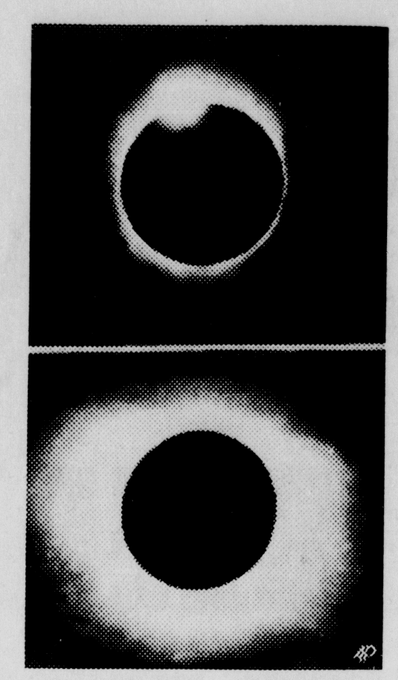
Bell said officers entered the cellblock and put an end to the disruption. He said about $400 damage resulted from the disorder and a similar disturbance Friday night.

No injuries were reported in either incident.

The sheriff said the disturbances were apparently linked to the complaints of three inmates being held without charges since drug raids on Thursday. He said Findlay Municipal Court was jammed on Friday, so the three were to be charged today.

Five inmates not involved in the disorder were transferred to the Wyandot County Jail in Upper Sandusky.

Three royal houses lost their thrones as result of World War I: the Romanovs, Hapsburgs and Hohenzollerns.



TOTAL ECLIPSE — A last bit of sunlight, top, peeks through the top of the moon seconds before the total eclipse, bottom, as seen from aboard the liner Canberra, floating in the Atlantic off the west coast of Africa near Mauritania. Eclipse lasted 5 minutes, 32 seconds, and was one of longest in recorded history.

Ohio man slain

DECATUR, Ind. (AP)—Marian Slaven, 31, Decatur, was held today on a preliminary charge of assault and battery with intent to kill.

She was arrested Sunday in connection with the shooting death of her estranged husband, Donald Slaven, 39, Fairborn, Ohio.

Slaven was shot to death in a parking lot in downtown Decatur late Saturday night.

Vietnamese girl tells of torture

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — "I was beaten on the chest until I vomited blood," says Nguyen Thi Phuong Thao. "They put sandbags on my body and beat me with a hammer, walked on me with boots."

The slender Vietnamese girl occasionally pounded her fist into her palm to illustrate the force of the beatings she said she suffered during 149 days in South Vietnamese jails. She used her hands to cover her flat, girlish chest while describing the pain.

Thao said she is 14, but a government source said records list her as 34.

Although she was released less than two weeks ago, Thao bears no visible marks or scars from her confinement. She said there are none because the guards placed the sandbags on her body before hitting her, and that their pinches caused superficial wounds that have long since healed.

Government officials refused to comment on Thao's tales of beatings and torture. Requests were turned down for interviews with officials charged with overseeing government prisons and police stations.

A government source said she was arrested Jan. 23 because she belonged to a Saigon student union which he identified as a a Viet Cong youth organization. The source said she worked as a sort of liaison for various Viet Cong groups.

Thao denied she was a Viet Cong supporter. She claimed she was jailed because she opposes the regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

A government official said that among stacks of books at her home police found words to songs extolling peace. He said some of the songs may have been played on the national television station, but that they were banned at the time Thao was arrested.

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Two teen-age girls from Pennsylvania found dead in their motel cottage here Saturday were shot in the head and strangled, police report.

Police had originally thought that Lynn Seethaler and Janice Pietropola, both 19, had died of severe beatings. Miss Seethaler also had a four-inch laceration on her neck, but police were not sure what caused it.

An autopsy has been performed on both girls but the results have not yet been made public.

Lt. E.F. Buzzy said Sunday that no motive for the slayings has been established. Buzzy said 15 detectives, virtually the entire Virginia Beach bureau, have been assigned to the case.

Liquor clerks again threaten strike action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The local president of a retail liquor clerks union plans to present Ohio officials with the proper membership cards by Friday.

Charles Oliver of the Union of State Government Employes said if the state still refuses to recognize his new union by the end of the week, he will have to take "drastic action."

Oliver said his membership gave him the go-ahead to take the action at a meeting here on Sunday. He refused to discuss what the action would be.

Liquor store clerks in parts of Ohio had threatened to walk off their jobs Saturday to push for state recognition of their union. The job action fizzled after there were unfounded reports of state approval of the union.

Lavelle in Chicago

columbus, ohio (AP) — William A. Lavelle, chairman of the Ohio Democratic party, traveled to Chicago today to confer with other state party chiefs on the date of the National Democratic Party Charter Conference.

Leper colony moves on amid war

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer

QUI NHON, Vietnam (AP) — There's a beautiful oasis of peace in the war-torn country of Vietnam. It's a leper colony.

For more than 40 years it has nestled in a valley which spills over onto the golden sand beaches of the South China Sea 330 miles northeast of Saigon.

A rutted road of jagged rocks fit for only goats and Jeeps links the Qui Hoa Leprosarium with the seacoast town of Qui Nhon beyond the mountains which shelter it.

The leper colony is home to 1,042 Vietnamese who have no place else to go for help against the disease which ravages hands, feet and skin and has no guaranteed cure.

Despite decades of fighting which have swirled around its 175 acres, the leprosarium has never been abandoned. The foreign sisters left only once—between 1945 and 1955—but their Vietnamese counterparts stayed behind at their own request when the Viet Minh battled French soldiers on the grounds following the Japanese occupation of World War II.

There are now 14 main buildings and a village of 230 spacious, two-room houses erected to accommodate patients who brought their families with them. There's a school, a church and a fourwing hospital.

There are no paid employes and little money for upkeep so the patients do all the work themselves. Those who are too sick to leave their beds are cared for by the others.

They make bricks, erect buildings, cook food, clean rooms, manicure grounds, wash clothes, care for orphans whose parents have died of disease, catch fish in their own man-made pond and grow fruits and vegetables.

Nguyen Thi Hoa, a shriveled 64-year-old woman who has spent 35 years watching her own hands and feet decay, says she loves Sister Antoine, the leprosarium's white-haired directress, as she did her own mother.

As Miss Hoa talks of her years at Qui Hoa a slow trickle of tears inches down her cheeks and she reaches for Sister Antoine with fingers which are now only stumps. She says she's never had a visitor and has never been down to the sea she's stared at for more than 13,000 days of her life.

But the nuns have taught her a little French and have given her a doll to cradle and she says she's content to wait there with them for death.

MERITING YOUR TRUST
Meriting the trust and confidence of our customers has been the primary objective of Albers Food Stores throughout its history.
Particular attention is given to our advertising. All products must be correctly represented. They must be priced accurately in our stores – and they must be available in sufficient quantity to meet reasonable demand. We strive to follow these rules to the full extent of our capabilities.
However, we are human, and, occasionally, something goes wrong. It is possible that we may be out of an advertised item, or a price may not have been marked to conform with the ad. We do everything we can to keep from inconveniencing our customers, but when it does occur we want to make things right as quickly as possible.
Should you experience some problem, please contact the store manager immediately. If we are temporarily out of an advertised item, he will gladly give you a RAIN CHECK which will permit you to purchase the item at the advertised price when it becomes available. If there is ever any question regarding the price of an item, your manager wants to know that too. Please help him to help you for that's his principal reason for being there.
We appreciate the patronage of the thousands of people who shop with Albers Food Stores every week, and we intend to continue doing everything possible to merit your continued trust and confidence.
Sincerely,
W. B. LAWRENCE
Vice President

Seven area crashes investigated

Four youths hurt in rural accident

Four Fayette County youths were treated at Memorial Hospital for injuries suffered in a two-car crash on Ohio 41, just north of the Fayette-Highland County line, shortly after midnight Sunday. The crash was one of seven investigated by local law enforcement agencies over the weekend.

Treated at Memorial Hospital were Beryle D. Pierce, 16, Rt. 1, Greenfield, with chest and rib injuries; Reuben Pierce, 15, Rt. 1, Greenfield, with a laceration of the forehead; Timothy Salyers, 16, Rt. 6, with back and rib injuries and David L. West, 15, of Good Hope. West was admitted with possible internal injuries.

Pierce's 1964 model car was demolished and heavy damage was listed to the 1968 Blain auto. Pierce was cited for failure to maintain an assured clear distance.

A 10-YEAR-OLD Washington C.H. girl was slightly injured when her bicycle was struck by a car on Court Street at Steen Court Saturday night.

Officers said Vicki I. Whaley, 10, of 418 W. Court St., suffered minor bumps in the 8:58 p.m. mishap.

Police said a car driven by Ann L. Posey, 24, Rt. 1, Greenfield, was pulling from the Super Par lot onto Court Street when her car struck the rear wheel of the bicycle, knocking the Whaley girl to the pavement.

There were no citations.

Five drivers were charged in other mishaps investigated;

POLICE

SATURDAY, 11:29 a.m. — James B. Henry, 34, of 250 Curtis St., was cited for failure to yield the right of way in a collision with a car driven by Billy R.H Haines, 20, Rt. 1, at the intersection of North Street and Western Avenue; damage moderate.

3:12 p.m. — Ronald G. Anderson, 30, Milledgeville, was cited for backing without safety after he collided with a fire hydrant in front of 637 Harrison St.; damage minor.

3:40 p.m. — Sylvia H. Campbell, 62, of 324 Lewis St., was cited for making an improper turn in a collision at the intersection of Rose Avenue and Pearl Streets with a car driven by Kenneth J. Matthews, 21, of 1225 N. North St.; damage moderate.

SUNDAY, 12:03 p.m. — Herbert A. Bonner, 16, of 1207 S. Fayette St., was cited for driving without safety after he backed from a private drive onto S. Fayette Street into the path of a car driven by Leo B. Snow, 57, Sabina; damage moderate.

SHERIFF

SUNDAY, 2:54 a.m. — A car driven by Timothy A. Brignac, 16, Rt. 1, Mount Sterling, ran off Cook-Yankeetown Rd., about 13 miles north of Washington C.H., and collided with an embankment; damage moderate.

12:45 p.m. — Ray A. Huntsman, 20, Waverly, was cited for driving an unsafe vehicle after a collision with a car driven by Terrance J. Leffredo, 21, New Vienna, on Stafford Road at the Rattlesnake Creek Bridge; damage moderate.

Hospital treats injury victims

Ora E. Bellar, 68, of 1139 E. Paint St., was admitted to Memorial Hospital with a fractured hip sustained Sunday night. Police said Bellar apparently suffered the injury while loading trash at the Rocking Chair Inn, Wilson St.

Steve Z. Balahtsis, 12, of 1212 S. Main St., suffered arm and leg injuries when a punch machine being hauled in a truck he was riding fell over. Police said the machine fell on Balahtsis when the truck being driven by his father, Jack Balahtsis, rounded the corner at Clinton Avenue and Draper Street.

The injured boy was released after treatment in the emergency room.

Wide variance in meat prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of sirloin steak rose to $12.92 a pound in Tokyo last month but dipped to 56 cents in Buenos Aires, according to U.S. price watchers abroad.

A survey of retail food prices in foreign capitals published today by the Agriculture Department showed that the price of meat, eggs and chicken increased in most of the 14 countries surveyed.

Sirloin steak cost a median price of $2.66 per pound in the capital cities, up from $2.56 in the May report. In Washington, D.C., it was reported at $1.99 per pound in June, compared with $1.79 in May.

Trash fire doused

City firemen were called to a minor trash fire at the rear of 216 Fourth Street at 9:02 p.m. Sunday. Firemen said the blaze at the Joseph M. Hottinger home was apparently set when a passerby in the alley tossed a match into the trash. There was no damage.

SUMMER . . .BY SUMMERS — Fleecy cumulus clouds add a touch of summer beauty to this rural scene snapped by Record-Herald photographer Ed Summers. The setting is on U.S. 22-E at Johnsons Crossing.

Reserve, Guard to ease off on drilling team

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department says the Army and National Guard are going to experiment with a shortened required period of weekend drills and summer camp in order to induce more enlistments.

In 16 states, guard and reserve enlistees will be able to drop weekend meetings and drills and summer camp after three years, instead of the usual six. After the first three years, they will still be carried as reservists, but will not be required to attend training sessions.

In another 13 states, the enlistees will have four years of meetings and summer camp, followed by two years of inactive reserve status.

New reservists and guardsmen brought in during the next 90 days will be covered by the experiment, Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway said.

States with the three-year enlistment experiment are Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, New Mexico, Texas, Washington, Oregon, Hawaii and Wisconsin.

Those with the four-year option are Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Nebraska, North Dakota, Kansas, Missouri, Arizona, Nevada and California.

State employes rap pay plans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two state employe unions are dissatisfied with their share of the new state budget which is more than $40 million less than had been requested.

Wages for union members in the two-year budget that went into effect this week are allocated at $60.1 million.

The Ohio Civil Service Employes Association had asked for a pay package worth $100 million. The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes sponsored a wage boost equaling $112 million.

According to records kept by Coyt A. Stookey, 134 E. Ohio Ave., official weather observer for the city, the half-year precipitation total for Washington C.H. reached 23.94 inches, 2.34 inches in excess of the 21.58-inch over-the-years average.

At Parrott Station, seven miles to the north and in the Fayette County "rain belt" Gale Parrett measured 7.98 inches of rainfall in June. The average in that community also is 3.97, but last year's total for the month was 7.42 inches.

In Washington C.H., rain fell on 15 of June's 30 days, ranging from a trace on the 6th and 12th to 1.36 inches on the 17th. There wewe a number of severe weather alerts for the area, but damage from wind and lightning was not serious.

Minimum daily temperatures ranged from a low of 50 on the first day of the month to a high of 69 on the 16th. Maximum daily temperatures ranged from a low of 69 on the 27th to a high of 89 on the 11th.

At Parrott Station, records showed 15 days of rain, 14 partly cloudy days and one day of completely fair weather.

	Act.	Avg.
January	2.01	3.38
February	1.33	2.44
March	4.07	3.99
April	6.34	3.99
May	4.55	3.81
June	5.64	3.97
Totals	2394	21.58

Newark boy bitten at Columbus Zoo

He was listed in fair condition today at Riverside Hospital following surgery. The capybara, a native of South America, is the largest member of the rodent family.

The animal was kept in a natural area surrounded by a five-foot high chain link fence.

Clinton Ave. resurfacing work slated

City street crews will be resurfacing Clinton Avenue near its intersection with Court Street this week, but no major traffic problems are anticipated, according to Bill Duncan, acting city street superintendent.

Duncan said his men also will be mowing and cleaning brush along Paint Creek again this week, continuing with painting and possibly cleaning out some manholes.

Fayette County road crews, under the direction of County Engineer Charles P. Wagner, will begin double-sealing Jones, Cisco, Creamer and Boyd roads Tuesday. Jones Road will receive attention first.

Wagner also reported his men will be finishing up the Railroad Street project in Jeffersonville, putting in a culvert along Whiteoak Road, and continuing construction of a bridge on Wissler Road.

Twin Construction Co., Chillicothe, will begin construction of a bridge over railroad tracks on Miami Trace Road next week, at which time the road will be closed.

Some state highway workers will continue to assist on the I-270 project in Columbus this week, according to Gene Fitzpatric, Fayette County superintendent for the Ohio Highway Department.

State crews will also be operating six mowers, doing ditch work along Ohio 729 north of Jeffersonville, patching and trimming weeds along guardrails.

Frisch's forecasts new sales record

CINCINNATI — Record sales and improved earnings for the year ended June 3 have been forecast for Frisch's Restaurants, Inc. (Over-the-Counter) by Jack C. Maier, president and chief executive officer, together with the announcement that the company will open seven new restaurant units in the current 12-month period.

In the year ended June 3, retail sales rose to approximately $50 million from $35,483,000 last year, Maier stated, while total revenues (which include wholesale sales and fee income) were approximately $56 million, up from $41,439,000 the year earlier. Frisch's expects improved earnings for the year just ended, but audited figures are not yet available.

Without the great sanctuary of the Arctic, with its relatively undisturbed breeding grounds, many species of migratory birds could not survive.

Snake handlers ignore court order

NEWPORT, Tenn. (AP) — Ignoring a court order, several hundred persons converged on a small church in the East Tennessee mountains Sunday to demonstrate their faith in Jesus with fire and serpents.

When the ritual ended, one man had been bitten by a diamond rattler and another had set his arm afire but insisted he was not in pain.

"We had a contentious spirit here today," said the Rev. Liston Pack of the Holiness Church of God in Jesus Name. "Where there's confusion there's contention. Anytime you have a group like that, you have a contentious spirit."

Pack's brother and a North Carolina preacher were killed last April in a similar ritual at the tiny wooden frame church in Newport, about 40 miles east of Knoxville. Each, however, died of strychnine poisoning, which was not in evidence Sunday.

The episode led to a circuit court order banning the congregation's handling of snakes to test its faith. But local authorities as well as several hundred worshipers — which came from at least eight states — ignored the court order Sunday.

At times, the faithful would have as many as six coiling serpents being passed among them while chanting, "In Jesus Name."

The snakes were taken from five boxes — four of which contained rattlers and the fifth an Indian Cobra.

"That cobra is just like a red worm if you get annointed with the spirit," Pack shouted as the lethal snake was handled without incident.

"That was 100 per cent victory right there," he declared.

A Columbus, Ohio, minister, the Rev. Richard Williams, tested his faith by placing his foot into a box of curling, hissing serpents. He was not bitten as he spoke, "I do that in the name of Jesus."

But Murl Bass, 35, of Chattanooga, who had tested his faith Saturday with a snake at a prayer meeting, was not as fortunate.

As he handled a rattler, the serpent darted at his forearm leaving a bloody track from deep fang wounds.

"In Jesus' name. Oh my God help him," came the prayerful chanting from Pack's house moments after Bass was taken there in obvious pain but refusing medical attention.

About eight hours later, he was reported resting comfortably in his North Chattanooga home.

"He says he feels pretty good," said Glenn Dukes, a neighbor looking in on Bass, "He hasn't seen a doctor or been to the hospital and says he doesn't plan to."

There was singing, shouting and hand clapping as the preachers and at least 200 faith-testers worked themselves into a trance-like state before handling the snakes.

Ben Laws of Middlesboro, Ky., tested himself with flame. Lighting a match to a cloth soaked in flammable liquid, Laws held his hand in the flames for more than a minute as his flesh darkened.

See injustice via welfare, Social Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States must better coordinate its Social Security, welfare and similar programs to end injustices both to recipients and to wage earners who pay the supporting taxes, the chairman of a congressional study committee said today.

Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., made the comment in connection with the publication of six studies of welfare programs by academic and other specialists in the field. The studies were commissioned by the Joint Economic subcommittee on fiscal policy, of which she is chairman.

Mrs. Griffiths said the studies demonstrate that, because of overlaps and conflicting regulations, "many low-and moderate-income workers gain little or no financial advantage from their own or their employers' contributions to social insurance programs such as Social Security and unemployment insurance."

To illustrate the effect of overlapping programs, Mrs. Griffiths cited a hypothetical case of two Michigan men, one of whom has contributed to Social Security during his working years, while the other has not. Both, she said, are assured by the welfare system of monthly income of $282 for themselves and their wives.

The welfare system pays the full amount for one couple, she said, while "the other man receives a Social Security check for himself and his wife of $250 monthly—about the average benefit for such couples nationwide—but he has found they can't live on this. So welfare gives him a small grant of $32," she said.

Taft requests answers about role of IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr, R-Ohio, has asked the Internal Revenue Service to answer charges made during the Senate Watergate investigation.

Witnesses have indicated the IRS checked income tax returns of persons who did not agree with White House policies.

Riding club offers holiday horse show

The Bar-None Riding Club will sponsor a horse show Wednesday at the Producers Stock Yards on U.S. Rt. 62-N, near Leesburg. The show will begin at 10 a.m.

The program will open with four contest classes, including a barrell race, flag race, pick-up race and pole bending. Entries will be $3 and a $40 purse will be divided by the top four finishers in each event.

Six halter classes are scheduled, for which the top finishers will receive trophies and ribbons. Entries in these events will be $1.

To close the day's activities there will be 10 performance classes, including 4-H and small fry horsemanship. 4-H members must show membership cards. Cash prizes will be awarded the first four finishers in each event, and the entries are $2.

The gate admission will be $1, children under 12 admitted free. Lunch may be purchased at the grounds.

Details about classes and entries are available from Ed Corzatt (513-780-3183) or George Anders (513-780-3186). Entries may be made the day of the show.

Ohio Power Co. struck

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Normal service has been maintained after nearly 1,900 Ohio Power Co. employes in Ohio and West Virginia struck in a contract dispute.

About 1,100 workers at Canton, Tiffin, Lima, Steubenville, Newark and Zanesville walked off their jobs Sunday when their contracts expired.

They joined 775 employes at plants at Brilliant, Philo, Power, W. Va., and Moundsville, W. Va., who struck last month.

Supervisory personnel manned the struck plants. A spokesman said, "We don't anticipate a cutback in customer service, although there may be a delay."

Plant employes represented by the Utility Workers Union of America and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers last met with company officials on Wednesday. A union spokesman said no agreements were reached then.

Reds sweep LA to regain pride

WCH boys win at Banner Day

A pair of Washington C.H. neighbors placed fourth in the annual Cincinnati Reds Banner Day competition at Riverfront Stadium Sunday afternoon.

Randy Jamison, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Jamison, 609 Leesburg Ave. and Steve Stritenberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Stritenberger, 623 Clinton Ave., placed fourth out of 650 entered in the contest and won $50 for their efforts.

The banner, made by the two youngsters, read "The Kings of Baseball, the Cincinnati Reds", and included a Reds emblem.

Intentional walks to Bench backfire in both contests

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers twice decided to walk Johnny Bench in the late innings Sunday and it cost them a doubleheader with Cincinnati winning 4-3 and 3-2.

The Dodgers, who won 8-7 Friday night, hope to get even tonight in the four game series. Los Angeles remains on top of the National League's western division and Cincinnati is nine games back.

Then another pinch hitter, Hal King, one for 10 since being recalled June 17 from Indianapolis, unloaded a two-out, two-strike homer with two runners on base to win the game 4-3.

"I swung so hard at that pitch I nearly ripped my shoe off my foot," laughed King, displaying the torn shoe. He said he hit a screwball off Sutton in 1971 for a grand slam for Atlanta.

"Yeah," said Sutton, "he's two-for-two off me now."

Tony Perez then slammed a line drive off the left center field wall for a single, scoring the winning run and giving Cincinnati a 3-2 victory.

Perez has seven hits in his last 14 tries. Against Los Angeles, he is hitting .347 with 17 hits, four homers and 10 runs batted in in 12 games. The two teams now are even on the season, 6-6.

The first game victory went to Fred Norman, now 4-1 since he was traded to Cincinnati by the San Diego Padres. He finished the game.

Kip Young Hillsboro's culprit

Post 25 tailspin hits six in row

By KIRK ARNOTT
Record-Herald Staff Writer

Kip Young did it in the first game. The culprits' list was longer in the second contest, but the results in both cases were familiar.

Washington C.H. Post 25 dropped a South Central Ohio American Legion League doubleheader to Hillsboro Sunday at Washington Senior High School, 1-0 and 11-9. The twin defeats stretched Post 25's losing streak to six games and left them one short of equaling their total loss figure for last season.

Young, a classy righthander from Bowling Green State University, baffled Pvost 25's would-be hitters and walloped a leadoff homer in the seventh inning to win a pitchers' duel with Randy Rodgers in the first game. His homer produced the game's only run.

Mixing his pitches well and changing speeds effectively, Young struck out 14 and walked only one, allowing four hits. Only one Post 25 runner reached third base.

Rodgers was almost as tough, yielding only five hits while whiffing 12 and walking one. He received creditable support from his fielders, but the Post 25 batters were unable to solve the offerings of Young, whose sidearm curve ball was devastating.

Rodgers' double in the second inning was the only extra-base blow for Post 25. The redheaded righthander reached third on a grounder, but a strikeout ended the only real Washington C.H. threat.

A HANDFUL of key errors and Hillsboro's 14-hit attack sealed Post 25's fate in the nightcap. Only two of Hillsboro's 11 runs were earned, as misplays prolonged several innings.

Washington C.H. came up with 10 hits, but the offense was still too little and too late. Trailing all the way, Post 25 was in the game until the seventh inning, when an error and five hits led to five Hillsboro runs. Until then, the score was 6-5.

Post 25 bounced back in its last turn at bat, Larry Rodgers' pinch triple highlighting a four-run uprising, but couldn't catch Hillsboro.

Danny Raike slapped two singles and a double, driving in three runs, to lead the Hillsboro offense. Greg Tucker chipped in with a double and a triple and Don Carle knocked in two runs with three singles.

Bob Seeling, Burton and Randy Hill shared the pitching for Hillsboro, totaling six strikeouts and four walks.

Mark Johnson, who took the lost for Post 25, was relieved with two outs in the last inning. He struck out five and walked two. Jeff Green and Randy Reiber finished the game for Post 25.

The two losses dropped the Post 25 record to 2-9 for the season, including 1-6 in the league. Hillsboro, now 7-1 in the SCOL, stayed in the thick of the pennant chase.

Post 25 hosts SCOL foe Chillicothe Post 757 at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday on the WSHS diamond.

Frazier and Bugner will fight tonight

LONDON (AP) — The talking is over now, and Joe Frazier and Joe Bugner are set to fight tonight, under the burning floodlights at London's Earl's Court Arena.

Frazier, the former world champion, and Bugner, European heavyweight titleholder, both have said they can't lose. In fact, both are looking ahead toward a possible meeting with world champion George Foreman, which the winner could receive.

Secretariat awaits next performance

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretariat was home awaiting his next performance today as his owner took care of his fan mail, which has reached 200 letters a day, and his agent worked on a line of merchandise bearing his name and likeness.

William Morris Agency, Inc., which handles many show business personalities, has been obtained to merchandise the Triple Crown winner who won the $125,000 Arlington Invitational Saturday at Chicago's Arlington Park.

This was done, Helen Tweedy, operator of Meadow Stable, said "because we want to have some control over the quality" of the merchandise.

As for the mail, Mrs. Tweedy said, "He gets as many as 200 letters a day and we've mailed1,000 free pictures of him so farm."

The affect that Secretariat has had on the public was clearly evident Saturday as a crowd of 41,223, largest at Arlington Park in at least 20 years, cheered his every move. It began with restrained applause as Secretariat walked from the barn to the paddock and reached a roar as he raced through the stretch for a nine-length victory over My Gallant, with Our Native third and Blue Chip Dan last.

The team of Ralph Tate and Robert Herron captured top honors in the two-man best ball golf tournament held at the Washington Country Club Sunday.

Tate and Herron turned in a 59 score to top the field in the tournament which attracted a total of 50 golfers.

Herron had an 80 auctal score while Tate's score was 84. Herron has an 11 handicap and Tate an 18.

DONALD ANDERSON turned in an unusual 78 score as he finished with a 45 on the first nine holde and then swatted a sizzling three-under-par 33 on the second nine. Bernie Light turned in his best-ever score with a 40-41-81.

Club pro Tony Capuana said a team best ball event will be held July 4 with a shotgun start at 9 a.m. following an 8:15 a.m. breakfast. A mixed scotch twosome will be held at 2 p.m. with a supper scheduled at 6:30 p.m.

Fuel shortage dooms McCluskey; Foyt wins

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — A.J. Foyt, a sports immortal if there ever was one, cradled his luck in his strong driving arms Sunday and won his first 500 mile championship auto race in six lean years.

The Texan, auto racing's most prolific winner of prize money—almost $3 million in 16 years—and more recently named driver of the decade, had led only 11 laps of the race. McCluskey had been in front 62 laps—more than any of the other seven drivers who set the pace.

Only eight of the original 33 starters finished the wreckmarred grind around the 2½ mile triangle-shaped course. The mishaps, one of which sent 1970 and 1971 Indianapolis winner Al Unser to a hospital, slowed the action for more than 50 miles.

In spite of the slowdowns, however, Foyt's elapsed time was only 2 hours, 26 minutes and 58.57 seconds for a speed of 144.944 miles per hour.

Third place went to 45-year-old Lloyd Ruby of Wichita Falls, Tex., fourth to Mike Mosley of Clermont, Ind., and fifth to Johnny Rutherford of Ft. Worth, Tex., who drove grimly on after brushing the first turn guard rail seconds after the race started.

Foyt, who left the speedway immediately to fly to Daytona Beach, Fla., where he hopes to drive a Chevrolet in the July 4 Firecracker 400, earned about $90,000 from the purse that almost reached $400,000. He and McCluskey were the only strong drivers remaining at the end. In addition to Al Unser, early leaders Bobby Unser, Jimmy Caruthers, Mario Andretti, Gary Bettenhausen, Mark Donohue and recent Indianapolis winner Gordon Johncock either went out with mechanical problems, wrecked or were slowed by failing engines.

Atlanta's late rally edges Giants, gains twinbill split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Atlanta Braves apparently have learned that even their wobbly bullpen can't blow a lead in the top of the 10th inning.

"Thank the Lord we didn't have to go back out there and face them another inning," a numb Manager Eddie Mathews gasped Sunday after the Braves rallied in the eighth inning...and again in the ninth...to nip the San Francisco Giants 8-7 and split a doubleheader.

The Braves blew a 6-5 lead in the opener when the Giants tattooed four Atlanta pitchers for nine runs on six hits and three walks and a 14-6 victory.

"Our relief pitching has become a joke," sobbed Mathews. "That second game was an instant replay of the first one. It was the same guys pitching to the same guys and they just can't get anybody out."

This time, it turned out okay when Frank Tepedino singled home the tying run in the bottom of the ninth and scored the winner on a bases-loaded sacrifice fly by Jackson, who also had a run-scoring single in the sixth.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds swept a twin bill from the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 and 3-2 in 10 innings, the Houston Astros shaded the San Diego Padres 64, the Chicago Cubs dropped their opener to the New York Mets 6-5 and took the nightcap by the same score, the Philadelphia Phillies edged the St. Louis Cardinals 1-0 and the Pittsburgh Pirates took two from the Montreal Expos 6-2 and 8-4.

Tony Perez drilled a long single with two out in the 10th inning to give the Reds their sweep over Los Angeles after Hal King slammed a pinch three-run homer off the right field foul pole with two out in the bottom of the ninth to win the opener.

Bob Watson's two-run homer and pitcher Don Wilson's tworun double led the Astros over the Padres. Fred Kendall drove in three San Diego runs with a double and a homer.

Randy Hundley's three-run homer off Tug McGraw with two out in the bottom of the ninth of the second game lifted the Cubs to a split with the Mets. McGraw had saved the opener for Jerry Koosman when left fielder George Theodore backed against the wall to grab Jim Hickman's ninth-inning drive with two runners aboard.

Philadelphia rookie Dick Ruthven hurled a two-hitter for his first major league shutout and the Phillies edged Bob Gibson of St. Louis on Greg Luzinski's run-scoring single in the eighth inning.

Jim Rooker and Dave Giusti combined for a six-hitter, Al Oliver homered and Fernando Gonzales whacked a two-run triple in the Pirates' secondgame victory over the Expos. Luke Walker and Bob Johnson spaced six hits in the opener while Oliver delivered three singles and a run-scoring triple. Ken Singleton homered in each game for the Expos.

Ump irks Weaver in O's loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Earl Weaver, manager of the Baltimore Orioles, does not think too highly of umpire Jim Evans. And that's putting it mildly.

"I believe Jim Evans is incompetent, and incapable of being a major league umpire," said Weaver, whose team dropped a doubleheader to the Tigers in Detroit Sunday 5-3 and 1-0.

What got Weaver going was a play in the fourth inning of the opening game, on which Norm Cash was awarded first base after being hit by a pitch from Jim Palmer.

That loaded the bases, and Duke Sims followed with a runscoring single, snapping a 1-1 tie. Two outs later, Aurelio Rodriguez delivered two more runs with a single, and the Orioles never caught up.

Evans did not award Cash first base right away. It was not until the Detroit veteran insisted he had been hit by the pitch and finally showed the umpire a red mark on his left arm that he was sent to first.

Weaver contended that Cash had not been hit by the pitch, but that he had pinched himself on his arm to produce the red mark.

By losing two while the Yankees were winning two, the Orioles dropped four games back of New York in the AL East race.

In other American League doubleheaders, the New York Yankees swept the Cleveland Indians 5-2, 11-3; the Milwaukee Brewers split with the Boston Red Sox, winning 9-5, then losing 4-2, and the Oakland A's swept the Chicago White Sox 6-4, 3-0. In night games, the Minnesota Twins edged the California Angels 2-1 and the Texas Rangers topped the Kansas City Royals 8-3.

Pat Dobson raised his record to 4-1 and Sparky Lyle notched his 20th save in the opener for New York. In the second game, Bobby Murcer drove in three runs with a two-run homer and a squeeze bunt and Ron Blomberg and Roy White each homered to back Fred Beene's eight innings of strong relief pitching.

Dave May and Ellie Rodriguez drove in two runs apiece, helping Milwaukee's Jim Colborn to his 11th victory of the season. Boston's designated hitter, Orlando Cepeda, drove in three of his team's four runs in the nightcap.

Oakland designated-hitter Deron Johnson drove home three runs in the A's first game, while Blue Moon Odom and Rollie Fingers combined to stop Chicago on four hits in the second game. The victory was only Odom's second in 11 decisions.

Bill Sudakis three-run homer in a five-run sixth inning outburst carried Texas past Kansas City.

JEFFERSONVILLE — A total of five games have been scheduled for the Fourth of July celebration at Jeffersonville.

Gordon McCarty said the celebration will open at 12:30 p.m. with a fireworks display by the Jeffersonville Fire Department climaxing the event at 9 p.m. Games scheduled are Morrow Funeral Home and Davis Drug, 12:30; Fayette County Bank and Colonial Sawdusters, 2; Jeff Merchants and Dinkler Plastics, 3:30; Jeff Royal Blue and Jeff Fire Department, 5; and the all-starts versus the coaches at 6:30 p.m.

In Jeff Little League play Saturday, Colonial Sawdusters handed the Jeff Fire Department a 3-1 setback. It was the first loss for the Fire Department. Tony Swigert was the winning pitcher giving up three hits and Steve Coe was the losing hurler after pitching a two-hitter. Darrell Hannah doubled for the winners and David Kiem hit a double for the losers.

The Firemen lead with a 4-1 record followed by Merchants (3-1), Sawdusters (3-2), Royal Blue (2-2), Dinkler Plastics (1-3) and County Bank (0-3).

R-H, Downtown Drug struggle to deadlock

The Record-Herald Flashes and Downtown Drug played to a 9-9 struggle in Little League Major action at Wilson Field Saturday.

The game which saw the Flashes get on the scoreboard early and then stave off a late Downtown Drug comeback bid was called because of the league's curfew rule.

In other action in the Little League Majors, Halliday's Mustangers and Wilson's Lumberjacks forfeited due to a lack of players.

The Flashes jumped to an 8-1 lead after four innings , but Downtown Drug bounced back with three runs in the fifth and five in the sixth to cap the see-saw scoring struggle.

Noel, the Flashes' pitcher, slammed a triple and a single, Knisley punched a pair of doubles, Ingram had a double and a triple and Porterfield doubled for the Record-Herald team.

Lee had two singles and a double for Downtown Drug, Tyree had a double and a single, Murphy cracked a pair of singles and Bick doubled in an eight-hit effort.

In minor league action Saturday at Armbrust Field, the Knights of Columbus squeezed past the Elks by an 11-10 score.

Four games slated in city cage loop

The Sports Center will clash with the Party Shoppe at 6 p.m. tonight to open this week's schedule. Two games are on tap Tuesday with Fayette Heating and Cooling meeting the Sports Center at 6 p.m. and Bath's playing the Party Shoppe at 7:30 p.m. On Thursday, Ridge Homes will meet the Oldies but Goodies at 6 p.m.

Casper ends tourney slump

CHICAGO (AP) — The old thrill and smile of winning a tournament returned to Billy Casper, who did a little dance Sunday on the 72nd hole after dropping a six-foot par putt to clinch the Western Open title.

It was Casper's first tournament victory since taking the Kaiser International in 1971 as he stepped back into the limelight that he once held in winning 48 championships and earning nearly $1.4 million.

Buffalo Bill joined early century Willie Anderson as the only players to win the Western Open four times. He captured it previously in 1965, 1966, and 1969.

"I call it the Casper stomp," he said in describing his footwork on the last hole that brought laughs from some 22,000 fans.

The last two holes were critical for him. On the 71st he saved par with a 12-foot putt after coming out a bunker.

On the 72nd, his approach was short and he pitched six feet away. He needed the putt for a par, a finishing 69, and a 10-under-par 272 over the trampled Midlothian course.

He got it, avoiding a sudden-death playoff with Larry Hinson and Hale Irwin, who tied for second at 273.

Casper's victory was worth $35,000 while Hinson and Irwin each pocketed $16,187.

Sharing fourth place money of $7,233 at 274 were Bruce Crampton, the third-round leader who tailed off to a 73; Hubert Green with a blazing 65 and J.C. Snead with 66. Art Wall and Arnold Palmer were next at 276 and John Mahaffey followed with 277.

Seldom have losers been so happy.

"I didn't win my fifth tournament of the season, but I achieved my most important milestone," said Crampton. "I got into the million dollar bracket."

The Australian boosted his career earnings to $1,003,103 to join Jack Nicklaus, Palmer, Casper and Lee Trevino as golf's millionaires.

CHICAGO (AP) — Elmer Layden, who came from Davenport, Iowa, to gain football immortality as a member of the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, is dead.

Layden, 70, died Saturday night in Northwestern University Medical Center. He was admitted to the hospital June 8 after being ill for six months. Hospital officials said the cause of death was unknown and an autopsy was scheduled.

Layden, along with quarterback Harry Stuhldreher, who died in January 1965, and halfbacks Don Miller and Jim Crowley, led Notre Dame to a national championship in 1924 when the Irish ran up a 9-0 record and then defeated Stanford in the Rose Bowl.

"Outlined against a blue-gray sky, the Four Horsemen rode again. In dramatic lore they are known as Famine, Pestilence, Destruction and Death. These are only aliases. Their real names are Stuhldreher, Miller, Crowley and Layden."

Miller, a federal bankruptcy referee in Cleveland, Ohio, and Crowley, retired in Scranton, Pa., planned to attend the funeral services scheduled for 10 a.m. Tuesday in Holy Name Cathedral.

Layden coached one season at Columbia College in Dubuque, Iowa, then moved to Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, where he had an excellent record.

In 1934 he was offered the head coaching job at his alma mater and in seven years under Layden, Notre Dame ran up a 47-13-3 mark including a national title in 1938.

Layden quit Notre Dame in 1940 to become commissioner of the National Football League, a post he held until 1946, when he went into private business as a sales executive for a Chicago transportation firm.

He retired two years ago.

Peterson wins French Grand Prix

LE CASTELLET, France (AP) — Sweden's Ronnie Peterson won the world championship French Grand Prix Sunday and it was a popular win, but the hero of the race was a young driver who didn't even finish.

Jody Scheckter, a 23-year-old from East London, South Africa who currently calls Watkins Glen, N.Y., "my home racetrack," confirmed the promise experts have seen in him by leading the world's best drivers for three-quarters of the race.

"I was in the lead so it was my corner," Schecter said. "I was balked by a slower car and had to change my line. Emerson tried to pass inside me, but we locked wheels and crashed."

Fittipaldi saw it differently, and the two drivers had an angry exchange in the pits over the crash. The accident cost Fittipaldi his driving world championship lead to Scotland's Jackie Stewart, who is bidding for his third world crown. At the half-way mark of the 1973 title race, Stewart now has one point over Fittipaldi, 42 to 41.

Stewart, 34, is likely to retire if he gets his third title to cap one of the greatest careers of modern racing.

Weekly bowling series draws 45

A total of 45 men and women participated in the first of a weekly series of moonlight bowling Friday night at Bowland Lanes.

Roger Shepard, of Bowland Lanes, said 23 men and 22 women participated and prizes were awarded in both divisions in the all scratch event.

Rick Donohoe topped the men's division with a 611 series and 215 high second game, while Cathy Terrell bested the women keglers with a 212 high second game and was second with a 595 three-game series.

Floyd Russell was second in the men's division with a 593 series and he was followed by Ron Shepard who turned in a 570. Pat Shepard's 599 was the best series in the women's division and Wanda Harlan and Mary Jo Carmean tied for third with identical 526s.

22. Houses For Sale

MILLEDGEVILLE

This 7-room house (5 down, 2 up) on Main Street is on a 58¾ x 165 foot lot with alley access along the side and in the rear. There are two small car garages or utility buildings. A shallow well water system with an electric hot water heater, supplies hot and cold water to the kitchen sink and bathroom which has a tub but no commode. The property is now rented. It is worthy of attention as an investment, or, it could well be the answer to some family's hopes of buying a home and upgrading its value by gradual improvement. At $4,500.00, it seems to have several possibilities.

Phone 335-3711 to look or discuss.

Opening lead - three of hearts.

Here is a well-played hand from a match between Holland and Denmark. Slavenburg and Kreyns were North-South for Holland and Kreyns very luckily got a heart lead from West. Playing in his usual rapid style, he won East's heart with the ten, cashed the ace of spades, and ruffed a spade.

A diamond to the ace was followed by aother spade ruff, and a diamond to the king (on which West's queen fell) was followed by a third spade ruff with the jack, producing this position:

♥ A 9 8 5
♦ J
♣ A

♥ K J 7 2 ♣ Q 7 — N W E S — ♦ 10 9 6 5 ♣ 5 2

♥ Q
♣ K 10 9 8 6

A complacent declarer might have thought he was in the most secure position possible, and Kreyns would have gone down one, after cashing the club ace, had he attempted to exit by ruffing the jack of diamonds with the eight. West would have overruffed and led a heart for East to beat the slam.

Alert to both dangers, Kreyns ruffed the jack of diamonds with the king of clubs and returned the eight of trumps. This method of play was bound to succeed and Kreyns came home with flying colors.

Treatment of Hemorrhoids

I would like to avoid surgery for the removal of my hemorrhoids.

I have heard that there are some drugs that can make them shrink or disappear.

Mr. T.J., Ohio

Dear Mr. J.:

I know no one who relishes the idea of having surgery performed for this or any other reason.

It is, however, wrong for you to discard the reliable advice of your doctor and the surgeon that surgery is the best treatment in your particular case.

Perhaps a better understanding of hemorrhoids may give you some insight into why your doctors have suggested surgery rather than treatment by drugs or injections.

Hemorrhoids are enlargement or swellings of the veins in and around the rectal opening.

There are two types of hemorrhoids, or piles, the internal and the external. Small hemorrhoids that are tender, swollen and itching can be relieved with local applications of soothing ointments and with baths and wet applications.

When piles are very large and chronically distressing, surgery becomes the better form of treatment.

Sometimes associated with piles come fissures and other complications which can respond only to operation.

New types of surgical treatment are now available. Many excellent advances have been made in this field to reduce the time of disability following surgery.

The choice of treatment can be made only by the discriminating judgment of your doctor. Your individual case is not necessarily the same as a friend's who may have had another form of treatment.

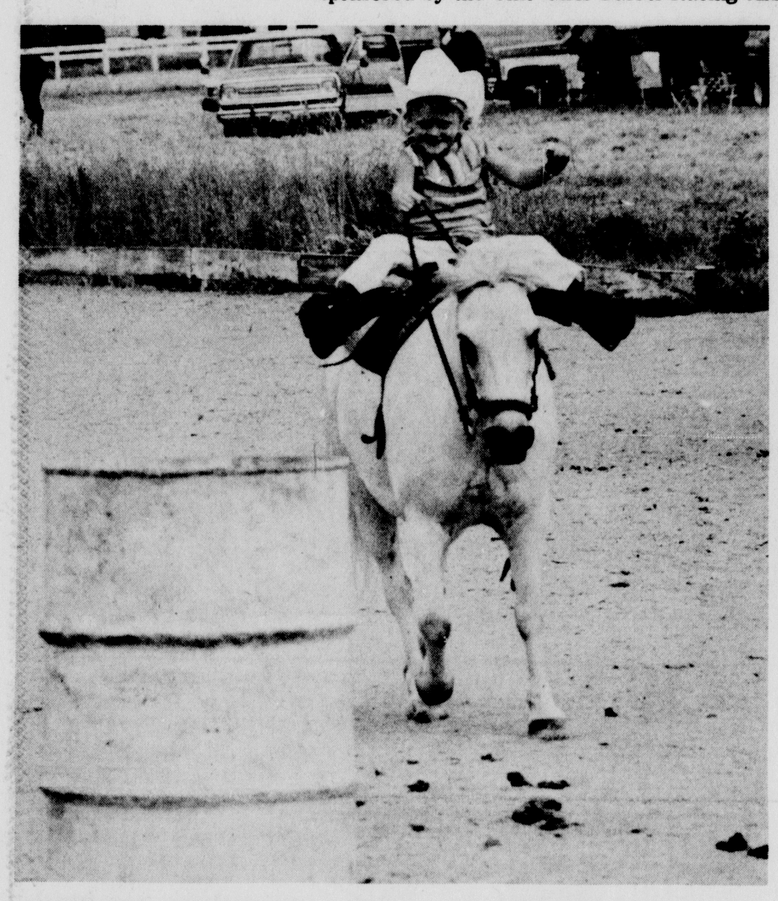
Horse show draws 205 entries

GRAND MARSHALS — Miss Marty Lutz, left, and Mrs. Linda Bailey, led nearly 200 horses in the grand entry for the horse show held Sunday at the Fayette County Fairground. About 700 spectators turned out for the show, sponsored by the Ohio Girls Barrel Racing Association.



YOUNGEST CONTESTANT — The youngest contestant in the Ohio Championship Flag Race and Horse Show was Jo Lynn Sheley, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Sheley, of Sabina. She was entered in the Kids Barrel Event, restricted to children 14 years of age and under.

The first Ohio Championship Flag Race and Western Horse show was termed a "huge success" by Mrs. Sandy Sheley, president of the Ohio Girls Barrel Racing Association, sponsors of the program at the Fairground Sunday. There were 205 entries in the seven classes of competition, representing five states.

Winner of the show's largest purse was Tom Hayden, of Anderson, Ind., who took home $400 for first place in the Flag Race. There were 54 entries for the event which had a total purse of $1,000. Kris Wolfe, of Washington C.H. was fourth in the Western Horsemanship competition, and Randy Williamson, of Jamestown, was fourth in the Kids Barrel Event. Dick Sheley, of Sabina, won the Barrel Race over 41 other contestants in spite of the fact that he rode with one arm in a cast.

Cash prizes to spectators were won by John Gault, Washington C.H.; Tom Williamson, of Jamestown, Mary Jo Dunn, of Sabina, and Kay Shinkle, of Sedalia.

Ohio Angus show held at Fairground

More than 200 Black Angus cattle, from herds in Ohio and other states, were on hand for the annual Ohio Angus Association preview show Friday and Saturday at the Fayette County Fairground.

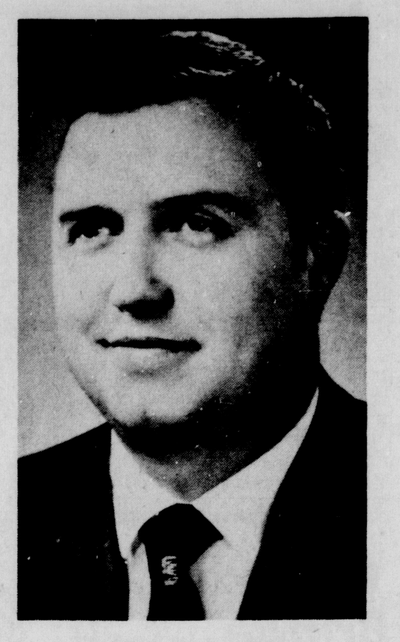
Kirk plans U.S. trip

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — Prime Minister Norman Kirk said today he has accepted an invitation from President Nixon to visit the United States later this year.

Cox named vice president of Sertoma International



CHARLES G. COX

He is owner and president of Sales Unlimited, Inc., of Columbus. Cox and his wife, Patricia, have four children, Dawne, Deborah, Garth and Teri, and the family resides at 902 S. Main St.

Cox was born in Washington C.H. and attended public schools here. He was graduated from Wilmington College, where he was the only four-year letterman to receive awards in all four college sports.

Active in his community, Cox is a member of Elks and a past member of the Jaycees. He is a past president of the Washington Pony League Football Association.

Cox was a charter member of the Sertoma Club of Washington C.H. in 1966. Elected to the club's board of directors, he also has served two terms as secretary, and in 1971, he was elected club president and received Distinguished Club President recognition.

In 1970, after serving one year as lieutenant governor, he was elected governor of the Southeast Ohio District, serving a one-year term and earning the Early Bird Governor and Distinguished Governor awards.

A life member of Sertoma, he was elected to the International Board of Directors from the North Central Region in 1971.

Sertoma International, a civic service organization with international headquarters in Kansas City, Mo., derives its name from the organization's slogan, "Service to Mankind." Founded in 1912, Sertoma International has more than 800 clubs and more than 30,000 members in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Puerto Rico.

City awaits clarification of trash-burning question

Open burning of trash, although illegal, is being temporarily permitted in Washington C.H. pending a uniform policy decision by City Council.

In a June 29 memo to city police and fire departments, City Manager Dan Wolford noted that those agencies have been swamped by complaints about open burning in recent weeks. He directed them to "not respond to complaints concerning the open burning of papers, etc." However, "blatant violations of burning garbage will be investigated as well as burning too close to buildings."

The memo said this temporary policy was needed due to the fact that city police and fire departments are not equipped to handle all the complaints without risking potential delays in emergency responses.

In addition, it said City Council must determine the adequacy of current refuse collection, and current collection services must be evaluated as to conformation with Ohio Environmental Protection Agency regulations.

The city's position on the burning question is to be clarified as soon as possible by City Council, Wolford said.

Open burning of trash is contrary to both city and state statutes.

Theft, vandalism reports checked

Three minor theft and vandalism incidents were investigated by police and sheriff's department over the weekend.

A bicycle valued at $60, was stolen Friday night from the Kevin Palmer home, 814 S. Fayette St. Palmer said the bicycle was parked on the sidewalk in front of his home. It was recovered later Saturday at the Sagar Store, Court and North streets.

Sheriffs deputies investigated a failure to pay incident at the KOA Campgrounds, Ohio 41 at I-71, Saturday morning. Sarah Yeoman, manager, said a camper had spent the night at the grounds then drove away without paying for the space.

The camper was apprehended a few minutes later by sheriff's deputies at I-71 and U.S. 35 and returned to pay the $4 charge.

Scouts train for Jamboree

Eight Boy Scouts from Troop 229, Grace United Methodist Church, attended a training camp this week in preparation for their attendance at the National Boy Scout Jamboree. They were Mike Hughes, Craig Davis, Rick Pfieffer, Derrek Gilbert, Bruce Stolsenburg, Tim Breitigan, John Rhoads and James Knisley.

The National Jamboree, to be held the first week in August at Morraine State Park, Pa., will host some 50,000 Scouts from the Eastern United States and Europe. It will offer an opportunity for boys to participate in skill training and competition with Scouts from other countries.

UAW gives support to Alum Creek plans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The United Auto Workers union has given its support to public recreational development around Alum Creek Reservoir north of Columbus.

The union said, "There is a pressing need for recreational facilities throughout Ohio and central Ohio has been neglected."

The U.S. Corps of Engineers has been constructing a dam on Alum Creek that will produce the reservoir.

Tiny brunette from Ohio wins Miss Indiana pageant

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP)—Karen Louise Rogers celebrated her 22nd birthday today, but she received a much hoped-for but little-expected gift Saturday night.

The 5-foot, 94-pound brunette from Arcanum, Ohio, was crowned Miss Indiana for 1973 and will represent the Hoosier state in this year's Miss America Pageant.

She said she entered the pageant with no thought of winning because of her small size. She described her emotions after winning as "a sense of disbelief."

Two other young women were winners in separate beauty pageants in Indiana over the weekend.

Lynn Free, 20, who plays tenor saxophone and flute with a rock music group, was named Miss Black Indiana Sunday night at the statewide contest in Indianapolis.

Miss Free, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie E. Free of Michigan City, is a senior at Indiana State University and represented Terre Haute in the Miss Black Indiana contest.

Mrs. Novak, a nude dancer from Plymouth, Wis., walked away with the crown after displaying credentials of 36½-22-35. The 5-foot-2, 107-pound beauty won over 26 other contestants.

Find baby near death

LONDON (AP) — A British newspaper offered a $2,500 reward today for information leading to the arrest of a kidnaper who took a baby girl from her carriage on a London street and left her near death in a suburban woodland.

The Daily Mirror said it hoped the offer would help police trace the kidnaper before another child is abducted.

The kidnaped baby, 7-week-old Kristen Bullen, was reported in critical condition at a London hospital, suffering from pneumonia. She was given a 50-50 chance of survival.

A nationwide police hunt failed to uncover the missing child who needed special drugs three times a day to survive a nervous condition. Two fishermen accidentally spotted the baby in woods near her home Saturday. She had been left without food or shelter for up to 36 hours, police said.

Big banks hike interest rates

NEW YORK (AP) — Major banks in New York and Chicago, following the lead of Philadelphia's Girard National Bank, posted ¼ per cent increases to 8 per cent today in their prime lending rates.

It appeared to be the start of the eighth general ¼ per cent increase this year in the prime, the minimum lending fee charged by banks on loans to large corporate customers.

The actions were announced this morning by New York's Chase Manhattan, the nation's third largest bank, and by First National Bank of Chicago.
